JANUARY 21st-FEBRUARY 3rd 1995 VOLUME 2 NUMBER 2 PRICE 40P

CHECHNIA:

Nai

-page 5

PACKARD ELECTRIC is trying to blackmail its workers. They want them to work longer, to take less holidays, and to give up a relief break—all in order to create more profits for their bosses. Packard are owned by the giant multi-national

General Motors.

Right across the world GM is attacking the conditions of those it employs. They want to set workers in one country against those in another. But the Packard workers have resisted them despite the advice of their union leaders. They are absolutely right to do so. Ever since the 1960s, Irish governments have told us that governments have told us that we have to be grateful to multi-nationals "for providing jobs". They gave these sharks huge grants and tax breaks. Packard, for example, has received £4.5 million in grants.

But the days of grovelling to the multi-nationals are over. It is high time to stand up to their blackmail.

That means backing the workers at Packard Electric.

THE CAMPAIGN against the water charges took a major step foward when the new government promised to limit the powers of local authorities to turn off water supplies. and decided to retreat.

After a pitched batle at llview in Waterford Hillview against disconnections, the Coalition knew they had a battle on their hands

But some of the local councils are determined to extract revenge. In the Fingal Council in

WATERFORD:

DESPITE PROMISES that there would be no more disconnection's for non-payment of serv-ice charges local authorities throughout the country are maintaining the pressure on households. In Waterford the council sent intimidating letters to families that had refused to pay. The letters threat-ened to send the sheriff to take possession of goods to the value of the charges.

This prompted one woman to go to the corporation, offering to pay off £2. 50 a week. The corporation would have none of it. She then upped the amount she was pre-pared to pay back to £5. That offer too was refused, the corporation demanding at least £10 a week. The woman explained that she had three asthmatic chil-dren and that she simply couldn't afford that much. She was so angry with the corporation at this stage that she told them she wouldn't be paying anything at all.

Journalists defend O'Keefe

and tax evasion in Goodman International and the close links between big business

the hearing has been a disgrace. Politicians like Albert Reynolds have been whitewashed, while the hearing provided a bo-nanza for the state law-yers who earned £1,800 per sitting day and £1,000 per non-sitting

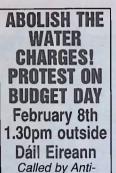

day. The Dail Committee

a penny. One person who is not finding the affair so councillors that the gov-ernment had not promised to stop disconnections but only to limit their use.

Powers

He is still demanding the same powers as the ESB and Telecom to switch off supplies. In Limerick, the council hauled some non-pay-ers before the courts.

Called by Anti-Water Charges Campaign

The Coalition is hoping the fight against the wa-ter charges will now disintegrate

But the Anti-Water Charges Campaign are or-

CLONMEL:

BRENDAN HOWLIN, the new Minister for the Environment, has threatened to abolish Clonmel corporation if they don't roll over and pass the estimates of expenditure for the new year. The estimates include provision for service charges which four members of the corporation are steadfastly opposed to, including Clonmel's Lord Mayor, Seamas Healy.

Healy. The other three are members of the Workers and Unem-ployed Action Group. They say they were elected on an anti-service charges platform and that they will not back down. The remaining councillors, from traditional established parties, have refused to vote one way or the other. This alone gives you some idea of the level of opposition to the charges in Clomel as a whole. As representatives of their community, the corporation should stand fast. Their community should back their stand and like other communities all over the country continue to campaign against these charges.

to explain the issues. They will also be or-ganising pickets of La-bour and Democratic Left TDs to demand that they abolish these charges fully.

Education: 'a question of money

CHILDREN'S performance at school can come down to a question of money. This Is what a new study by the Irish National Teachers' Association, has shown. The report shows that children from poor backgrounds are far more likely to drop out of secondary school. A study of twenty schools in disadvantaged areas found that 28 out of 100 children left school before the Intermediate Cert, compared to nine out of 100 for Ire-land as a whole. is what a new study by the Irish National land as a whole. More than one in four dropped out of schools in poorer areas before their Leaving Cert, compared to one in ten nationwide. "The way in which education has been funded has reinforced rather than lessened inequality within the system", the report stated. Primary schools still want parents to donate money. Parents who try to save two pence on the no-name can of beans can't afford to plough money into their kids' schools. The state of schooling in the schooling in the state of schooling in the school kids' schools. The state of schooling in poor urban and rural areas is so bad that INTO calls them "crisis schools". A teacher in one of these schools said, "Many pupils come to school late, having had noth-ing to eat. Children in our school have very poor foot-wear and clothing and classes are still to big due to lack of government money". The INTO report shows that poor working class chil-dren get enough education from the state to be able to work in monotonous, badly paid jobs. Meanwhile, the children of the rich can go to high-flying private schools where they are coached for entry to university.

THEY EXPECT US TO LIVE LIKE THIS...

and Fianna Fail. Yet the outcome of funny is Susan O'Keefe, the World in Action Jour-nalist whose work drew attention to the corrup-tion in Goodman Inter-national national.

26th.

She has been charged with "contempt" for not revealing her sources to the Tribunal.

She faces a fine of up to £10,000 and up to two years in jail for her stand. Her trial begins

on Thursday January

The National Union of

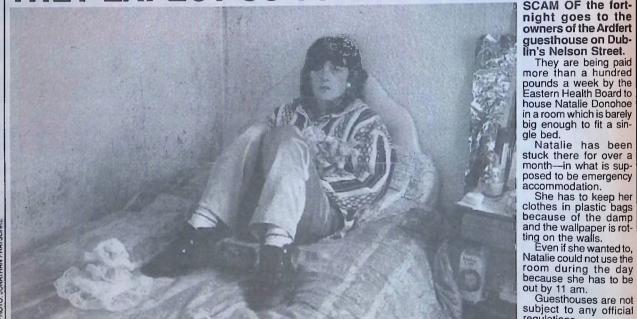

of Public Accounts re-quested that these lawyers, including Harry Whelehan, return some of their fees.

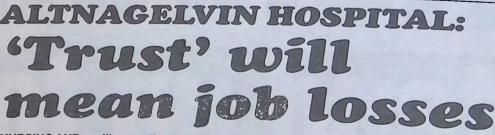

Laughter

When the Committee met on the 12th January there was "uproari-ous laughter" at the an-nouncement that none on them had returned

The National Union of Journalists is calling a protest meeting for that day. It is important that the picket is large and lively, to show solidarity with Susan O'Keefe, and to make vocal the disgust that most people feel at the corrupt practices of Ireland's close knit cir. Ireland's close knit cir-cle of politicians, judges and lawyers.

No Victimisation of Susan O'Keefe! Picket the Four Courts Thursday January 26th 11am Called By: National Union of Journalists

NURSING AND ancillary staff at Derry's Altnagelvin Hospital fear that the move to Trust status will mean job losses.

Altnagelvin is due to become a 'shadow Trust' in April 1995 and a full Trust in 1996. This means that the hospital will opt out of the con-trol of the Western Health Board trol of the Western Health Board and become a self-governing busi-ness instead. Under the present system, if a hospital overspends, the Health Board makes good the overspend-ing in the following year. If a Trust makes a loss, the Board will no longer make up the differ-ence so wards will be closed and nursing staff sacked. This is what happened in Britain where the first three years of Trust hospitals saw a loss of 5,850 nurs-ing jobs. At the same time as thousands of nurses were being sacked, the number of senior managers rose by 262 per cent from 4,610 to 15,590.

Shortfall

Closer to home, the Royal Victo-ria Hospital in Belfast axed 300 jobs and closed several wards within a year of becoming a Trust because it had a £6 million shortfall. A UNISON official told Socialist Worker, "the experience of Trust hospitals in the Belfast area has meant fewer nurses, more manag-ers; it has also meant fewer hospi-tal beds and longer waiting lists."

<text><text><text>

SCAM OF the fortnight goes to the owners of the Ardfert guesthouse on Dub-lin's Nelson Street. They are being paid more than a hundred pounds a week by the Eastern Health Board to house Natalie Donohoe

Guesthouses are not subject to any official regulations. As the Health Board placed her there, leav-ing is not an option with-out the money for a flat. The government tells us there is no housing crisis. But the reason why the Health Board uses B&B to house people like Natalie is because there are not enough

Bab to house people like Natalie is because there are not enough corporation houses to go round. In 1981, Dublin Cor-poration built 1,449 houses, but in 1991, just 48 new houses were provided. The result is that thou-sands of people are liv-ing on the street or in sub-standard accommo-dation. In 1990, the Health Board spent £220 putting people in B&Bs. By 1993, they were pouring a massive £273,222 into the pock-ets of private landlords. Instead of condoning rip-offs like Ardfert, the government should be building more public housing.

