"The idea becomes power when it penetrates the masses."

—Karl Marx.

SPECIAL MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

SECOND SECTION

April 26, 1924.

This magazine supple-

This magazine supplement will appear every Saturday in The Daily Worker.

WHILE THE WAR WAS ON THEY PLEADED—

TODAY THEY RIDICULE AND FIGHT LABOR

land, in Java, India, China and Japan, in Spain and France, in the United will be a capitalist government, and and peasants have been slaughtered, the penalty for their heroism. States, Canada and South Americatens of thousands of the best work- class and keep it in subjection. ers are languishing in prison. They have been sent to these hell-holes for have succeeded in keeping the work daring to fight in the front ranks of ers apart. They are well organized, the workers against the brutal ex- but in every country they have carploiters. In the interests of the workers they have defied the authority of the capitalist State, and today are paying the penalty of their heroism.

Post-War Annoyance.

The World War filled the international bourgeoisie with great pride. THEY had won the war; they were the international bourgeoisie, whose well armed, the working class was split into warring camps. Despite the talist countries, has obliterated the fact that they had accumulated billions of debts; created values to the amount of more billions had been shot to pieces; and despite the fact that Stinnes, Thyssen and Walff have carthe workers and peasants of Soviet ried on one vicious campaign after Russia had taken from them one of the other with the aim of destroying the most fertile lands for exploitation, the unions. In France, Spain, Norway they felt strong. Many capitalist governments were on the verge of ruin Canada and Argentine, in Japan, Inand collapse; many shuddered before dia and Australia,-in all the counthe menace of the working class. The tries of the globe, the capitalists, or most courageous fighters will die in International bourgeoisie felt safe: they would not allow the proletariat of another country to seize power. Together they would drown the workers

In Hungary, the workers might attempt to establish their Soviet power; in Finland they might declare parliament their own; in Italy they might seize the factories and fight for State control: in Germany they might overthrow the Kaiser and proclaim the country a republic—the bourgeoisie did not fear. The war taught them the necessity of standing together. However much they may fight among themself for the spoils of war and for the right of exploitation-against the working class and the militant peasants they are a unit.

The Black International

Hence the workers of Hungary, Italy, Finland, Roumania did not fight against their bourgeoisie alone. Behind the bourgeoisie of these countries stood the mighty capitalist governments of France and England, aiding them with guns and ammunition, with millions of gold. Just as they had tried to throttle the Soviet Government with guns and aeroplanes from England, France and the United States; just as they sent American, English and French boys to shoot down Russian workers and peasants who threw the bourgeoisie out of their land for eyer-so, too, they aid the bourgeoisie of every other country in beating down and crushing the work-

The capitalist system of production is truly anarchic. But the capitalist mind is clear. The capitalists very well understand their mutual interests and they are organized to protect ed by one capitalist government only in the race of profits, for sources of last remnants of labor organization. raw material and fields for investment. Armies are created in order to shoot yet the standing armies of the world capitalist world is preparing not only curb the revolution.

The Bogeyman of Capitalism

The capitalists have operated well to befuddle the minds of the workers regarding the meaning of revolution. They have held up to them the "blessings of democracy," the "splendors of civilization." They have calumniated the revolutionists, the "Reds", the Communists. They have pictured them as bloodthirsty ruffians bent upon destroying the world. Under the pressure of the press, the school and the church, the workers have yielded the capitalist world, the workers are IS THE DEMAND OF THE HOUR. to the influence. But the spirit of re- rebelling. For five years in Germany volt cannot be curbed in this manner. they have fought against the com-Capitalist exploitation and capitalist bined attack of the German bourge-as long as there is a capitalist there its function is to crush the working five thousand more languish in prison,

The shrewd-minded capitalists the organizations of the working class, prisons, Trade unions, cooperatives, peasants organizations-all of them have suffered under the blighting hands of the capitalists and the capitalist governments. In Italy, Mussolini, the idol of methods they are copying in all capiunions and cooperatives and has turned them into organizations against the workers and peasants. In Germany and Sueden, in England, United tSates government.

In Italy and Poland thousands of the

In Spain, France, Holland, Finland, and Korea, the best fighters for the working class are tortured in the prisons; many are driven to madness and suicide, others are murdered.

The largest number of the workers have been told by the MacDonald Godare to fight for their freedom, the will crush them. But the masses fight on, altho their leaders and their best comrades are in prison.

Thousands Doomed To Death. Tens of thousands of the world's struggle for existence against the pil-; these are the bloody triumvirate pon they will free themselves from White reaction holds the working lage of the capitalist class and the which has strewn Germany with the capitalist tyranny... They must stand masses of the world in its bloody grip. brutality of all capitalist governments corpses of German workers and filled solidly behind the militant revolutiomasses of the world in its bloody grip. In Germany, Poland, Bulgaria, Italy, Roumania, Letland, Esthonia and Finthe most stupid worker the fact that ers who have dared to rebel.

brutanty of an capitant governments corpses of German, workers in prison. They must help the aid their families. They must help the In Bulgaria, five thousand workers imprisoned peasant who are paying

I The white terror in Europe and Asia five thousand have been sent into demands that the workers of the exile for fighting against the fascist whole world unite in defence of the imprisoned comrades and their families. It demands that the workers of bravest workers and peasants are countries where the hand of reaction ried on vicious campaigns to destroy rotting in the dungeons of capitalist does not yet press so heavily, form their Red Aid organizations at once, before the guns of capitalist soldiery America, Canada, Japan, China, Java and gendarmerie mow down the best fighters of the working class. SELF HELP AND INTERNATIONAL SOLI-DARITY MUST BE OUR SLOGANS!

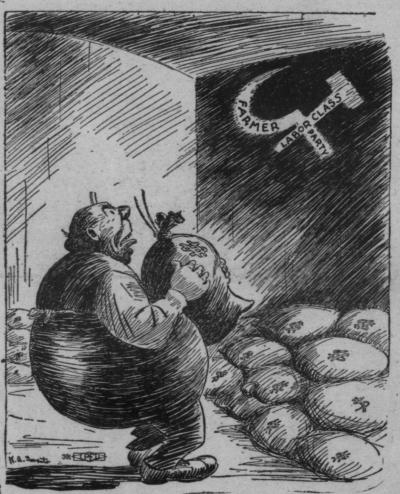

The International Red Aid.

The barbarous torture of the White who were massacred and imprisoned Terror caused the formation of the are Communist. The masses of India INTERNATIONAL RED AID one year ago. The need of it is apparent. In vernment of Great Britain that if they this short period, the International Red Aid has sent tens of thousands full force of the British Government of dollars to aid the fighting working class prisoners in Germany, Poland, Bulgaria, Italy, Spain, Hungary, France, Esthonia, Lettland, Finland, Lithuania, Roumania, Java. China,

> Where has this money come from? Chiefly from the Russian workers and peasants. The Russian workers and peasants cannot forget the solidarity that the workers of the whole world manifested towards them when they fought against international reaction in defence of their Soviet Government. They cannot forget the aid that the workers and peasants gave them when famine threatened their land. They cannot forget how, in the times of the czars, their political refugees were aided by foreign workers. Russian workers have given of their earnings. They pledge themselves to aid their fighting comrades abroad, and their starving families. They know that CAPITALIST GOVERNMENTS HATE MOST OF ALL THE POLITI-CAL PRISONERS, BECAUSE THEY ARE THEIR BITTEREST ENEMIES IN THE CAUSE OF THE WORKING CLASS. Russian peasants give of their grain; their last trinkets they contribute. FIGHTING WORKERS AND THEIR FAMILIES, MATTER WHERE, MUST BE SUP-PORTED. THERE IS NO MORE GLOWING TESTIMONY OF INTERNATIONAL SOLIDARITY THAN THAT OF THE RUSSIAN WORKERS AND PEASANTS!

Four hundred Russian workers and peasants are in the organizations of the International Red Aid. Their slogan is ONE MILLION MEMBERS by May 1. The workers and peasants of other countries should take an example from these workers.

There is no more urgent task than that of the International Red Aid. It is a powerful weapon of the workingclass against the White Reaction.

May Day Apparition

their interests. Armies are not creat ganized in their associations, and capitalist prisons. Tens of thousands leagues, have left no means unused in more must face capitalist courts to be to beat another capitalist government their campaigns to exterminate the sent to decay in the pest-holes of pris-

Betrayers of Workingclass

In this brutal onslaught, they have dren are doomed to hunger and death down rebellious workmen and militant been aided by the reactionary trade by the savage hand of capitalist "juspeasants. They are to help other ca-pitalist governments in subduing their ticians. These "iapor leaders" and reworkers. We have returned to 'peace' presentatives of the working class" -Ebert, Leipart, Turati, Modigliano, were the working class not disorgaare larger than before the war. The Jouheaux, MacDonald, Thomas, Gom- nized and disunited. The capitalist pers, Lewis-stand for "social peace," for another world war, but also to which means working class surrender. the workers of the world do not unite It means the acceptance of hunger in defending their fighters. The capiand starvation, of wages that will not talists do not ask about color and comkeep body and soul together, of pros- plexion. They are indifferent to race titution and child labor, of hours and conditions of labor that crush the cal affiliation. Militant workers are a very life of the worker. AND ALL FOR THE SAKE OF PROFITS! This torture and death are their reward. is the meaning of "social peace" which is preached and practiced by the reactionary, reformistic "leaders" of the working class.

such conditions. In every country of on, others to be shot. Tens, yes, hundreds of thousands of women and chil-

The international bourgeoisie could not succeed in its diabolical plans class will succeed still further if the or faith; they do not ask about politimenace and must be removed; prison

President Wilson first heard of Tom Mooney when the workers of Leningrad demanded his release. Dato was released from a Spanish prison after The militant workers revolt against the workers of France had demonstrated. INTERNATIONAL RED AID

International solidarity is the strongest weapon of the working class in the fight against the bourgeoisie. government-upon which the power of oisie and the French imperialism, who The working class must learn to stand the bourgeoisie rests-are teaching are aided by the upholders of social together as the internationalist capithe workers a better lesson. The peace. Poincare, Ebert and Stinnes- talists stick together. With this wea-

PHILADELPHIA READERS. ATTENTION!

Demonstrate Your Solidarity With the Starving German Working Class

Attend the

BAZAAR THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

May 1st, 2nd and 3rd KENSINGTON LABOR LYCEUM

2nd and Cambria St.

Tickets 25c for one day;

50c for three days On sale at 521 York Ave. and at 340 So. 5th St.

Auspices: INTERNATIONAL WORK-ERS' AID, Philadelphia Conference.

The Economic Conditions of the Landless Farmers in the U.S.

By LOUIS ZOOBOCK.

the first step on the "agricultural lad- hire out usually for the crop season, der"-in other words, the first step and those who work in gangs, at day toward farm ownership—is absolutely labor, or at specified tasks six to eight without any foundation. An investi- weeks in duration. gation by the Department of Agriculture for the period January, 1920, to greatest ultimate source of supply of March, 1923, for 94,000 farmers in 15 seasonal agricultural workers. Thoustates showed that 8.5 per cent lost their farms thru foreclosure or bank- of industrial depressions, emigrate to ruptcy and "that 15 per cent were in nearby farming communities for a fact bankrupt, but still held their few weeks or a whole season in order farms"; that "the percentage of farm to supplement their meager earnings. owners who lost their farms varied The conditions of life of this class of from 6 per cent in the North Central agricultural workers are such "as to States to nearly 20 per cent in the inevitably weaken their character and Mountain States." Another report physique, to make them carriers of showed very clearly how difficult it is disease, and to create in them a habit for an agricultural laborer to acquire of unsteadiness and migration." On a farm out of his earnings. In 26 the farms these workers are regardfarm management surveys made in ed as social pariahs; they are usually different parts of the United States lodged in barns and stacks. When it was shown that if the agricultural they return to the city to spend time workers tried to buy a farm of average value there would be nothing left the unhealthy and demoralizing influto live on in 13 out of 26 communi- ences of the cheap lodging houses, saties surveyed. "In other words, even loons, houses of prostitution, and othmaking no allowance for living ex- er similar establishments in the from sunrise to sunset, etc. penses there would be less than slums, but they fall easy prey to gamenough to make the annual payments on interest and principal, the deficit ranging from $28 to as much as $722. In eight of the remaining communities, after meeting the annual payments for interest and principal, there would be less than $200 for annual living expenses. Only in three communities was the remainder for living expenses above $300."

The farmers, under pressure of financial capital, are forced more and more into the status of landless agricultural workers; it has become next to impossible for an agricultural worker to acquire a farm; this will especially become clear when we describe the actual living conditions of the farmer-laborer.

Extent of Farm Labor and Character of Work.

In 1920 there were over 4,000,000 agricultural wage earners. Since that date the number has considerably increased.

The type of work performed by these workers can be classified into regular and seasonal labor.

The development of machine agricultural production; the heightened land values, caused thru the speculation of financiers, tend to prevent laborers from becoming land owners and to fix them as a distinct economic and social class. The "hired man" is now an established institution on the farms of the United States. The conditions of work of the 'hired" regular laborers are deplorable. They are characterized by long hours, poor housing and lack of social recognition. The hired men are "expected to do with their might what their hands find to do." The type of more or less regular labor work either by the month or year; they are boarded in separate boarding houses provided for them by the employers. Another class of farm workers lives either in self-owned or rented houses and hires out for wages by the day or month. In the South, where the Negro is the larger source of farm labor, racial self-owned or rented houses and hires lines are observed and the Negroes are separately housed and fed.

In many places the hired men suffer under poor living conditions and harsh treatment. This is especially true in those places where the factory system of agriculture appeared. On the huge estates operated by managers, the wages are often exceptionally low. The large estates embrace whole towns and counties and are a law unto themselves: they are dictators of the lives, liberties and happiness of their employes, because they control the schools, churches and local governments, as well as the chance and means of labor. Not seldom the workers are paid in coupons or scrip which must be traded out at the estate store. The absentee landlords, who generally live in the East or in Europe, thus sapping labor of its just dues and the local community to white and negro alike. It guarantees of its income. In the South, as it is well known, considerable peonage ex-

THE contention of many agricul- Seasonal labor at present comprises a large proportion of the farm worktural scholars that tenancy is only ers. It is made up of workers who the cotton fields of the South; Thru-

The industries of the cities are the between seasons, "they not only meet labor is that of seasonal employment. clothes for himself and family." This the wages are very much lower than description explains why the children the average quoted. In the South, of the agricultural laborers work on where the cropper system of tenancy out the cotton regions, children between the ages of 6 and 15 work in the fields performing a large proportion of the labor.

Somewhat similar conditions prevail in other parts of the country. In the sugar beet fields, "children of 5 and 6, thin, weed, pull, top, pile and cover beets at the various stages of the season." They work between 10 and 14 hours a day, which leads to countless accidents. A national Child Labor Committee says: wrists that were swollen and lame, hands that were sore, cracked and full of dirt, and knees that were sore, cracked, and calloused. The glare of the sun is a very severe strain upon the eyes of many children." Fingers accidently amputated in "topping" the beets, rheumatism and other ailments from exposure to all weathers, were cited as being all to common. On the cotton fields of California children as young as four pick blers, small private bankers and all tural wage earners are exceedingly sorts of parasites." Such is the lot long. They range from 9 to 14 per of the seasonal agricultural worker. day according to the type of farm, Child Labor.

The hours of labor of the agricul-

The Dream of Henry Ford

In the South conditions are shocking. Here, as professor J. Smith has have bacon, bread, coffee, clothing, ribbons, chewing gum, and other indulgences, but before the landlord will sell to them or 'stand for them' time for sufficient rest. at the country store they must sign the papers, tho it takes the bread from their babies mouth, keeps the winter shoes from their little feet, and deprives them of their only cows that supply their babies with milk The landlord sees to it that the papers are signed either with name or crossmark, and he furthermore sees to it as a rule that the amount he 'stood for' comes out of the crop before any of it can go for shoes, dresses, ribbons, or anything else for the personal use of the cropper. Such is the tenant system of very poor thruout the Southland, and it applies poverty to the tenant and deprives him of his freedom. He binds him- the average wages of the farm-hand States.

season and employer. In many places, where piece work prevails, the both sexes and all ages. In the Michihours are longer; and in the sugar gan sugar beet fields, it was found described there is a very "large class beet fields men, women and children that 14 families of four and five perof one-mule tenant croppers who are work literally "day and night." This sons, and four families with from six ground to plant them. They must individual farmers. In brief, the oldest 16 years, lived in an old counworking day on the farm is longer try store which had but one window; and mule-feed; they want tobacco, than the working day in industry; the wind and rain came thru the and the agricultural workers have holes in the walls, the ceiling was neither leisure for recreation nor

The wages of the agricultural workers are miserably low. In 1920, the colo county a family of six was found average monthly wage of the farm living in a one-room shack with no laborer was $46.89 with board and $64.95 without board. Since that date thru the open door. there was a decided drop in wages. In 1921, the monthly wages of the agricultural hand were: $30.14 with board, and $43.39 without board, and by October 1, 1922, the figures were $28.97 with board and $41.58 without board. At present they are still And there is only one answer to be lower. The figures show that between given; remove the cause; destroy the 1920 and October 1, 1922, monthly system that generated these evils, wages with board declined 38 per and this can only be accomplished cent; without board 36 per cent while the cost of living declined only class-conscious Farmer-Labor Party, the rent to the landlord, and it insures 23.2 per cent for the same period.

prevails, "life is reduced to its lowest terms in money." A study of conditions of 329 farmers in Chatham and W-ms counties, North Carolina, has shown the following results:

GROSS DAILY INCOME (1921)

			Per	person	d	aily
135	White	Owners		34c	a	day
41	Black	" "		32c	**	**
38	White	Renters		14c	44	44
		oppers		8	**
66	Black	Renters		16c	**	**
36	" Cr	oppers	*	10c	**	**

The above figures are fairly representative of the conditions which prevail thruout the South. The croppers, as shown, live on an average cash income of 8 cents and upon some such pauper wage the South over. Can they hope to ever secure and pay for a farm of their own?