SOCIALIST WORKER PAGE THREE

think we nat

'S Q ACCORDING to Chechen sources, nearly

Forty people demonstrated outside Aeroflot's Dublin offices in protest at the Russian invasion of Chechenia

18,000 people have died in Yeltsin's grisly war to take this small country back into the Russian Federation.

The market econ-omy which Yeltsin championed has brought only poverty and hunger to the Rus-sian people.

Yeltsin hoped to im-prove his prospects by winning control of the oil supplies from the Caucus cuses. He needed to run a pipe line near the Chechnia region. This is why he launched the war. Yeltsin also hoped to bolster his power base by raising the flames of Rus-sian nationalism.

sian nationalism. Instead the second most powerful army in the world has been humili-ated by a band of guer-rilla fighters. Throughout all the cri-sis in Chechenia, the re-sponse from the leaders of the West has been one of abject hypocrisy. The US and the Euro-pean Union agreed that

The US and the Euro-pean Union agreed that Chechnia was an 'internal problem' for Russia. In other words, Yeltsin had a right to take over ownership of Chechnia. They only expressed "concern" about the kilings when too many bodies when too many bodies began to appear on the TV screens of the world. But it was a different story during the Gulf War. Then the US and the European Union cried about the "rights of small nations" like plucky little Kuwait It was the pretext they used to get control of oil supplies. Kuwait was an artificial country ruled by a Sheik whose family had been put in power by the Brit-ish empire. Chechnia, by contrast, has suffered centuries of oppression at the hands of the Tsars and Stalin's henchmen.

Profits

It has been able to re-sist the Russian army for so long because it is de-termined to win its na-tional rights.

The Western powers have never really cared about "freedom" and "de-about "freedom" and "de-mocracy". They are only inter-ested in protecting their profits and interests. They understand that Yeltsin acts the same

As long as they think he will bring stability to Russia, they think he should be let trample on the rights of ordinary people in his own backvard.

Brendan Smyth case: The cover-up con

THE DAIL Committee examining the Fr Brendan Smyth case is making little progress in discovering why the Irish state did nothing about this child abusing priest for seven months.

One reason for this, is that they are not al-lowed to examine the actual file on the Smyth case that was held by the Attorney General's office can establish who or-ganised protection for Smyth without looking at this file.

'Openness'

It is like looking for something in the dark without the aid of a torch

Dick Spring who promised 'openness' and 'accountability' has

THE REMOVAL of the British Army from the streets of Belfast during daylight hours is being held out as a great 'gesture'.

But it only raises the question of why regi-ments like the Paras are let out at night to harass and intimidate

The Tory govern-ment is playing a dan-gerous gamble on peace in Northern Ireland.

hey are hated by the

THE THORP nuclear

THE THORP nuclear reprocessing plant at Sellafield has not even begun commer-cial operation before finding itself in grow-ing financial difficulty. On December 23, 1994, the Krummel nuclear power ration cancelled it's contract station cancelled it's contract with THORP. A week later the Gundremingen nuclear power station followed suit.

power station followed suit. These contracts were for THORP's projected second ten year period of operation. The loss of the German con-tracts, worth £90m, means that the only remaining con-tract for that period is an un-signed deal with Scottish Nuclear and Nuclear Elec-tric

It is likely that more con-

ORP

complete their framework document. In the next few weeks, the Unionist Party will try to raise the sec-tarian temperature to gain maximum conces-sione mass of working people in Britain and find themselves dependent on the Unionist Party votes to stay in office.

Gesture

This is why every ges-ture they make is so late and tiny. The British and Irish governments are trying to tracts will be lost as German

In schools and college in the North, they are campaigning against the removal of 'God save the Queen' from graduation ceremonies in Queen's University. John Taylor has called on every 'Unionist worth sions.

his salt' to oppose the monster of an 'all-Ireland body with executive powers

This type of bigotry and fear is important for the Unionist party.

Dictated

It is what they have used traditionally to smother the class divi-sions between Protestants

As long as the debate

will also cancel contracts in the very near future" Socialist Worker has cam-paigned against THORP on the grounds that it is totally about the future of North-ern Ireland is dictated by the rulers of Britain and Ireland, the Unionist Party will maintain its power base.

office. This incredible decision was made by Dermot Gleeson, the new Fine Gael Attorney

No one has explained how the Dail Committee

general.

The Southern govern-ment is only interested in pressing for a form of joint authority which will give a forum to the Catholic mid-dle class to advance their interest want to adjust the bal-ance between the Nation-alist and Unionist middle classes What is desperately needed is a strong social-ist organisation in the North.

Such an organisation needs to point out how much working class people have in com-

It has to stand for the destruction of both sec-tarian states in Ireland.

not protested. Nor has Pat Rabbitte who claimed that there were documents that might rock the state to its foundations'. Instead, the inquiry is

Instead, the inquiry is being conducted by politicians who main-tain a gentleman's agreement with each other. They don't ask em-barrassing or probing questions. They even managed to make Albert Rey-nolds look capable. A serious and genu-

A serious and genu-ine inquiry, into the Smyth affair would un-cover the hidden links through which the Bishops influence Irish politics.

It would throw light on the secretive right wing organisations that operate at the top of the Irish politics.

It would reveal ex-actly how the Southern state operates as a sec-tarian state.

Fine Gael want to keep these matters out of public view as much as Fianna Fail.

That is why their At-torney General, Gleeson, is engaged in the same sort of game as Harry Whelehan: covering up.

Come along and bring your friends Fascism: Never Again!

Called by ANL, PO Box 4007, Dublin 1

nuclear waste is increasingly disposed of, rather than re-processed. A spokesperson lory cu S THE MEDIA and politicians claim the biggest problem in the North is the 'clash of cultures' between Catholics and But the real division-

ing to a new report.

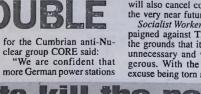

Protestants.

The Eastern Health and Social Services Board has found that in 1980 the rich-est 20 per cent were eight times better off than the poorest 20 per cent—by 1990 they were eleven times wealthier. The North has the high-est unemployment in the UK and the lowest family incomes. The report finds that poverty is destroying people's health: Mortality rates among the poor have grown and

kill the Mortality rates among the poor have grown and fertility rates have dropped. The number of teenage mothers is three times higher in deprived areas be-cause of less access to con-traception.

unnecessary and very dan-gerous. With the financial excuse being torn away, it is poor

Lung cancer is twice the North's average in some ar-cas of North and West Bel-fast because of pollution.
 Smoking is directly linked to stress caused by poverty and this in turn causes lower weight at birth.

birth. The Tories' policies of at-tacking the health service and putting VAT on fuel will only increase this hardship. Despite his talk of 'pence' Major stands over a system that is slowly killing the moor.

interests. They are incapable of ending sectarianism in the North—they only hard for the British govern-ment to conceal that they want THORP to go ahead in order to have control over the weapons grade pluto-nium the plant produces.

mon

Campaign

A second blow to THORP is the possibility of a suc-cessful European Court ac-tion against British Nuclear Fuel. Four individuals from Ireland, backed by a cam-paign group called STAD. Mary Kavanagh, one of those taking the action ex-plained her reason for doing so:

delegate conference of SIPTU.

THINGS THEY SAY

"We have to stop this sex lobby in Ireland. It's unnatural for anyone to go around naked. It's indecent. Be honest, where have you ever seen as ugly a thing as the naked body ? The Gardai should use the laws to stop this."— Councillor Joe Brennan (Ind). Ballinasloe opposing the Irish Naturists Association's demands for legalised nude bathing. "The Frenchmen who

"The Frenchmen who dazzlingly stormed that aircraft at Marseilles were in the line of their ancestors who turned back the Islamic conquest of Europe at Poitiers in 732."—Sunday Telegraph

"They say Flynn is a conservative, they'll tell you I'm a backwoodsman and maybe I am an oul' country bumpkin."— Irish EC Commissioner Padraic Flynn describ-ing himself in 1979.

"Priest friends have said to me they now saw their function as making sure the Irish Catholic Church got a decent burial."— Father Pat O Brien.

There has to be a missionary spirit in America which says to the poor kid—the We have got to help "We have got to help Mr Adams carry with him the people who are reluctant to see a ceasefire, who believe they might be be-trayed by the British government"—Sir Patrick Mayhew

inside the

ALBERT REYNOLD's speechwriter Tom Savage is out of a job. The new Coalition have not retained the services of Savage's company, Carr Communications, who fine-tuned Reynold's dazzling TV performances. Savage's contract was worth £36,300 last year. He drafted key parts of Reynold's Dail speeches in mid-November when the Brendan Smyth scandal erupted, including a piece expressing Albert's revulsion at child abuse. But Reynolds is not going to let his talents go to waste just because he's out of of-fice—his legendary eloquence is now be-ing sought after on the US lecture circuit. Don Walker of the Harry Walker Agency in New York is adding Reynolds to the long line of popular figures who have lectured across the US.

They include the poet Ralph Waldo Emerson who used to get five dollars per speech plus all the oats his horse could eat.

Reynolds will probably get between $20,000 and $30,000 for a single address. Forget the oats—ex-Country and Western Taoiseachs don't ride horses these days!

sales are low. Lochlann is a brother

Socialist Worker welcomes

Belfast Telegraph to be £395,000 per year—an increase of 100 per cent on last years salary. But Shorts have sacked

LOCHLANN QUINN has just put 200 workers

actories in Newry. The company pro-duces heaters but Lochlann says the 'warm winter' means of Ruairi Quinn the La-bour Party's first ever Minister for Finance. Ruairi should remInd his brother that the new Coalition is committed to job creation.

2,000 workers since pri-

14

RIGHT FOR

THE JOB?

THE LABOUR Party quite rightly opposed Al-bert Reynold's appoint-ment of Harry Whelehan as President of the High Court because he is a

Court because he is a conservative. But they are quite happy with the appointment of former Fine Gael TD Declan Costello to the job. But Costello is no liberal either. In the eighties he re-fused the appeal by Eileen Flynn, the teacher sacked from a Catholic school over her af-fair with a married man. And Costello is best known as the judge who prevented a as the judge who prevented a 14 year-old rape victim from leaving Ireland to stop her having an abortion.

having an abortion. Workers being asked to accept pay freezes such as those at Packard or at the Sunday Business Post might like to hear the results of a recent Irish Management Institute survey.

Survey. From April 1993 to April 1994 average managerial salaries in Ireland rose 5.7 per cent—over twice the rate of inflation.

dividend

conservative.

vatisation four years ago. A further 220 redundancies were announced last week

In Canada, a Toronto man bill from the Social Services Department because he had been overpaid on his welfare. The department in-voiced him for an "outstanding over-payment amount (of) $00.1".

behind the headlines

by EAMONN McCANN

If you stand for this you'll stand for anything

I ing, or what elephant-think-ing amounts to? But the idea of human dig-nity is something we all can instinctively get a grip on. So where are the protesters out-side places where humans have pressure and training put upon them to rear up like programmed animals at the programmed animals at the sound of a "national an-them?"

Bigotry

Bigotry And God Save the Queen, for Chrissakes ... Unimagi-native words of bigotry and hatred set to a plagiarised tune pleading to a non-exist-ent being to prolong the ex-sistence of the head of an in-bred family of sleaze-ball parasites that sixty percent of the British people according to the most recent opinion polls want to give the bum's rush to? What spiritual blight surrounds the suggestion that bright young people with let-ters newly after their names should rise in acclamation of such an intellectually con-temptible proposition? What is the British mon-archy after all other than the supreme symbol of a system whereby some people are of the ir contemporaries build diszily, unchangeably, quintessentially different and superior? Any accept-ance of the legitimacy of the posed on a proposition that the entire population of the British State could be ar-ranged in proper serial odar ranged in proper serial order in a straight line stretching from Wandsworth to Windsor. It is not just allegiance to Britain but to a Britain thus structured that is sig-nified in standing for God Save the Queen. Herein lies the key dis-tinction between socialist and nationalist objections to God Save the Queen at the graduation ceremonies in Belfast. Fundamentally, we're not against it because it represents only "one com-munity".

munity". We are against it because it represents only one class -it represents only one class the parasite ruling class which in every capitalist so-ciety lives on and off the la-bour of working people. It is for this reason that our comrades across the water in the Socialist Workers' Party are at least as uncompromis-

Sort any the playing of "God Save the Queen" at graduation ceremonies at the Queen" at graduation ceremonies at the Queen" at graduation ceremonies at the Queen's in Belfast is at once wholly ridiculous
and middling significant. Mainly ridiculous
at motion antice is no way
for self-respecting human beings to behave anywhere,
anyhow.Images and the significant. Mainly ridiculous
and middling significant. Mainly ridiculous
south the south for God South the south for the south the so summoned to rise as one with Tony O'Reilly in his opulent castle, all savage differences and contradictions between them dismissed from mind as they buzz with a warm feel-ing of their "common iden-tity". It's not difficult to dis-

the shot difficult to dis-cern whose life-style is pro-tected by this sort of baloney. None of this is to deny that the controversy at Queen's has its own particular conno-tation, to do with the sectari-anism in which the institutation, to do with the sectari-anism in which the institu-tions of the North are steeped. Every Unionist group and party went ape-shit when the university senate agreed to drop the anthem, arguing that this was both an insult to "the Profestual paceds" and a this was both an insult to "the Protestant people" and an ex-ample of the way Catholic Nationalists are steadily ad-vancing. Ken McGuiness said on Radio Ulster's "Talkback" that he had no problem ac-cepting "parity of esteem" for "the two traditions", but that to ditch the anthem was rub-bing Protestant noses in it. There is no context in which this position can be made to make democratic sense.

sense.

Northern Nationalists, for sound historical reasons, do not accept the legitimacy of the existing State. So to Na-tionalists, God Save the Queen is not "the national anthem".

Reverence

Thus, to offer "parity of es-teem" to "the two traditions" and then to insist that both and then to insist that does show reverence for an anthem which represents one but does not represent the other is to be either a naive fool or a sectar-ian knave.

If McGuiness's position on this matter of symbols—and remember that he is widely advertised as the most "mod-erate" of unionist leaders—is carried over into discussion of matters of substance, it is dif-ficult to see how constitu-tional talks can take place at all, much less arrive at a new settlement. If McGuiness's position on

On democratic grounds, Nationalists are entitled to have their symbols and their sense of identity "esteemed". If that were attained, it wouldn't amount to a settle-ment Socialists would think adequate. But the indications from the controversy at from the controversy Queen's are that it probability can't be attained anyway ies...

Family

OPEN LETTER TO PACKARD WORKERS WE THE craftworkers in TEAM Aer Lingus wish to extend our solidarity and support to you our fellow workers in Packard Electric. We ourselves experienced the same unjusti-fied attacks on our working terms and condi-tions. We understand and appreciate fully your sense of isolation and the tremendous pressure and trauma yourselves and your families are under.

inder. We fully support your struggle and the heroic tand you have taken to defend your rights. DENIS SMYTH, FOR THE AER LINGUS CRAFT GROUP OF UNIONS.

Many practising Catholics already agree with this idea and use contraception or live apart from their spouses de-spite what they hear from the pulpit on Sunday. For them

Have ICTU joined the bosses? AT A time when workers in Irish Steel, Team Aer Lingus and now Packard Electric are facing wage cuts. longer working weeks, lay-offs and done nothing to help workers. They have actually joined in with the bosses and employers in condenning the workers when they have refused to ac-cept the attacks on their pay and conditions. tary which was on RTE re-cently. It showed the ICTU or-ganising one hundred thou-sand people in a march and parade and firework display but they haven't organised one worker in defence of our hard won rights.

d conditions. The ICTU made a documenreligion is as Marx put it "the heart of a heartless world". Socialist organisations should not exclude from mem-bership people with religious ideas—that would be suicidal for any party that wants to or-ganise the many workers who are angry at the system but who still go to mass. We should openly argue about religion but our main concern is not to break people away from the Church but rather to force the Bishops to keep their noses out of people's private lives. ivate lives. DAVE MCDONAGH, DUBLIN.

The Pope: Losing his grip?