Housing Conditions

The housing conditions of the landless farmers are shocking. They are characterized by unendurable filth. primitive sanitary facility and overcrowding. Thruout the rural regions of the United States, a marked contrast is noticeable between the housing conditions of the farm owners and farm tenants. An investigation of the Interchurch World Movement made in 1920 in some of the best farming sections of New Jersey and Pennsylvania shows wretched housing conditions of the tenant farmers; the houses were described as merely places, whose function was "to furnish a roof and rooms in which to eat and sleep."

In the South, the housing of the tenants is particularly bad. On many plantations, it is the custom to supply the house free of rent; the reason being that most of these rent houses "are not fit to house the landlords' hogs." The houses are usually very small, consisting of two or three rooms; the negro tenant's house oftten does not possess even glass windows; and "light and ventilation are received thru the opening that is protected from rain and by a small door on hinges." In most of the dwellings of the farmers "it is possible to study astronomy thru the holes in the roof and geology thru cracks in the floor"; and it is in a building of this kind that as many as ten people are housed.

The housing of the large numbers of migratory workers is beyond any description. The types of housing and accommodations include barns, "shacks on wheels," "bunk houses," shacks which are often mere coverings from the weather, etc. On the truck farms of Maryland, the camps provided for the workers are barnlike shacks; usually one or two rooms are shared by 30 to 100 persons of very low, and the smoke from the stove filled the room. Here the family ate, cooked and washed. In Tuswindows; light and ventilation were

Such are the living conditions of the landless farmers; conditions which they were thrown into by the ruthless exploitation of the capitalists. The natural question to ask is: How to remedy these conditions? thru the organization of a strong 23.2 per cent for the same period. whose slogan should be: A Workers' The figures quoted above represnt and Farmers' Republic of the United interestingly in the DAILY WORKER on the subject, "Communist Education-A Pressing Need." Substantially, there can be little disagreement with her opinion that Communist education has not been sufficienly emphasized and that there is a need of co-ordinating the various phases of Party activity so that each balances the other in a beneficial way.

A big problem of the Party is to gather organizational strength. strong organization campaign is essential. The Party has been carrying on political struggles beyond its organizational strength. It has gained much influence among sections of the workers and farmers thru its political activity, especially in the campaigns for a mass Farmer-Labor Party and for the protection of the foreign-born workers. Its political influence exceeds its organizational strength. It is necessary therefore that the Party gain more than it has organizationally from its political and industrial activities. Unless such an organizational strengthening is obtained, then the political value of the Party's work is somewhat diminished. In Germany, for instance, the Communist Party carried on immense campaigns among the workers; its ideas dominated the masses, but recruits to the German Party in a corresponding degree were not obtained. The masses did not fully recognize that it was the Communist Party of Germany which was instrumental in putting forward these ideas and slogans. Consequently, much of the work of the German Communist Party did not materialize in organizational gain. It did not receive the proper credit for its work. Much of the work must perforce, therefore, be done over again, in a measure, in order to turn the minds of the workers directly towards the German Communist Party as the genuine working

Workers Party Dynamo of F.-L. P.

The Workers Party has been, and is, the dynamic force behind the Farmer-Labor movement. This is recognized in a greater or lesser degree, but not sufficiently so. The emphasis of the Party has been on the campaign and propaganda by the Workers Party for the formation of a mass F.-L. P. and not enough on the need of organizing the influence thus gained into the ranks of the Workers Party itself. Propagandically, from the standpoint of gaining much influence for the Workers Party among the rank and file trades unionists and other workers, the July 3rd Conference in Chicago is an example. Leaving aside the question of the formation of the Federated Farmer-Labor Party, there can be no doubt that the Party enormously increased its prestige and influence.

But passing events, the swift development of the Farmer-Labor movement, sweeping into its ranks many who formerly opposed such a movement, or were lukewarm toward it, have resulted in the Party not holding entirely the influence obtained thru its farmer-labor party campaign. This is in part because the Party stressed the political necessity of a mass farmer-labor party, but not enough the role of the Workers Party and the need of organizing those of the Workers Party. Because the Party placed foremost, it seems, the F.-L. P. movement, but do not see the positive role the Workers Party played in it. Today there are more organizational campaign by the Workers Party.

Our Party played a tremendous role in the recent United Mine Workers Convention. It is necessary to organize this influence into membership into the Workers Party. Only the Communists, in the last analysis, can be depended upon. Many miners are very sympathetic to the efforts the Party comrades made at the U. M. W. A. convention. Strong attempts must be made to bring them make their influence felt among the prevailing in the Party. Still, unless into the Party and to acquaint them sympathetic, neutral or non-partisan the Communist understanding of the has been proved the correct political Comrade Rebecca Grecht writes the future activities in the U. M. W. A. can be even more positive and steadily broadened, and the work of transforming the U. M. W. A. into a revolutionary organization hastened.

Party Education Is Imperative.

Political, organizational, industrial and Communist educational activity must go on simultaneously, in as close a degree and ratio to each other as is physically possible. Then our members will better understand and more surely carry out the Party's political directives and other work. Even as the political influence of the Party is greater than its organizational strength, so also is the political activity not sufficiently countered by a corresponding Communist understanding on the part of the get out mass political propaganda, we have often run away from the members insofar as the mass of the memclearly what the Party was trying to clarity of the members on policy. The Labor Party policy, among others, is one. If there is to be a of the Workers Party in order that we faced by this situation, but even greater degree, the Party will find itin Russia the Party is confronted with the task of raising the cultural ganizational, industrial and political level of the nuclei (the Party politi- activity. cal units) in order that they may distinctly remain far ahead of the nonpartisan elements. Of course, purely pedagogical means are not enough; for the raising of the Party intellectual standard is a political problem, which means that besides the internal teaching mediums, the whole Party must carry out the Party tasks. Thus, thru schooling and struggle the level of Party understanding is raised. Every member then, must be drawn into Party life and made to understand that he is a necessary part of the Party organism.

Bring Branch Discussions To Daily Questions.

There must be at the Party meetmembers as a whole. In efforts to ings, especially in the branches, more discussions on topics very close to the daily lives of the workers. The large political problems will interest bers did not always comprehend the Party member, of course, but these must, further, be brought closer carry out. There was not sufficient to his daily life and to the lives of other workers. The branches should have discussion by the members on life in the shop. Every member can 100 per cent response from the mem- and should speak five or ten minutes self greatly handicapped in its or-

Education Thru Class Struggle.

Organizers and speakers who have visited the membership from coast to coast are frank to declare that not only must there be a greater intensification of Communist educational activity, but that there must be carried on activity to make the members understand how to carry out even the elementary and routine work of the

To build up the Party, to increase its political and other activities, we must have a trained officialdom. Functionary training must be made a vital part of our education. Organizational and functional strength, trained officials, will be obtained thru actual work in carrying out the Party program and thru functionary classes to hasten the development of trained officials. Functionary classes should be started wherever possible to teach the members how to handle meetings and other posts, large and small, in the Party. Each member should be assigned duties to perform with a view to building up the Party and learning thru work and experience the best methods of procedure. Communist education, whether in theory or in training of Party functionaries, cannot be gotten just from text books. A theoretical training is essential. At the same time, we must recognize that one of our slogans is: Education, not only thru books, but education thru active participation in the class struggle, in the daily lives and struggles of the workers. Education thru activity and activity thru education is our method.

Making the Work Cohesive.

Another need, in the writer's opinion, is to bring the members closer to the Central Executive Committee of the Party, and other official bodies, such as the District Executive Committees.

The Central Executive Committee must not be removed from the members, as if one were composed of the untouchable goods and the other of the lowly meek. Of course, this situation or impression by no means prevails.