SA

over paid grey suited Congress officials with their Mercs and Perks who don't. It is the rank and file of the trade union membership who pay the high wages of the Con-gress officials. It is high time every shop steward and trade union activist organised to win back the trade union movement to what it was set up to be in the first place: "For the work-ers, by the workers" RITCHIE BROWNE, DUBLIN won rights. Instead the ICTU say work-ers must wake up and become realistic. Workers earning be-low the industrial average like the £205 a week in Packard do live in the real world. It is the

RITCHIE BROWNE, DUBLIN

around the wor Moscow socialist denounces invasion of ened to pull out. So Gaidar has toned down his opposition. What has happened to the people's living standard in the three years that Yeltsin has been in control? Chechenia

THE POPULATION of Grozny has sustained thousands of casualties. Houses, public utilities and basic infrastructure have been demolished on a vast scale.

The homeless have fied to the outlying towns and villages, where the rebels yow to continue the guerilla war in the event of Russian forces capturing the vow to continue the guerilla war in the event of Russian forces capturing us capital.

For the soldiers drafted in to spearhead the attack, the situation looks equally grim. Morale in the second most powerful army in the world has collapsed and desertion is rife. One soldier told the lrish Times:"We were living in tents. We were allowed to have one bath a week. It was cold. One night, 32 soldiers just got up and went home. Then we left too. There was no problem about leaving. We just walked out." Socialist Worker interviewed a Moscow socialist about the invasion and its consequences.

Why did the Russian army go in Chechnia?

Chechenia is strategically important for the Russian roling class. There is oil in the Caspian sea and Russia wants the biggest share. It also wants the oil transported through territory under its control.

That is why Russia tried to invade in November 1991 and has, ever since, been looking to bring Chechenia to heel. The invasion happened now because of political considerations in Moscow. The army leadership has come under pressure with netwarane evocute of con-pressure with newspaper exposure of cor-ruption. Defence minister Grachev is per-

In October a very popular Moscow jour-nalist, Dimitri Kholodov, who exposed many of the scandals, was killed by a bomb

Most people believe it was the military, yet Grachev declared Kholodov was a fool who blew himself up and Yeltsin backed

Grachev on television. This caused shock, lowering the lead-ership's prestige. But the real background is the economy. Yeltsin and the government are under increasing pressure. The rouble collapsed in October. At the same time the govern-

alt

A MASSIVE financial crisis in Mexico is sending a wave of

panic around the world's stock markets.

Since December 12th, the Mexican stock market has collapsed by half, the cur-rency by 40%. A shocked US administration has responded by rushing through a £25bn loan to Mexico.

If this amount were given to Ireland, it would pay off the national debt entirely.

At the start of the 1990's a new boom was proclaimed around the world. This was supposed to be proof of the superiority of the free market.

Just before the crash, Bill Clinton hailed the Mexican economic miracle as a model to be copied throughout Latin

The crisis underway in Mexico shows how weak the world economy really is. Brazil, Argentina and Chile

America

Since December 12th, the

ment annonced that economic decline in 1995 would be worse than in 1994. Eco-nomic activity has already halved over the last four years. The sectors which opened up to the mar-ket, in the belief that they would develop, have been worst hit. Russia is becoming a raw material economy. Oil, coal and gas have become the mainstays. The result is panic in the ruling class. Elections are also due in 1996, but there is pressure to bring them forward. Faced with this Yeltsin was tempted to play the nationalist card to show he is a strong candidate.

strong candidate.

Can you explain the events leading up to the invasion?

Until November the Russian tactic was opposition. The Russian Secret Service, the former

KGB, even recruited army tank officers and sent them to Chechenia to fight with e opposition. On 26 November they tried to storm the Grozny. It was a military fiasco with 70 Russian officers taken prisoner. Russia's rulers then faced a stark choice. Either they pulled out or they stepped up the military intervention.

Mexican

Remember the Russian ruling class has been trying to overcome its "Afghan syn-drome"—the legacy of defeat in the Af-ghan war. They have been building up for a show of strength.

What is the reaction to the war in Chechenia?

Shock, depression and shame. Many who see themselves as pro-democracy were appalled that Yeltsin could do some-

The level of lies from the government has been extraordinary. They said the Chechens had been throwing babies out of windows, taking children hostage and raping Russian girls.

Television, the press and parliamentary deputies have shown this is nonsense.

Have there been anti-war protests?

Opinion polls show up to 70 percent of people oppose the war.Gaidar, the former prime minister and leader of Russia's prime minister and leader of Russia's Choice party, called an anti-war rally in Moscow. On the first day there were 500. On the second day, 3,000. At first Gaidar was talking about im-peaching Yeltsin but that was quickly dropped. Kosirev, the foreign minister, re-signed from Russia's Choice because of Gaidar's opposition to the war, and the par-ty's major financial backers also threat-

The average wage has halved, but over 75 percent of the population live below the average wage, 30 percent live below the official minimum wage and about 15 percent live below the official minimum for biological existence. Meanwhile the rich have got massively inhore The richert 20 parcent became 40 richer. The richest 20 percent became 40 percent richer in the first half of last year.

So what is the balance of forces in Russia today?

Four years ago Yeltsin could mobilise hundreds of thousands on the streets. Now Yeltsin mobilises nobody. The West has totally overestimated Yeltsin and the reforms. Western correspondents talk about Yeltsin betraying the hopes of 1991 with-out realising that Yeltsin has extended his hand to the extreme right. He has also healed a lot of the rifts with the nationalist parliamentary opposition the nationalist parliamentary opposition that took place after the coup attempt. He is incredibly weak but there is no

He is increation weak but there is no obvious challenger. One of the most extraordinary recent events was when 10,000 people turned out on a freezing cold weekday for the funeral of the murdered journalist. But there is no organisation or individual that can channel that feeling or give it an outlet

outlet. The Nazis, and the Red-Browns—the alliance of Stalinists and fascist groups— can mobilise tens of thousands, but their demonstrations have been smaller than two years ago. An open Nazi who stood in a by-election in November got 10,000 votes, 6 per cent.

6 per cent. The Communist Party stands for the great Russian imperial tradition. They boast that Stalin was continuing the tradi-tion of the Tsars. It is viciously reactionary, using the language of nationalism and racism.

There is no party in Russia that work-

Russia that work-ers associate with standing up for their in-terests against the bosses. Russia is extremely volatile. There is talk of a military coup—but that would not end the ferment because the army is thoroughly demoralised and split over Chechenia

South Korea's President cons peace centre

AMERICA'S MARTIN Luther King Centre AMERICA'S MARTIN Luther King Centre has made an appalling blunder. They have awarded the Martin Luther King Prize for "non-violence and peace" to Kim Young Sam the South Korean President. The centre has been taken in by Kim's claims to be "fearlessly struggling for liberty." This is the man who has 436 people in prison for their political beliefs, including 36 members of the International Socialists. Amnesty has a more accurate picture of how the law is applied in South Korea, reporting that charges are brought against people "merely ex-ercising their rights to freedom of expression and association." The Committee to Defend South Korean So-cialists has so far organised protests in Dub-lin, London, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Seattle, Melbourne, Sydney, Canberra, Oslo and elsewhere.

elsewhere.

elsewhere. People wishing to show support for Choi Il-bung, one of 36 socialists facing trial in South korea, can now write to him direct. Send cards/messages of support to: No 136 Il-bung Choi, An-yang Post Office, Sasco-ham 35, Gyong gi do Eui wang-si, republic of Korea 430-son 6Ô0.

■For more information write to the Committee to Defend South Korean Socialists P.O. Box 1648. Dublin 8.

can style collapse. Even the weaker curren-cies in the European Union like Spain, Italy and Sweden have been hit by the

could now also face a Mexi-

Spain: Government 'supported hit-squad'

GAL, including the num-brook of the second resignation this week after revelations of gov-ernment support for a murderous "hit squad". Murderous "hit squad". Gonzalez, head of the So-cialist Party, is accused of involvement in GAL, a shadowy group which butchered 27 members of ETA, the Basque liberation organisation, during the 1980s.

writes one commentator. A poll showed that al-most two-thirds of Span-iards thought Gonzalez was Two ex-policemen pro-duced detailed evidence of government support for

SPAIN'S PRIME Minis-ter Felipe Gonzalez faced demands for his

No wonder a US treasury official last week declared, shockwaves from Mexico.

Globe

Behind the scandals lies a deep economic crisis which the Socialist Party expects workers to pay for. Gonzalez has been in office for over 12 years, but work-ers have faced a decade of austarity

Resentment has grown steadily over the govern-ment's welfare cuts and re-fusal to take action against unemployment.

Nearly one in every four workers is jobless.

lying when he denied knowledge of GAL's activi-tics.

austerity.

"you don't want this to spread all around the globe." The collapse in Mexico be-gan when Zapatista rebels in Chiapas, southern Mexico, re-launched their struggle for standards.

The crisis is set to continue as the tension between the government and workers in-

President Zedillo was elected last year on a slogan of "well being for you and your family". He promised jobs, real wages and more while generative

Jobs, real wages and more public spending. Instead he has attacked subsidies on food and rammed through public spending and privatisation. Inflation is set to double to 30% while the government intends to freeze wage in-crease.

As a result of the crisis the Mexican government will have difficulty holding the line But the financial crisis also means a significant addition to Bill Clinton's woes.

Instead of an expanding market and investment op-portunities, Mexico is now a disaster area for US business.

US pours in billions collapse

justice and better living

creases

PAGE SIX SOCIALIST WURKER

activists talk to Socialist Worker

DEMOCRATIC Left's entry into coalition has brought de-moralisation and disillusionment to many party activists. One councillor Colm Breathnach has resigned. Members activists Martin Hamilton and Owen Reidy, who gave their opin-ions on the present situation. S.W. What was your reaction to the new Coalition? M.H. My immediate reaction, in-tellectually and emotionally, was to resign from the party. On reflection I decided against leaving the party because it would have left hundreds of good comrades behind—I deof good comrades behind—I de-cided to carry on the fight to bring the party back to its founding principle ples. S.W. Democratic Left was founded as a campaigning party of the left. Is that still possible? M.H. No. I don't think it's possi-ble for DL to be a campaigning party any longer because it's a member of a right of centre government. You can't run with the hare and hunt with e hounds. Take for example the water rates

Take for example the water rates issue. For nearly eighteen months prior to them going into coalition we had campaigned up and down the country on the platform that water rates were a double taxation, that the PAYE worker was paying an in-equitable proportion of tax relative to the rich minority who own the majority of wealth in our country. We now have come to a situa-tion where the people are left in tion where the people are left in limbo.

Even though there's been a sus-ension of cut-offs, it's quite clear that the county managers do not accept this and are lobbying ex-tremely hard to have the power of water disconnections restored.

Imposing

Now how can Democratic Left campaign against the water rates when they're part of an administra-tion that's imposing them? It's an indication that it's impossi-

tion that's imposing them? It's an indication that it's impossi-ble for the party in coalition to go out and campaign on behalf of the unemployed, the people paying wa-ter charges, the poor and the dis-advantaged, because people will rightly say "how can you campaign when you're in government". It's actually hypocritical. SW: What will be the result of Coalition for DL? M.H. The party has got itself into a catch-22 situation, and I believe that the leadership, while they hon-estly wish to change society, don't understand the dynamics of the capitalist world system. What they're doing is looking for more crumbs from the table, rather than trying to create a system of politics that would deliver the whole loaf. In future people are going to be looking for a political alternative, and the vehicle of Democratic Left has been taken away. S.W.: Why did you join Demo-cratic Left? O.R. I joined DL in 1983 because

O.R. I joined DL in 1983 because in UCD and elsewhere have left the party. Socialist Worker spoke to DL activists Martin Hamilton and Owen Reidy, who gave their opin-ions on the present situation. S.W. What was your reaction to genuine democratic socialist organisation.

What appealed to me was the two sides of the party. There was a par-liamentary party and a campaign-ing party. De Rossa said that both wings of the party were to have a

are on the inside you find out what is happening. SW: What are the main reasons for your disillusionment? O.R. The problem that 1 soon found was that only the youth wing were interested in campaigning on issues

Des Geraghty was ditched in the run up to the European election and replaced by Pat Rabbitte. The aim was to pull the middle class vote towards us.

Minimum wage

On the NEC Pat Rabbitte spoke against the idea of a minimum wage. But no one argued back against him -- even though the party was supposed to stand for a minimum wage, SW: What was your reaction to SW: What was your reaction to Coalition? At a meeting in UCD with 35 peo-ple in attendance de Rossa said that "at no stage can I see us going into coalition with FF, FG or the PDs". But he did an about turn. DL going into coalition will con-fuse the working class. We have always said we were different. DL should not join the consensus of the wealthy in this country. During the coalition negotiations Bruton said that FG couldn't han-die abortion. The DL's did not even try to put it on the negotiating table.

die abortion. The DL's did not even try to put it on the negotiating table. The only clear commitment in the Coalition programme is one to deal with wild horses in urban areas. All the rest is aspirational. There are no figures or details. The DLs should have got some details be-fore they signed their death warrant.

SW: What prospects has the left got in Ireland.

It is probable that the only road open to DL is to merge with the La-open to DL is to merge with the La-bour Party. At the last election there was a great change in Irish politics. If someone had said ten years ago that two left wing parties would have 39 seats in the Dail you would have thought them crazy. Politicians such as Charlie McCreevy and Maurice Manning had even begun to talk of a Fianna Fail-Fine Gael Coalition. By going into Coalition. DL has

By going into Coalition, DL has thrown away the opportunities that are available.

A NEW report on harassment by the security forces in Northern Ireland shows that half of all Catholics have been harassed.

This makes lie of the attempt by the RUC to give themselves a non-sectarian image

The report*, published by the Commis-sion on the Administration of Justice, also

"Over one quarter of all young peo-ple in Northern Ireland feel they have been harassed in some way by the secu-rity forces."

The Commission on the Administration of Justice posted questionnaires to over a thousand 17-18 year olds in the North as well as interviewing a representative samof individuals.

Harassment ranged from abusive com-ments and "training of guns" on people to assaults and threats.

As a Protestant man from Moyle re-ported: "The army and police assume everyone is a terrorist and they treat you as they would them". The revealed showed the sectarian na-ture of the security forces. "50 per cent of young Catholics believe they have been harassed by the security forces".

Watched

This is compared to 12 per cent for young Protestants and 27 per cent for those who came under the category No Religion. A Catholic woman from Derry told about the low level harassment that happens on a

"You come out of your house and there is a cop at the bottom of your path and he asks you, 'Where are you coming from?

from?' "How stupid can they be, they have just watched you come out of the house. "They can be very dirty with their comments as well, about you and your comments as well, about you and your family". The police use their powers of stop-and-search to humiliate. A Catholic man from Newry said: "The Crown forces made myself and two other friends take off our shoes and cocks and made us walk around the town socks and made us walk around the town square while they held a gun to our heads.

"The RUC often throw stones at my-self and other civilians from the watchtowers'

The Police Authority point to the fact that new receive few complaints. they receive few com

But the report found that 69 per cent who have been harassed never report their com-plaints to the RUC. As a Catholic Newry man put it to the CAJ:

"In this State, harassment has become part of everyday life.

"There seems to be no point of com-plaint as the harassment still continues".

The findings are significant not only for the fact that they show how widespread harassment is but also because they dem-onstrate a shift in the way working class Protestants view "their" police.

Throughout the "troubles" Unionist poli-ticians claimed the police and army only gave out what Catholic trouble makers deserved

As one man put it:

"I remember being badly beaten in 1973 by the Parachute Regiment.

"But when I went to my local council-lors and the local MP there was no one who wanted to know me...they said you're saying these people (the army) are wrong and all you're doing is support-ing a Republican argument."

Nowadays resentment towards the po-

Rotten to the core

THE REPORT by the Committee on the Administration of Jus THE REPORT by the Committee on the Administration of Jus-tice calls for reforms of the police and security forces. But a look at the history of the RUC shows how the police in North-ern Ireland have always been sectarian. The RUC was formed in 1922 from two groups. The first was the Ulster Spe-cials which grew out of the sectarian Ulster Volunter Force. The UVF was set up in 1913 by the Protestant business class as an illegal pri-vate army. The new Unionist Government formed the Specials by legalising the UVF, Four out of seven of the Specials County Commanders were commanders in the UVF.

the UVF.

the UVF. The second group was the Royal Irish Constabulary. The Irish Constabulary "won" its Royal prefix in 1867 after it had put down the Fenian uprising. Its RIC was mainly Catholic with Protestant officers. Ex-RIC members were recruited to the newly formed RUC to give the appear-ance of a non-sectarian force. The proportion of Catholics had reached 20 put cent by 1924. Three years later the figure was down to 14 per cent. Two factors made the inexitable. made this inevitable made this inevitable. Firstly, the most RUC members were ardent supporters of the Orange Order 300 serving members—or a tenth of the entire force—were enrolled in one Or ange Lodge, the Sir Robert Peel Orange Lodge. No wonder a Unionist MP could openly claim that "the police force openly identified with the Orange Order".