There can be no doubt, however, that it would produce a healthy effect if comrades active in the various political, industrial, or other spheres, were brought more often before the Central Executive Committee to discuss and give their points of view.

Youth Is Keynote In Problem. In carrying out its political and other policies, the Party must not forget the Young Workers League movement. In the Young Workers League, an English-speaking young Communist movement is being developed. The real basis for an American leadership of the Communist movement which can make itself felt in the American labor and political movement is here being laid. Every encouragement should be given to the young workers' movement. Those who are joining the Young Workers League are new to the radical and revolutionary, or Communist movement. Their brains are open to clean cut Communist education and activity. They have not most of the confusion which many comrades of the Workers Party brought with them from the Socialist Party. The latter is nothing to be scornful about: it is merely a condition of fact. The young workers have been born into a period of militarism and imperialism; there are no pacifist illusions about them. They can grasp Communist thought and action without difficulty, whereas many Party comrades who have lived in the period of social reform and pacifism find it difficult. These are but a few of the reasons why the Party must lend strong encouragement and aid to the Young Workers League and thus lay a real basis for a strongly-knit Workers Party.

Shop Units Organization of the Party.

A very essential matter which must claim the attention of the Party more than ever before is the shop nuclei, or shop unit form of organization. The shop nuclei form of organization

(Continued on Page Seven.)

AND I MADE THIS SOUP ACCORDING TO THE RECEIPT OF KAUTSKY EMOCRATI K. a. Suvento Back Again!

bership, they must fully know and [on conditions as he finds them in his understand what is wanted. The shop and how it affects him and his need of more intense Communist ed- fellow workers. These are matters ucation is hence, as Comrade Grecht which are close enough to him to unsays, obvious.

The Two Forms of Education.

Our educational work takes on, of course, the forms of internal education, or education within the Party, workers close to it into the ranks and external education, or education among the masses. With the latter we need not deal here, except to say necessity of the formation of a farm- that our propaganda among the er-labor party and not enough of the masses must deal with the elemen-W. P. itself, many now accept the tary principles of the class struggle and the A B C of Communism. We must not speak above the heads of the members of our class who have, who will stress the need for a huge on the whole, never been affected by radical or revolutionary doctrines, but, on the contrary, have been poisoned against them.

> But the problem and need of the education of the membership has reached a point where every possible action to satisfy this need must be taken. The level of Communist understanding of the members must be raised; it must easily be above the understanding of those outside the as much has been done as is possible, Party, if the Party members are to even with the physical limitations derstand thoroly. This is always interesting.

An effort should be made to develop more systematically the Communist education of the members. Theore tical training will be obtained, in a large measure, thru study classes, lectures, discussions on important current events, a study of the labor movement, its problems in this country, etc. All branches must institute study, lecture, or shop nuclei classes. Whether the lecture, text books, or other methods will have to be employed by a branch or shop nucleus will have to be determined by the local conditions and teaching facilities, but a strong effort must be made to increase the educational and teaching apparatus. It is to be hoped that the Party can institute soon District and National training schools where the selected comrades can go thru a course of Communist theory and practice. One thing is certain, that not closely with the role and program'workers. Not only in America are members is increased in a much!

AT THE DOO

(Continued from Last Saturday.)

Please do not confound us with

If you wish to have the following

Sugar, refined1000 rbls. per lb.

-you will please state the quantity desired to our messenger, who will call 6 p. m. (old time) and the specified goods will be promptly delivered

A big bright star was to rise on Christmas Eve to unite all men-but mother of Doctor Federoff was busy making pies and was happy because a Christmas star would rise in the evening, because there would be pelmenis* in the house, and for once, no potatoes at all, and, above all, because Vassia was her only son-her all. And there would be napkins, and a table cloth, and kerosene oil, and sweets, and pelmenis—the best pel-

Joy mixed with deepest sorrow-was the mother's: sorrow mixed with stove for his mother, and his heart was overflowing with a fervent tenderness, with a fervent love for his troubled and happy at the same time, was fussing around the pelmenis, given at the Voyenkom's. There was an orchestra, waiters, geese, pork, cognac, cavalry, jjonka*, cakes, pies, candy, tableaux vivants, games of forfeit, charades, flying post, speeches.

It was a joint meeting of the third element, i. e., the Intelligentzia, and the representatives of the Communist on Christmas at the house of Ivan

Petrowitch Bekesh, for if some people could and did find various provisions in the starving city, Bekesh was completely helpless. Together with his wife, mother, god-mother, and child he was forced to live on potatoes which, altho including ail his rations up to July, were in just sufficient quantity to end the starving family's

But nothing special was happening

On Christmas Night a ball was sweets and the mutton pie.

His mamma, his mammy, keenest joy-was the son's. Doctor chopped wood and heated the no star could yet be seen.

450

700

Your Friends."

the numerous Fakers now common.

"Ladies and Gentlemen:

Sugar, pulverized 800

Meat, Cherkask .. 225

Meat. Russian 100

Mutton

trust your honesty.

Christmas Eve.

menis in the city.

munist Party.

Pork ...

Amusement, I suppose."

"I need it" said Kamynin and drew On Christmas Eve a special mes- the smoke. senger called at certain houses and

"It is for Olga Veralskaya, for my delivered the following confidential dear Olenka"-Doctor redoroff was thinking with acute pain.
"Yes, I suppose, as material for your writing."

"That's it, I need it as material." "But allow me to ask, Iakov Sergeyevitch, what you found interesting in it."

"Well, you know... Quite a lot, yes." around it?"

"Well, I do not know. Perhaps." They remained silent. "How about the diary?"

"I am afraid I can not give it to ya." Then the Doctor said aloud: you at this price."

'What price?"

"The one agreed upon. I am selto you. No deposit is required. We ling it to you only because you are one else."

"But nobody else would buy it except as wrapping paper."

right. Remember, however, that I of my love for Olga Veralskaya. Her "May be."

much, then?

"There is some of my poctry here, too.' "All right, how much do you want for the whole thing?" "Oh, you want to know the price? Upon my word I did not intend selling it. I really do not know."

human wretchedness" thought Doctor Federoff. "And what if one believes in nothing? Olga Veralskaya believes in nothing, and yet her comb is sewn up carefully with "Are you going to write a novel cotton so that no one may notice it is broken. And mother, mammy dear, is busy making pelmenis in the city. And all for him, for Doctor Fedoroff. But the diary is for Olga Veralska-

"Listen, it is getting late. I have a headache. Hurry up with that busi-

Ivan Petrovitch was watching Kaa writer. I would not sell it to any mynin turn the pages, and suddenly his face brightened.

"All right, I accept your offer; only, please, leave me this copy book. It "You are right. You are absolutely is quite small; it contains the story put all my soul into it, all my life." own notes on the margin are a precious memory for me. My first love. "And you want it for a thousand It is nothing to you. But to me her notes are most important. She wrote Doctor Fedoroff looked at the trem- them in pencil. Leave them there."

khorka is quite strong... Well, how and potatoes, and I can go on living and cultivating beauty for two years. I must write a book. I have written fifteen books already and each about a different woman. My wife, I think, is living with Tanatar. What does Olga Veralskaya really represent? She is very beautiful. What a beautiful woman-the one with pails!"

By BORIS PILNIAK

"It is the wife of Bekesh"-said Fedoroff.

"Maybe. But Bekesh is already selling his diary and I have still plenty of cod-liver oil."

"Iakov Sergeyevitch, are you not afraid?"

"I am, but I must write the book." Kamynin added that he had beside potatoes and cod-liver oil also some denatured alcohol. Then the two separated.

"Kamynin's wife was absent. Keeping his hat and coat on, Kamynin found an old sword, peeled some potatoes with it and cooked them. He was crouching on the floor, and as he went into his work his mouth twisted convulsively to one side. He drank some denatured alcohol, some codliver oil, and soon fell asleep. His face now bore a calm and bright expression, tho his lips were still nervously contracted.

And Doctor Fedoroff had pelmenis. There were also pies, napkins, a big lamp, and his mother was fussing about and repeating:

"Eat, Vassenka, eat, my darling, have some more, my boy."

The food was nice, but there were not enough pelmenis to appease his hunger. And his mother had been too busy to do her hair up for Christmas or to remove her old apron.

But all over the earth people were celebrating the holiday when Satan cast his spell over the earth for the last time before the coming of spring, sunlight and joy.

A note was brought to Doctor Fe

"The Soviet of the Workers' and Peasants' Deputies of the village Po-

Certificate

This is to certify that the refugee from Popovka, citizen Anton Iusofat Panashchiuk wants to be vaccinated against catching the cholera on his journey. His mother, who is in the city, wishes the same.