Secondly, Catholics experienced discrimination and bigotry within the North The RUC, which was set up to defend that state, was seen as a force for oppression That is why even when there was no threats from the IRA, few Catholics wanter to join the RUC.

lice especially is more open.

ing class people. "I don't know exactly why the rela-tionship is so bad but it seems as if the Police in Newtownabbey aren't serving the community any more. They seem to be always cruising around looking for trouble". This backs up the findings of other hu-man rights campaigners.

Useless

17 year old Michael Tighe shot by RUC surveillance team in a hay shed outside Lurgan. The RUC claim Tighe and his friend aimed guns at them—there were three unloaded rifles in the shed. Tighe's companion was dragged wounded from the shed and a RUC man suggested "Finish him off!"

"harassment is not confined to Catholic

"harassment is not confined to Catholic youngsters but is carried out against Pro-estant youth as well". The organisation also stated that "lodg-ing complaints against security forces is generally seen as useless". As a Shankill resident said: "I think there was a general view that it was a Protestant police force for a Proi-estant people and that it was only lie Catholics that were against the State int there's more and more incidents of yourg Protestants who are starting to be har-assed by the Police ... the same kind if things that have been happening for things that have been happening for years in Catholic areas".

The report's author suggests that the is-lation of the police in Protestant areas gas back to the Anglo-Irish Agreement. The suggestion is that for most Protestants thy are seen to be soft on nationalists and now selling Ulster out.

now selling Ulster out. However this was contradicted by a Pat-estant interviewed in the report: "Throughout the history of the fra-bles on the Shankill harassment has i-ways been there". The recent announcement of an end b army patrols during the day in Betfast us welcomed by the UDP and PUP, shows that they had to respond to some extent of the feelings of working class Protestant. The experience of harassment for muy

the feelings of working class Protestants The experience of harassment for may Protestants as well as Catholics means the is little support for the security forces As one Protestant man put it: "When people call for more security they don't realise that more security means harassment. The only way that can work is by actually threatening p-ple".

*It's part of life here—The Security *It's part of life here—The Security Forces and Harassment in Northern in-land" by Dr Robbie McVeigh (Compa-sion on the Administration of Justice)

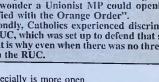

T

T ers mo of t creater any end

Cru

On the walls of Newtownards Road in mainly Protestant East Belfast, the words SS: RUC have been painted. In most Protestant areas there is grow-ing class pacely

Talk of reform wil

not change the... DNS

RUC cover up British army murders

he link Cost Form unit

4 per uni 7

rs al de On

teritin

be police for

425 ZY

Disband the RUC

THE NORTHERN Ireland Police Authority have written to more than three thousand community groups and are or-ganising a series of consultation forums on the role of the BUC

But this authority has never criticised the sectarian record of the police in the sectanan record of the police in the past. It has been boycotted even by moderate parties like the SDLP. Instead of inquiring into the role of the RUC, it is preparing a whitewash to justify their continued existence.

In 1969, another report, the Hunt Report called for "accountability" in the RUC. But it did not change its bloody record. The IRA ceasefire has revealed how bloated the RUC really is.

Troubles

There are more than 13,000 offic-ers, making Northern Ireland the most heavily policed area in Europe. The police are highly paid because of the troubles and the general in-creases given to them by the Tories. They will do everything to resist any changes in their structures. But the changes proposed will not end the bigotry and harassment. Even if more Catholics were re-cruited, they would still have to take from officers who defend sectarian bigotry. A local community police force for Catholic areas would still mean har-assment when people leave those

The example of Palestine also shows that even a police force recruited from the ranks of a national-ist movement can turn on its supporters ine state which the RUC defends is an inherently sectarian state. That is why there can be no real reform of the RUC as long as that state ex-ists. The state which the RUC defends

The RUC's bloody record

BHIDS

CANTO

1968: Police baton charge civil rights marchers off the streets of Derry.

1969: Francis McCluskey murdered. Samuel Devaney beaten to death by drunken RUC men who invade the Bogside.

1972: Torture at the Castlereagh holding station is revealed.

1978: Amnesty International report denounces maltreatment of suspected terrorists by RUC".

1982: A special unit, E4A, assassinates five unarmed republicans and a 17 year old Catholic as part of a "Shoot-to-Kill" policy 1984: RUC pressure leads to the removal of John Stalker after he tried to reveal the "Shoot-to-Kill" policy. 1981-1986: Five people killed by plastic bullets.

what do socialists say? Can the multinationals be eaten 2

by KIERAN

ALLEN

a nationalist response to capitalism is obsolete.

capitalism is obsolete. Socialists have been the first to recognise this and that is why the masthead of this paper has always proclaimed a fight for a "Workers republic and interna-tional socialism". But the growing inter-tional socialism". But the growing inter-national division of la-bour that capitalism has created does not mean that it has become all-powerful. It is wrong to believe, for example, that multi-nationals can iust hop from one coun-try to another in search of more profit. Take Eastern Europe.

This is held up as an immense reservoir of cheap labour and em-ployers such as Water-ford Glass have threat-

Modern Business only 10% of the applications

ever became opera-

massively expanding

All of this means that

"Helpless before Packard's Might" was the headline on Shane Ross's column in the Sunday Independent.

You could not helping feeling that Ross drew some pleasure at the sight of workers being tyrannised by a multi-national.

But the same idea that you cannot beat multi-nationals has also become a new dogma on the left.

The ATGWU is seen as a more left wing un-ion than SIPTU. But when it come to the crunch in Packard there was no difference be-tween the stance of both unions.

The reason is that both the left and right of both the left and right of the labour movement believe that "Globalis-ation" means that the multi-nationals can move around the world at will in search of cheap labour labour.

They see no real way of lighting them. Instead they urge workers to make concessions in the hope of keeping their jobs.

Disastrous

This is a disastrous approach. For one thing every concession or "give-back" to the em-ployers encourages them to seek more. Packard is a case in point. In 1987, by a very narrow vote workers accepted a no-strike ever became opera-tional and more than half of these were from German capitalists. It seems that multi-nationals are more inter-ested in using Eastern Europe as a threat to organised labour than in massively expanding narrow vote workers accepted a no-strike agreement. Since then the man-agement have been back year after year to seek pay freeze, higher productivity and even the removal of a small Christmas loan. Multi-nationals are

Christmas loan. Multi-nationals are like thieves. If they think you have a faulty lock on your door or window, you can be sure that they will be back. Capital today owes no loyalty to any one country. It sees all work-ers as unit costs who can be used to turn out profits. It has broken through national boundaries and created a world working class.

production process they need to have dealer and transport networks set

There is far more to moving than simply putting the machinery in crates. It requires a long period of planning be-fore similar structures can be set up in other can be set up in other countries. There are a host of other factors involved. They have to look at transport costs, at the degree of political stabil-ity, even at language and cultural issues which may affect their managerial structures. The last thing a multi-national wants to do is to have to move after its blackmail bluff has been blackmail bluff has been called. This is not to say that a particular multi-na-tional can never switch production. It is rather to recognise that the Irish labour movement cannot operate under the constant threat of blackmail.

Preserve

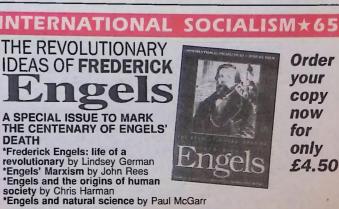

The starting point for workers cannot simply be 'How do I preserve my job'. It has to be 'How do I best improve my wages and condi-tions'. Multi-nationals, like

After the collapse of communism in 1989 there was indeed a huge increase in appli-cations for investment Multi-nationals, like other capitalists, are vul-nerable to workers mili-tancy. In fact the more they try to stretch their production process and make each factory re-sponsible for particular components the more they can be bit opportunities. But ac-cording to John Dunning in The Globalisation of components the more they can be hit. In September this year, General Motors was terrified because a strike at in one plant in Buick City, USA stopped supplies one key part, a torque converter, which could have closed down 28 of its 29 other plants in America. Instead of playing the multi-national game of multi-national game of competing against fel-low workers, union members should stand up to demands wage cuts massively expanding there. The reasons are fairly obvious. Modern firms are not just built around one workplace. Many capitalists use the Just-In-Time system where they cut down on stor-age costs by having supplies delivered at the point of their use. They have to estab-lish a network of suppli-ers who deliver compo-nents of the exact speci-fication and quality they need. At the end of the They should hit back hard by using the most militant tactics possible. Shop stewards should make links with workers in other countries.