For the County Soviet, President I. PTITZIN.

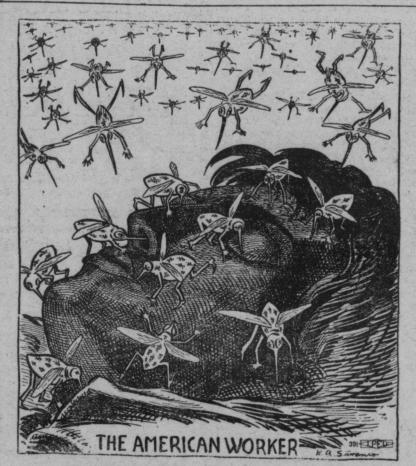

T CHRISTMAS people usually Adress in their best clothes, go visiting their friends, retire at 4 in the morning, make merry, organize soirees, five o'clock teas, balls, make love and feel reborn as it were, tho in reality they remain the same; they suffer exactly as they did before or dodge suffering-also as they used to do. On this particular Christmas day everybody went to the Communist Club. All day long comrade Tanatar was driving thru the city in his troika,* giving rides to every girl he knew.

And all night long Tanatar, the handsome Caucasian, Tanatar, lay like a huge tired cat before the holy images in the empty house of his father. The image lamps were burning in front of him, the silver of the ikons was shining dimly. Comrade Tanatar lay there crouching as if "My soul. And so cheap!"—this ready to leap, and his eyes, deep-set under the eyebrows, intense black And again the two walked silently spots on his dark thin face, seemed his heart was filled with love and thru side streets, in the deep snow, frenzied with the yellow reflection in the blue twilight. Only the red from the image-lamps. His wife, pale light in the West had now gone out, and white, appeared on the threshold

"Get up, Samuel." pressed more closely to the floor in vitch, I do not know where it is. Parts ing, towards them. She was wrapped maddening, agonizing fear. Once, at in a shawl and two pails were hang- the front beyond the Volga, Tanatar is quite strong; how are you getting have other parts. Let us speak of ing from a beam accross her should stepped accidentally on a black lizard. ers. Ivan Sergeyevitch looked intent- Its bowels leaked out, its eyes started "Nonsense; let us have done with ly at her and stopped, spreading his from its head; if Tanatar's wife had legs wide apart-which made him seen that lizard then, she would have Ivan Petrovitch got under the table look like Don Quixote and a pair of noticed that Samuel's eyes on this and took out a bundle of copy books. scissors at the same time. Then he Christmas night were exactly like the eyes of the lizard on that day in the

> "Get up, Samuel." His wife, all white was wandering that night thru

*Team of three horses. (Continued on Page 8.)

They Are Safe While He Sleeps

days by certain death in spring. Early on Christmas Eve Doctor Fedoroff and the writer Iakov Kamynin stepped in to see Ivan Petrovitch Bekesh. In the blue twilight they came, walking in the crisp snow along they came thru the suburbs and past vingt-et-un with his wife, mother, and something loathsome, his hat. Ivan Petrowitch knew why Still he said:

Well, how did you blow in? It's pain. quite an age since I saw you."

"On foot" answered Kamynin. "Yes." "Ha, ha ha," Bekesh snickered, "of course." "Have a smoke; the makhorka * on? "Hm... poor business. We live and eat, tho, truth to tell, there is pre- that first."

cious little to eat." Silence. Smoke.

"We came to see you about the

"Oh, I see, about the diary.

"Then you agree to sell it?"

bling hand of Ivan Petrovitch Bekesh and at his pale forehead. Ivan Petmany side-streets. Skirting the fields rovitch sat unnaturaly erect, fidgeting as if he were on strings. And houses buried in snow to the roof. in the movements of his body, in the They found Ivan Petrovitch playing sweat of his forehead there was nin; "it's a trifle." something god-mother. He took his guests into cringing, calculating, Ivan Kamyhis study containing a double-bed, a nin, who had written fifteen books, Japanese fan, and a table with postal and who looked like another Don cards arranged in symetric order. Ka- Quixote, sat there with his bony legs all the same. Still I am very sorry mynin who nearly reached up to the spread wide apart, with his hat on, ceiling, sat down without removing smoking wearily, speaking slowly and also wearily. "Olenka, Olenka, dear- from Bekesh. the writer and the doctor had come. est, precious" thought Fedoroff and

"Show me the diary, anyway."

Ivan Petrovitch turned to get up, then remained in his place.

"Upon my word, Iakov Sergeyeof it are in the lumber room and you something else."

"How disgusting all this. Very dis- said: gusting. And what if one believes in nothing"—thought Doctor Federoff began to undo the bundle.

"I have not changed my mind, but, "Have another smoke! The .Ma- * Pood-Forty Russian pounds,

"Yes, I can leave them" said Kamynin.

"No, no, take them too," said the doctor with emotion.

"Leave them, doctor," said Kamy-

"Vassia, you are the friend of my childhood days, leave them with me" -pleaded Bekesh.

"All right, it's all the same to -said Doctor Fedoroff. "All right."

and the twilight was driving the and said noiselessly: starry Christmas nails into the firmament. A beautiful woman was com-

"Have a smoke ... There is beauty steppe. even in pain. What a beautiful woright, I have not changed my mind, and turned his glance away. Kamy- man. Yes... and do you know, I've nin rolled up another cigarette and got three poods* of cod liver oil

Death Brings United Front To Mexico

By BERTRAM D. WOLFE

In face of the tremendous loss of their greatest national figure, Felipe Carrillo, and their greatest interdistrict here joined hands irrespective of party or faction in the most complete united front that Mexico has ever seen. In the auditorium of the school of engineering assembled members of the Agrarian, Communist, and Labor Parties and of the Socialist Party of the Southeast. Louis N. Morones, leader of the Mexican Federation of Labor, presided over the memorial meeting. Gutierrez Cruz, president of the League of Revolutionary Writers, bitter personal enemy of Morones, stood on the same platform to recite a poem he had written in honor of Nicolai Lenin. What was perhaps more impressive was the joint presence of long-standing political enemies on the same platform united in the bond of a common sor-

Inspirational Atmosphere.

The vast auditorium was decorated by the Union of Communist Painters. The center of the platform was occupied by an enormous canvas of the face of Lenin painted by Mexico's greatest artist, Diego Rivera, who had known the great Communist leader personally, and put all his love and admiration for the man in his futuristic canvas painted in jet black upon a red background. To the side of the Lenin painting was one painted by Xevier Guerrero of the dreamer's toils. face of Felipe Carrillo, martyr governor of Yucatan, Socialist leader killed by the rebels in the recent uprising. The foreground of the stage was decorated to represent the soil, symbol of the agrarian movement in this dominantly agrarian country. The soil was jet black and torn by red furrows, and on it stood red plows with lem of the emancipation of those who black steel blades. Above the stage toil, under his able guidance. "The hung a silver hammer and sickle, and cowardly attack upon Felipe Carrillo o'ertopping everything else, the red is useless," concluded the minister of star of Communism, illuminated, and Agriculture. "His work lives on and casting over everything a strong red his murder will be costly to the glow.

gends such as; "The rifle in proletar- responsible for the assassination, ian hands is the guarantee of liber- for he is transfused into the blood ty"; "The hennequen of Yucatan ties the sheaves of Russian wheat"; "Peasant, the earth yields a hundred complete his work." for one and you get one for a hundred"; and most prominent of all-"Lenin has died but his work continues."

The meeting was opened by a speech of Diego Rivera on behalf of the Communist Party of Mexico. He traced the significance of Lenin in the world revolutionary movement, declaring that Leninism consisted above all in the judging aright of the role of the farmer and peasant in the revolutionary struggle. He pointed out that the slogan of 1905 of "a workers' and peasants' government", the slogan, "All power to the Soviets" of 1917, the new economic policy, the so-called Trotzky shears, and the formation by the Communist International of an international peasant-farmer organization, were logical realistic applications of the leninist estimate of the significance of the peasantry.

"Lenin Lives-Carrillo Lives!"

Turning with great emotion to the lifelike face he had painted on the stage, he declared: "Lenin lives! Carrillo lives! In the audience and in the Mexican region there are thousands of peasants, rifle in hand, avenging who does not work shall not"; "To, sudden drift toward Communism in the death of Felipe Carrillo and carrying on his work to complete socialization of the land. In Russia there are millions of peasants rifles in hand ready to defend the work of Lenin preached, applied to Mexico meant Luis N. Morones stood on the same national leader Nicolai Lenin, the and carry it to its conclusion in the peasants and workers of the federal socialization of the entire world. His work is the man and will live for-

> Followed two minutes of profound silence on the part of the audience and then Manuel Carpio, private secretary of the Minister of Agriculture, Ramon P. De Negri, got up the speak. He read De Negri's address to the audience for De Negri was on the Western battle front with the president. Lenin, declared the address was a man of sober realities. He preached no creed or dogma. He created no glistening dreams. For this he was the greatest leader the workers and peasants had ever had.

> The workers, the address continued, demand all and will continue to demand all till they win all. Lenin understood that to win all, a dictatorship of the proletariat was necessary. In place of the dictatorship of the Czar, he proposed neither the dictatorship of the bourgeoisie nor a personal dictatorship by himself, but the dictatorship of the working classes.

> Leninism, declared De Negri's message, implied a new social ethics. Sooner or later humanity would put into practice this Leninism. The triumph of labor was written on the dawn by Lenin. His name will live while lives on the earth one man who

Of Felipe Carrillo, De Negri's message spoke more briefly, but with equal intensity of feeling. He told how the Maya Indian and the mestizo (mixed breed) worker, had received a baptism of ideas from their great leader and how the Yucatan peninsula had been working out the probtraitors who have perpetrated it and The side walls bore manifold le- the rebel leaders who are morally of a host of workers and peasants and they will avenge his death and

> Followed the secretary of the Agrarian Party, Lauro G. Galoca. He summed up what Leninsm meant to him with a few simple maxims such as "he who works shall eat, and he

State Publishers of Russia (Gosisdat)

The Representative in the United States and Canada will fill orders

> RUSSIAN BOOKS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

12,000 Titles to Select From. Regular discount to dealers and organizations

Write for Catalogue.

Subscription accepted for: Isvestia$2.00 per month Economic Life$2.50 per month$3.00 per month Pravda

GOSISDAT,

15 PARK ROW, New York City

what he called Lenin's gift of knowing how to be mistaken.

Rifle Necessary Adjunct.

Followed again two minutes of silence and then a poem to Lenin by the revolutionary poet, Gutierrez Cruz. A band of 75 pieces played a funeral march and then Deputy Mena of the Socialist Party of the South East, of which Carrillo had been leader, spoke of the work of Felipe Carrillo in Yucatan. "Felipe's motto," he declared, "was: 'Give the toiler land, books and liberty.' Now from his death we learn to add to land, books and liberty, a rifle to protect these dearly bought freedoms from the oppressor."

Perhaps it is this realization of the lesson of the necessity of a proletarian dictatorship that explains the co acknowledged its debt.

each what he produces"; "Where certain circles in this land of conthere is no economic liberty, there tradictions, during the last month or exists none of the liberties whatso- two. Be the explanation what it may, ever," and the like. The justice he the drift is obvious. The fact that redistribution of the land to those platform with Deigo Rivera tho who tilled it. Caloca emphasized Morones said never a word, is eloquent of that tendency. The frank praise on the part of the Minister of Agriculture for the dictatorship of the proletariat is even more eloquent. "We thought we could do it peacefully, but the rebellion has proved us mistaken. We see we may have to borrow a few leaves from Russian history." declared Robert Haberman, ever an avowed enemy of Communists and Communism, in a recent interview to an American newspaper. At all events. the loss of the greatest leader that the struggle for social freedom has produced, brought for a night at least, the united front for which worker and peasant are longing, and all factions of the farmer-labor movement voiced their gratitude as Mex-

TOLEDO COMMUNISTS

Will Debate

TOLEDO UNIVERSITY STUDENTS AT LABOR TEMPLE AUDITORIUM

SUNDAY, APRIL 27

SUBJECT WILL BE

RESOLVED, THAT THE REFORM OF CAPITALISM OFFERS A METHOD OF HUMAN PROGRESS MORE BENEFICIAL THAN THE METHOD PROPOSED BY COMMUNISM.

The opposing teams will be three members from the Workers Party and three students of the Toledo University.

This Debate will be Educational and Entertaining. Don't Miss It. Admission Only 25c. Bring this add along with you.

Penetrating Analysis! Burning Criticism! Sound Logic! THE NEW AND SIGNIFICANT BOOK ENTITLED

The World's Trade Union Movement

By A. LOSOVSKY
General Secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions In this book, published in March at Moscow, and now made available to American readers, the leader of 13,000,000 trade unionists depicts, dissects, and measures the relation of forces developed before, during, and

The first book ever written dealing so comprehensively with this vital subject

William Z. Foster says: "Here are described every political, economic, and organizational force of the world's trade unions, and their role in the fight, developed since the war, between Reformists and Revolutionists."

112 PAGES, STIFF PAPER COVER, WITH PHOTO OF AUTHOR.

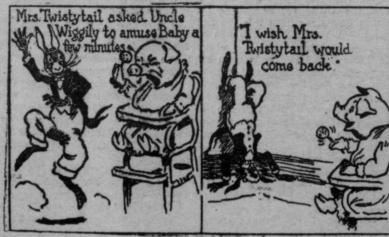

FIFTY CENTS PER COPY.

Bundle orders of ten or more, 35 cents each, with special rate on larger orders.

Trade Union Educational League, 1113 Washington Blvd. Chicago, Ill.

A special edition of this book has also been published for the Workers Party. Branches and members of the party are expected to a place their orders with the literature department at the same address.

UNCLE WIGGLY'S TRICKS

The Voice of May Day By Harrison George

silence will be more powerful than men by the tens of thousands to tram- Pittsburgh, the voices you strangle today!"-August Spies on the scaffold.

come from madman throats, the hysterical shrieks of homocide, the moans of the wounded, the mutterings of masses in despair... But the Social-Democratic Party, clear and beautiful with the beauty became a part of the First Internaof relentless purpose, there arises tional, then crumbling in Europe but above all the discord of the voices of those workers who would be free, voices which inspire and direct the struggle: voices which call to arms.

Because these voices were raised on May First, 1886, four workers were strangled to death in the Cook County Jail at Chicago. But tho these workers were strangled and the years have fled, their voices on this First of May, 1924, ring round the world!

What did May First mean in 1886? Whose were these voices? In what of the members of the International cause were they raised? Who strangled them?

The N. L. U. Sells Out.

For twenty years, since the Eight Hour Leagues joined in the first nation wide movement in the National Labor Union formed in 1886, labor had fought futilely and pitifully for an eight-hour day. But the N. L. U. was an undefined entity, directed by simple-minded or self-seeking leaders. The first begged scornful capitalist politicians for legislation, the latter sold out the workers. President Johnson lied to them, and tho eight-hour laws were passed in six states, they were never enforced. When this fraud was protested one governor answered that, "Every law is obligatory by its own nature and can derive no additional force from any act of mine." The sacred "right of contract" was injected into the laws by providing that only "when the contract was silent" on the matter of hours did the eight-hour provision become effective. Workers had to sign any contract presented if they wanted work-and there were hordes of unemployed. The soldiers who had fought to free the chattel slaves had merely created a fairly homogenous class of wage slaves and found themselves among it, unemployed and starving.

With the inspiring exception of the successful strike of 100,000 building and his fellows as their own. 1872, economis depression discouraged strikes and, naturally, the workers turned to politics; and, just as naturally, the theoretically ignorant, the organizationally mixed, divergent and inexperienced workers failed to accomplish anything. Even the socalled labor party formally started by the N. L. U. in 1872 was killed in the cradle by the treacherous leaders of the national trade unions withdrawing their forces-leaving nothing but an ideal, a shadow; for the N. L. U. was a hopelessly mixed body of Eight-hour leagues, co-operatives, local unions, assemblies and national trade unions.

But, then as now, the "no politics" of the trade union leaders transformed itself into capitalist politics: their spokesman, H. J. Walls of the Iron Molders, who said in 1873 that his union withdrew from the N. L. U. because the N. L. U. had "become a political organ," himself played the game of capitalist politics so well that he was appointed by the Republicans as Commissioner of Labor for Ohio in 1877.

It is necessary to understand the immaturity of the labor movement at that time, as well as the savagery need in representing its first unscientific efforts to ease its burden only a little, to comprehend the great collision of social forces on the First of May, 1886, and how those who lead the workers' struggle gave their lives the more necessary for the Party to to advance, if only by a step, the in- look itself over and see what are its its strength, influence and possibiliterests of the proletariat.

"There will be a time when our bor. Unemployment sent not only ping the country, but women and slaughter of thirty strikers by the mi- 1887. vation, blood flowed at the least sign and the murderous militia held back the blind rebellion.