Send all orders to Bookmarx, PO Box 1648, Dublin 8

PAGE EIGHT SOCIALIST WORKER

JANUARY 27 marks the fiftieth anniversary of the liberation of the Nazi concentration camp at Auschwitz.

The camp, which is a symbol of the crimes of fascism, was built in May 1940 on the site of an old World War I artillery barracks in Poland. It was originally designed as a place of punishment for Polish opponents of

It was originally designed as a place of punishment for Polish opponents of Nazism. By the time it was in full operation, Auschwitz Vasa made up of three camps. Auschwitz I housed Russian prisoners of war, gays and Jews. It was a labour camp rather than an extermination camp, al-though many died there. Auschwitz II was the purpose built extermination centre at Birkenau, two miles from Auschwitz I. The Nazis who called the, Jews Stucke or "picces" were determined that they be "processed" under six hours after their arrival from the train.

arrival from the train.

arrival from the train. After they were butchered their ashes were spread on a special SS farm as fertiliser. In all a million Jews died there. Auschwitz III was a huge plant built by IG Farben, the chemical company, which used mainly Jewish slave labour to manufacture chemicals of importance to the Nazi war effort. to the Nazi war effort.

During their rise to power, the Nazis used the Jews as a scapegoat for Germa-ny's economic ills. Hitler wanted his supporters to feel that "he is a superman though he be but a worm". Nazis felt like this when they could kick and terrorise this when they could not new any laws. By the end of the 1930s they had im-plemented strict racial laws against the Jews. Jews could not use swimming pools; they could not teach or work as doctors; they were not even allowed to own dogs. The first suggestion of the "imminent

The first suggestion of the "imminent were like bits of sandpaper which is rubbed a few times, becomes uselss and is thrown away to be burned with garbage"—Holocaust survivor. Theodore Lehman

Final Solution" came in May 1941 when Goering, believing that victory against the Russians was near. He spoke of the need to liquidate Jews and other "non-desirables" such as socialists, gays, trade desirables" such as socialists, gays, trade unionists, gypsies and disabled people.

Bolster

However, the Final Solution was only implemented in early 1942, during Ger-many's retreat from Russia.

It was an attempt to bolster the Na-zis' flagging ideology. From time to time, the German army complained that the extermination camps were destroy-

OF DEATH THE PROFITS

MANY OF the leading German capitalist companies of today made huge profits from the concentration camps camps. ■ KRUPS: This steel firm made huge profit. from the slave la-bour. After the war, the head of the firm was sentenced to twelve years in prison for his part in the Holocaust. But he only served three years and in 1951 he was re-instated as head of the firm. Today Krupps makes all sort of household prod-ucts and has a factorty in Limer-ick.

THORP: designed the cremato-rlum ovens at Auschwitz. In 1953 they were allowed to patent the method.

■ SIEMENS: Made millions from the Hitler Nazi regime and is now Europes leading electrical manu-facturer

Europes leading electrical manufacturer. BANKS: Dr Abbs was the banker who funded IG Farben which ran Auschwitz iii. He was never tried and after the war he was invited by the British to rebuild the German banking system. OTTO AMBROS: choose the site at Auschwitz for IG Farben and was sent to prison after the war. He emigrated to the US where he became an adviser to an American company and a consultant to the Department of Energy under the Reagan administartion. The company said that there

The company said that there was nothing wrong in employing him "years after whatever he did".

by JASON

ing valuable labour. But the Nazis

ing valuable labour. But the Nazis pressed ahead regardless. One of their big business backers, Gustav Krup said that "When you buy a good horse you have to accept a few shortcomings" The first systematic deportations to Auschwitz began in March-April 1942. The old, the sick and children were taken from the arriving trains and im-mediately gassed. Those fit enough were

"We were not slaves but less than slaves. We set to work and many of the rest were

and three hundred and twenty three girls under the age of sixteen were deported to Auschwitz from France. All were ga gassed. One of the most hellish aspects of the death camps was the Sonder-kommando, small groups of Jews se-lected to dispose of the corpses of those who had been murdered. The Auschwitz Sonderkommando ware formed to dia up the havid site sets were forced to dig up the burial pits near the camp and drag the corpses to spe-cially constructed crematoria, where they were burnt to ash.

cially constructed crematoria, where they were burnt to ash. Anyone who refused this work was ex-ecuted on the spot. By 1944 huge numbers of Jews were being used as slave labour for the Ger-man war effort at plants such as Monowitz, Buna, Jawiszowice and Blechhammer. During the war, the Allies recruited millions of women into factories to en-able their men to fight at the front. Nazi ideology, however, insisted that women should stay at home. This short-age of labour, combined with the mas-sive German losses on the eastern front, explains the importance of Jewish slave labour to the Nazis. As early as 1942, the Allies knew about the Final Solution, yet they cov-ered it up. In Britain, the BBC was or-dered not to broadcast the full facts about what was happening. One Foreign office official dismissed reports because they came from "Jewish sources." For two years the Allies refused to

For two years the Allies refused to bomb camps like Auschwitz because the operation, it was argued, would tie up considerable air resources. When it was finally bombed in Au-gust 1944 the death camp was not the target, but rather the industrial plant in Auschwitz III. This led the Jowish writer Arthur

This led the Jewisb writer, Arthur Koestler, who worked for British Military Intelligence during the war to com-ment, "a dog run over by a car upsets our emotional balance and digestion, three million Jews killed in Poland cause but a moderate uneasiness." Inside the camps resistance was very difficult difficult. But in Auschwitz on October 1944 a small group of Jewish prisoners blew up the crematorium with smuggled ex-plosives and killed SS personnel with the long hooks that were used for pull-ing bodies from the gas chambers. They were later hanged and shot.

As the Russians overran Poland, the

As the Russians overran Poland, the camps were evacuated and the Jews forced to march westward where they could be set to work in Germany. Ausch-witz was evacuated on January 18, 1945. Those too weak to march were shot. Tens of thousands were shot on these death marches whenever they happened to out the marches from Blechharmer alone. In all the Nazis murdered six million Jews. They almost succeeded in wiping out Europe's eleven million Jews. One Auschwitz survivor, Lilli Kopecky, believes that "this is the great-est strength of the whole crime, its un-believability. "The explanations, and the warnings were simply disbelieved. When we came to Auschwitz, we smelt the sweet smell. They said to us "there the people are gassed, three kilometres over there.' We didn't believe it."

/hy did it happen

THE HOLOCAUST was not an aberration of history. It did not happen because a few bad individuals got con-trol or because the German people suddenly went mad.

The Holocaust was the first modern genocide. It was totally dependent on modern technology and science, state bureaucracy and modern state bureaucracy and modern business techniques. In the camps the normal exploita-tion of labour, at the heart of capi-talism, was free from any restraint, legal, social, or moral. The slaves had no rights to pro-tect themselves and were literally worked to death. There were always others to re-place them. The life expectancy of the Jewish slaves in IG Farben's Auschwitz plant was three months. The workers in IG Farben's nearby coal-mines had a life expectancy of one month. Hitler could never have taken one month. Hitler could never have taken power were it not for the rupport big business gave to his party. They believed that Hitler could re-store profitability to the economy and rid them of the menace of trade unions and socialists. The Holocaust was only possible because the heads of industry co-operated with the Nazis

In recent years, fascist groups have begun to re-emerge in Europe in response to the economic crisis. Despite electoral successes, these organisations are extremely weak. They do not have the confidence to openly proclaim themselves Na-zis, or to beat their opponents off the streets, as Hitler's storm troopers did.

did. They try to claim the Holocaust is a myth, a Jewish fabrication. When they say that the Holocaust didn't happen what the Holocaust didn't happen what they really mean is that it doesn't matter that it happened. They hope to wipe out all memory of the Nazis' genocide, and so make its repeat all the more likely.

Re-emerge

If they ever came to power again they would produce another Holo-caust—but one that was far worse. That is why fascist groups have to be stopped organising. As Hitler hinself said: "The only thing which could have stopped our movement was, if our enemics had understood the basis of our movement, and smashed us with the utmost brutality from the very first day." first day." NEVER AGAIN!