> In March, 1876, Albert R. Parsons, who later died on the scaffold, joined guided by Marxists in America. How this flaming souled type-setter, then people responded. a member of Typographical Union 16, was influenced by Marxian thought may be seen by comparing the fol- do not go to work at once for a $1.50 in the chant of The Internationale. lowing instruction issued by the International as guidance to its Chicago section, with Parsons own expressions: Said the International:

"The trade union is the cradle of the labor movement, for working in those years. "Such treatment," people naturally turn first to that says Parsons, "Would of necessity they consequently combine first by trade. It therefore becomes the duty not merely to assist the existing unions and to internationalize them, but also to establish new ones. Economic conditions were driving the trade union from the economic to the political struggle against the propertied classes."

The Social Democratic Party faded into the Socialist Labor Party, which nominated Parsons for president in 1879. But we find Parsons writing from prison in 1886, in the same language as that used today by the Communists in the unions:

"Examination of the class struggle demonstrate that the eighthour movement was doomed to defeat. But the International gave its support to it for two reasons. First, because it was a class movement, therefore historical, evolutionary and necessary; secondly, because we did not choose to stand aloof and be misunderstood by our fellow-workers. We therefore gave it all aid. I was regularly accredited by the Central Labor Union, representing 20,000 organized workmen in Chicago, to assist in organization of unions and do all in my power for the eight-hour move-

We can understand why, tho the 'International", Parsons! here refers to probably was the secalled "Anarchist International" then following the to frenzy. Police "found" First International into oblivion, the Marxian revolutionists claim Parsons wave of general strikes of 1877 was against murderous Pinkertons and, in Spies, Adolph Fischer and George Engirls. The unions were wrecked, litia, first besieged the soldiery then clubbed and shot workers wantonly. of America? Let me speak, Sheriff! The Militia fired into crowds without Let the voice of the people be heard! compunction. Parsons meetings of 40,000. He was then Prewhen Parsons' group called for celeto compel you." So said the Sheriff my comrade, and-led by the Comof Cook County to striking workers munist International—they march to in 1885, and this exemplifies the reck- victory! less repression used by the capitalists which affects their daily life, and drive the workingmen to employ the same method." It would.

Group of workers, armed for selfdefense, sprung up everywhere. The Sunday before May Day in 1886. Parsons spoke at Cincinnati at a great eight-hour demonstration. Thousands marched in a parade headed by two or three organized companies of workers armed with Winchester rifles under the red flag. A rising tide ...!

The reason was that both national labor bodies had, in 1884, declared that on and after May 1, 1886, eight hours should constitute a day's work and that a general strike should de-Enthusiasm reigned-600,mand it. 000 poured into the unions in the first four months of 1886. Gompers in the old Federation was opposed, and Powderly of the Knights of Labor was indifferent; but workers every where believed-and Parsons and his comrades were with the masses.

The great strike broke on May Day 1886. Parsons says 360,000 struck, others say 200,000; 40,000 in Chicago. May 3rd, police fired on strikers, killing one, wounding several. At a protest meeting next day at the Haymarket, some unknown person threw a bomb, when the police attacked the crowd, killing seven policemen.

Tho the murder of workers was an everyday occurrence, the press suddenly went frantic over the dead police; the Chicago Tribune Times drove the "better classes" ineverywhere. Tho not one of the seven men who were arrested, or Parsons, who surrendered voluntarily, had been at the meeting when the The traditions of the 70's were bomb was thrown, all were pronounc-working in the struggle of 1886. The ed guilty after a farcial trial. Three were commuted and pardoned after witnessed by Parsons and the rest. seven years. Louis Ling robbed the workers | hangmen. Albert R. Parsons, August workers enraged by gel were hanged on, November 11 addressed Oh ...!"

From under the hood on that mornwages were but a disguise for star- drove them from the city. In St. Louis ing came the cry of Parsons, cut a workers committee ruled the city short by the crash of the death trap: Capitalism is insanity, its voices of resistance, the Pinkerton gunmar for a week. At Chicago the police "Will I be allowed to speak, O men > sident of the Chicago Labor As-sembly—its first president. In 1879, Sleep! Your life, your words, your deeds, your death, are today being bration of the Paris Commune, 60,000 told around the world. Your tongue was silenced, but your voice, the voice of the proletariat is raised "Now, men, I warn you, that if you today in every land, in every clime a day, the military will be sent here The flags they march under are red,

You Should READ

The Valley Of Enna

And Other Poems and Modern Plays

Price, $2.50

AND

The Education of Ernest Wilmerding

A Story of Social and Labor Unrest

Price, $2.00

Both Books By

E. C. Wentworth

For Sale By All Book Sellers

Both Books are in the Public Library

FIVE THOUSAND RAIC SHAREHOLDERS

let a part of their savings work for

Soviet Industry

Your money loaned for a limited period to the workers in the U.S.S.R.

Pays a Dividend

The principal is protected by Government.

An effective, intelligent way to help build New Russia

With a Ten Dollar Bill

and as much more as you care to invest.

Payments in installments of $1 if preferred.

Write for FREE illustrated booklet or subscribe directly, today, writing to SIDNEY HILLMAN, Pres.

RUSSI AN-AM*ERICAN* ABUSTRIAL CORPORATION 103 E. 14TH STREET NEW-YORK

EMPHASIS ON COMMUNIST EDUCATION

(Continued from Page Four.) form not only in Russia but also in Germany and is being proved so in other countries. The organizational and political roots of the Party must be in the shops, where the real life of the worker revolves. The shop unit lends 'itself splendidly to work to meet its greater political, indusshop unit is the political pivot around which the Party work will turn. In this the life of the workers as it appears at first hand can be keenly and understandingly discussed and the lessons drawn therefrom. The members organized politically in the shops, factories, etc., can be mobilized immediately for any campaign of the Party. It is essential that the Party take up more avidly the matter of reorganizing and organizing the Party on the basis of shop units, since they will be the greatest stimulus to political and industrial activity.

The Party is in a very healthy condition. It has carried on a great political and industrial activity; it has grown and gained strength. Branches are being organized daily. The Party is virile and alive. That makes it all most pressing needs at the moment. ties.

The Party has great political influence and is growing, but it is necessary to start a huge organization campaign to develop its strength to meet its political influence. It is essential, therefore, also to raise the Communist understanding of the membership

Intensify and organize Communist education in the Party; increase it manifold thru the starting of systematic education in the branches, cities and districts. The Party must make a great organization drive to draw in thousands more of the exploited wage earners and exploited farmers. The present Central Executive Committee of the Party is fully aware of these problems and is taking the steps to effect a more intense education of the membership, to organize more of the workers under the Communist influence into the Party. The Central Executive Committee is trying to lay the proper emphasis on each phase of Party activity: political, industrial, educational, organizational; and to co-ordinate these as one unit and thus carry out the Party policies with thoro understanding of the dark rooms. She passed to the kitchen where the hilarious orderlies were playing treeleestneek. the corridor one could distinguish by the light of the smoking night lamps saddles, swords, rifles, uniforms, shoulder straps all thrown together in great disorder. It smelled of horse sweat.

AT THE DOORS

(Continued from Page 5.)

"Get up, Samuel."

The snow storm was raging outside -the storm which told Olga the story of little Grandchild snow-flake. must, indeed, have been a witch's spell. It was almost impossble to move about that night. The wind swept down from the roofs, made somersaults, whirled in a fury, blew from the devastated fields. The snow was heaving like a sea-wave. Instead of walking one was almost forced to crawl thru the snowy dimness, the shrieking, groaning, howling whirlwind, the white obscurity, the white deadly song. And on this night three people were hovering about the house of Andrey Varalsky on the Sibirna Mountain. Tanatar left his house, and felt at once as if the white witch the snowstorm had sunk her icy hands into his neck. Tanatar drew his head in and his birdlike face with its aquiline nose stuck out prominently. And again it seemed that the man. like some beast, was ready for a leap. Up to his waist in the snow Tanatar ploughed thru it, crossing sidestreets, turning corners, until he finally reached the invisible house of the Veralskys. Nothing could be seen two steps ahead. The storm was sweeping down from the mountains and the steppes, flying at the houses with a strident cry. Some one came but on Tanatar's. right upon him.

The tempest almost drowned the words:

"Who is there?"

"The Commander of the Cavalry Division-is this Doctor Fedoroff?' Tanatar shrunk still further into himself, and Fedoroff did not know whether the cry that followed was the voice of Tanatar, the howling of the tempest, or the work of his own feverish brain.

"He is watching Olga Veralskaya. Olga is mine, I won't give her up. Look out for Tanatar-Doctor! He will kill you."

They separated, but met again, frightened, and having met, noticed a third person. It was a white woman leaning against a fence. And when they had passed her, Tanatar bent over Fedoroff and whispered in his

"That is my wife. My wife, Green sickness. She follows me everywhere; she knows everything but is silent, always silent. Bloodless. Doctor Fedoroff, Vassia, what an empty existence! Vassia, there is nothing worth living for. I am no better than a beast, uncultured, ignorant. And my wife, always silent, but knowing everything. She says that we must love man; we must love the worst examples of man-even Ivan Petrovitch Bekesh. We have forgotten man."

They crossed two side-streets, and met Bekesh. Ivan Petrovitch was standing near a curbstone on which he had hurriedly placed a package. in the glasses. The adjutant, Prince Having recognized them as friends, Trubetzkoy sat beside him. They he shouted gaily:

have ruined myself to buy some bread for Christmas. I am carrying streets in Moscow as well as of some it in the dark so that nobody will take it away from me."

"In this snow-storm everybody came to the house of Iakov Kamynin in the West of Russia, and his forof soup plates, peeled potatoes with factories were scattered thru several an old sword, sent for vodka, and chemin de fer amid the shrieking of the storm, the clatter of plates, and outbursts of laughter. All thru the night and the following day, the writer Iakov Kamynin and the voyenospetz Tanatar remained standing strawberries," answered the prince. at the old round table; they could not play otherwise. Oil lamps were still burning till the morning. table was cluttered with cards, thousand-rouble notes, glasses, plates, po-tatoes, tobacco. Tanatar's orderly pale and white, for regimental cash. cognac, Prince." Others, having left the table, lay down on the sofa, to get up after an than home-made brew." hour's nap and resume playing. The women left the room at daybreak and then." came back at noon. The room seemed like the faces of the players, haggard and drawn; the air was dense with smoke and charged with alcohol. The mind, exhausted with extreme concentration, wandered over the round table, the carpet-covered and dust-smelling sofa. The mind of the writer, Iakov Kamynin, was a dense gray like the smoke-filled room; and black, pitch black was the mind of the voyenospetz Tanatar. Doctor Fedoroff had gone to bed long before and was now speaking in his sleep. Kamvnin was probably right when he said to the newcomers:

Trefoil, a game of cards.

"Have a smoke. Cards, you know, are the only miracle in the world. Must be. That is why they are worth several sleepless nights. A miracle! Who does not dream of it? Queen of Spades, King of Trumps, and Nine -the unique miracle. And beauty. And woman-another miracle."

Kamynin, while playing, was writing at the same time mechanically on his calendar.

"The miracle of days."

The women came in the afternoon, after some hours of sleep. They cooked potatoes for the men. Kamynin's wife, however, Irina peeled po tatoes not for her husband, nor for anyone else but Tanatar. Kamynin himself, hardly able to stand on his thin legs, was also peeling potatoes, while his eyes looked somewhere far beyond. And Irina came and put her head not on her husband's shoulder

"Have you lost?" she asked in a low voice.

"Lost everything." And Tanatar smiled naively. "Regimental can."

"Much?"

"Two hundred." "Thousands?"

"Yes."

"Who got them?"

"Can't recall. Iakov, I think. Anyhow, it has been all spent on vodka." "Come to my room, I shall put you to bed.' "All right, put me to bed." And Tanatar smiled naively and helplessly. 'Is it still snowing outside?"

"No, the storm is past." Nobody had ever seen Assyrian women, but everybody was certain they must have looked like Irina. Cup-like breasts, almond-shaped eyes, hair like that of the stony Ariman, stiff horse hair hanging in plaits on her bosom, face and body almost square, almost stone-like and yet mobile like those of a circus woman. Irina had, in fact, once been a circus rider in Odessa.

The men finished drinking, crowded into the corners like flies on an autumn day and, keeping their military and fur coats on, went to sleep. The women were preparing the costumes for the evening masquerade. In the kitchen, the orderlies of the vovenos petz took a hand now at playing cards. Kamynin remained sitting at the table, where the game had been going on. He was writing in his calendar and drinking what was still left spoke to each other listlessly. Be-"You certainly frightened me. I fore 1917, the prince was owner of property extending over several estates in the Government of Moscow. Tambov, Veronej and Poltava. Kamynin himself had owned a whole town the writer. The guests drank tea out mer forests, wood-mills, mines, and governments, he himself could not tell exactly where.

"Let us send for another bottle of cognac, Prince," said Kamynin lazily. "It would be best to take a bath now and have some white wine with "Fresh strawberries. Yes. A good idea. But you know, when I am play-The ing cards and drinking champaigne. fresh fruit is all right to begin with, but after a while it's ham and cab-bage I must have."

Kamynin went on writing figures then repeated lazily:

"Let us send for another bottle of

"Let us send for home-made brew

"With red pepper and filet. We have plenty of bread."

"Well, there is no bread left, but that's nothing, we can have raw meat,

Kamynin wrote down the last figures, loooked at his calendar a long time, then stood up, his thin legs wide apart and his hands under his arm pits.

Tanatar, pale and with half-closed extinguished eyes, was lying in Irina's room covered with a plaid and resting his head in Irina's lap. Kamynin and Fedoroff came into the room together with the twilight. Kamynin made an effort to keep his balance and said:

"Have a smoke, Tanatar. Ira, I must write a book. A green forest, a birch forest, is cut down to be made into paper. Everything for a book. For beauty. Ira, you For beauty. are living with Tanatar and I need another woman-for my book. Let us discuss the subject. Good and evil, truth and untruth-that is all nonsense. Beauty is the thing. We must solve all questions in a very simple way. I mean to ask Olga Andreyevna Veralskaya to be my wife."

Twilight was descending. The window pane turned frosty blue. The church bells were ringing. Nobody said a single word.

"Olga Andreyevna Veralskaya! I must set it down very simply before "After all, the cognac is not better her. For the sake of beauty, for the sake of the book. It is all very simple.

> Twilight. Gray, blue twilight. Shadows were creeping into the corners. The face of Irina was the face of an Assyrian woman.

"Ira, we still have some cod-liver oil, we shall have enough for all three of us.'

"Tell us something about yourself, Iakov.'

"Well; life is nothing: beauty is all. Beauty and miracles. Let us quit life."

"Do invite Olga, Iakov, we shall drink together sometime. Imaginetwo tipsy women!"

Gray twilight. Tanatar suddenly bounded up like a rubber ball.

"Hey, a troika, vodka, Olga Andreyevna Veralskaya. . . . All here!" The orderlies drove up the Division troika harnessed to a sledge. Tanatar fussed about the room putting on a driver's suit. Then he took Irina into his arm and began to shout incomprehensible words: "Anara-taira!'

Tanatar took the driver's seat; Kamynin and Fedoroff sat down in the sledge. "Get up!"

Translated By Louis Lozowick (Continued Next Saturday.)

How many of your shop-mates read THE DAILY WORKER. Get one of them to subscribe today.

$1.00 Six Months

PICTORIA

In the May Issue! "THE MOVIES IN RUSSIA"

By WM. F. KRUSE.

A generously illustrated article by one who has travelled thruout Russia with a moving picture camera.

OTHER FEATURES

Democratic Japan The Famine in Germany......Max Bedacht
A Middle Class American Reacts to Russia....Karl Borders
Internationally Known Contri Interesting Photographs Internationally Known Contributors SUBSCRIBE NOW.

$2.00 a Year SOVIET RUSSIA PICTORIAL,

19 South Lincoln Street, Chicago, Ill.

NAME

STREET NO.

why there is no Revolution in Germany DEC how Soviet Russia is building herself up

A TALE OF TWO REPUBLICS

RUSSIA AND GERMANY

011
City		Place
PEORIA, ILL	April 26	Majestic Theatre
ROCHESTER, N. Y	April 27	Am. Cloth. Wrks. Hall
PEKIN, ILL	April 29	Empire Theatre
JAMESTOWN, N. Y	May 1	Eagle Temple
NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y.I	May 4	National Theatre
NEW YORK CITY	May 9	Central Opera House
BLOOMINGTON, ILL	May 12	Rialto Theatre
DEKALB, ILL	May 12	Star Theatre
DIXON, ILL	May 13	Family Theatre
DAVENPORT, IOWA	May 14	Northwest'n Turn Hall
ROCK ISLAND, ILL	May 15	Spencer Theatre
MOLINE, ILL	May 16	Avoy Theatre
ROCKFORD, ILL	May 17	Lyran Hall
AURORA, ILL	May 18	New Turner Hall
KENOSHA, WIS	May 19	German Amer. Home
WAUKEGAN, ILL	May 20	Workers' Hall
RACINE, WIS	May 21	Dania Hall

All Proceeds Go Toward the Relief of the Workers of Germany Thru the COMMITTEE FOR INTERNATIONAL WORKERS' AID Friends of Soviet Russia and Workers' Germany AMERICAN SECTION

19 So. Lincoln St.

Chicago, Illinois