McELLIGOTT

comment reviews Just a few pints

FOR ALMOST three months now the whole country has been talking about the new drink-driving laws.

Irish vintners are talking (bawling might be a more appropriate word.) longer and louder about them than anyone else. As soon as the festive season neared, they were up in arms, distributing leaflets to public houses nationwide and threatening to march on the Dail. Spokesmen warned of the danger to jobs, their voices so quaky with emotion you'd be forgiven for thinking they were from the National Organi-sation of the Unemployed. They claimed that the measures were destroy-ing the fabric of rural Ireland. Sure it's nearly as big a catastrophe as the potato famine.

potato famine.

But the National Organisation of the Unem-ployed they certainly are not.

Conditions

They are anti-union almost to a man and they couldn't give a damn about workers or the condi-

couldn't give a damn about workers or the condi-tions they have to put up with. It was they who sparked off the bar strike last summer when they refused to grant a pay rise agreed in the PESP or to negotiate pay-ment for staff who had to stay on working in their premises after their shift had finished. The VFI only backed down when most of the public refused to pass the pickets, despite the fact that it was a World Cup year. Their hypocrisy is as sickening as a bad pint. Just look at some of them. of them

Frank Towey is chairman of the Licensed Vint-ners Association and owner of The Fox Hunter

ners Association and owner of The Fox Hunter on the Lucan Road.
He was primarily responsible for the summer strike, telling union officials to: "Go back and fucking sell the deal!"
Charlie Chawke is a Fianna Fail activist and the owner of The Goat, The Dropping Well and The Oval. His total property is estimated at £4 million. He makes his employees sign a form stating that they won't join a union.
He said recently he'd spent £2 million last year and that he was a very worried man. I know the feeling, Charlie. Me heart goes out to yeh.
Sean Lynch, of The Bayside Inn is another FF man. He forced his entire staff to resign from the union during the strike.

man. He forced his entire staff to resign from the union during the strike.
Tony Gibney of Gibney's in Malahide employs students at the princely sum of one pound an hour and, surprise surprise, is anti- union too.
And Ryans of Dundrum barred a long-time customer who served strikers tea and sandwiches. VFI aside, the new laws do make life difficult for a lot of people at this time of year, particularly those in rural areas.

(You see, you can't hop on the DART, Bart or jump in a taxi, Maxi if you live in the wilds of Kerry or Donegal.)

Like most decent people in this country, social-ists back any moves that save lives but the pub-lic don't have to suffer for it.

Working men and women deserve all the breaks they can get these days.

They should be able to have a few jars without facing the prospect of stumbling through deserted streets, teeth chattering, frantically waving their last £5 note at every sneering taxi driver that cruises by.

The solution is simple.

Ine solution is simple. In rural areas, local authorities should ensure there are buses on stand-by to ferry revellers home when the pubs and clubs close and failing that, vinters should follow the example of some of their colleagues in providing lifts for their cus-tomers instead of squawking about the unfairness of the law.

Public transport in the cities should run round the clock, especially over the holidays, and the schedules and fares should be the same as they are during the day.

Think of the boost to the economy.

Think of the extra jobs, and think of how happy all those new jobs would make the VFI.

-MICK DOYLE

FIFTY YEARS ago the United Nations DAVE McDONAGH reviews UN was founded. Many Blues, Channel 4. people sought jobs with the new organi-sation in the belief tion stopped the US's sub-scription to the UN in the 1980's on grounds of corruption.

that they would be helping to bring about a better world to replace the car-

nage of two world

But as the recent Chan-nel 4 series UN Blues showed this illusion was soon shattered.

soon shattered. The programme docu-mented the witch-hunts against alleged communist infiltrators in the organisa-tion and the corruption at the top of the UN. In the late 1940's the UN headquarters in New York was infiltrated by the FBI and 'suspects' were inter-rogated by the McCarran Committee. Just as in the McCarthy

Just as in the McCarthy hearings McCarran de-manded that employees 'name names' or face los-

Anyone who took the humanitarian ideals of the UN seriously was seen as suspect. Even employees who resisted the Red

Cross's racist policy of segregating the blood of black people from that of whites were witch-hunted. At the top of the UN cor-

At the top of the UN cor-ruption was already setting in. The first Secretary General was Trygvie Lie from Norway who wanted to have the UN headquar-ters in New York because it was well away from the deprivation of post-war Europe!

Sleaze

wife.

Another UNHCR official

wars.

But that has not stopped the US from using the UN as a figleaf to wage wars against the people of Iraq

sordid history

and Somalia. Despite the best inten-tions of thousands of UN workers the body has never taken seriously the provision of aid for the world's poor. Instead it is a bureauc-racy fuelled by phoney research grants and an endless round of confernces. Behind the humanitarian image lies an organi-sation whose main role is to rubber-stamp the poli-cies of the US and other world powers.

erly belong-with the rul-The film is a beautiful and moving epic from a di-rector who has not hesi-tated to expose the myths perpetuated by the Chinese ruling class about life in the "People's Republic". It's a film not to be missed.

Lie was the first in a long line of UN officials who seemed more concerned with enjoying the good life than with creating a better world. UN Blues exposed this 'sleaze factor' with countless examples of corruption Fighter against apartheid Countiess examples of corruption. We saw a volunteer teacher in Kenya who re-ceived very little aid from UNESCO while nearby the local head of the UN used education funds to employ servants at his mansion. We saw how former UN High Commissioner for Refugees, Jean Pierre Hoch, resigned when it was revealed that he spent funds intended for the poor on luxury air travel for himself and his wife.

sympathetic obituaries all around the world.

Yet many of the same newspapers would have condemned his activities over the years. For decades the South Af-rican rulers hated Joe Slovo and tried to paint a picture of him as being an "evil gen-ius" working for Moscow to wreak havoc on the country. This hatred was based on the

This hatred was based on the fact that Slovo was a lifelong enemy of apartheid. When the National Party took power in 1948 and in-troduced a harsh apartheid regime, Joe Slovo, a mem-ber of the Communist Party, devoted his life to smashing the system.

Slovo was exiled from South Africa in 1963, by which time he had become a key figure in arguing for an alliance between the Com-munist Party and the African National Congress.

Wing. When apartheid finally crumbled in the face of mass protests, the red flag of the SACP was prominent in the marches, as was the cry of Slovo's name.

Popular

Opinion polls showed that the only person more popu-lar than Slovo was Nelson Mandela

Mandela. For all his undoubted commitment to the fight against oppression, two lun-damental difficulties con-fronted Slovo's principles. One was his allegiance to Soviet Russia. Like Commu-nist Parties the world over.

the South African Commu-nist Party defended Stalin's rule. Slovo kept quiet about his own doubts until after the revolutions of 1989 Then he did an about-turn and embraced the market economy. The second was his 'stages theory' about how change would come in South

Party argued that workers had to restrain their demands in order to first achieve an end to apartheid. During the long negotia-tions between the ANC and the National Party, he be-came the leading advocate of compromise between the mass movement and the South African state It was he who persuaded the ANC to accept the idea of "sunset clauses" - tempo-rary concessions to white interests like the five year Government of National Unity that keeps the National Party in coalition. Yet Slovo knew that the end of white rule would not substantially change the lives of the black majority unless it was accompanied by an economic revolution. Echoing James Connolly's sentiments about Irish Na-tionalism, he said in 1990: "The economy of South Af-rica that day after the ANC flag flies over the Union Buildings in Pretoria will be exactly the same as the day before." before

However, unlike Con-nolly, Slovo resigned himself to accepting that this was as much as was realistically

"Pragmatist" was the most common description of Joe Slovo.

Slovo. But for the poor in South Africa, to whom the govern-ment cannot show "a house, a sewerage pipe, a borehole, a transformed township or a new school!" the word is an insult.

Exposing China's myths JULIET BRESSON reviews "To Live", by the Chinese director Zhang Yimou,

United Nations'

showing at the Lighthouse cinema, Dublin

THIS IS a family saga spanning three gen-erations of the Xu family in China between Fungui Xu is a wealthy compulsive gambler in the China of the 1940's. One night he loses the family fortune to the puppeteer Long'er. Fungui and his wife Ziazhen and two children move into a slum, and Fungui takes to travelling with a puppet troupe owned by his creditor Long'er in order to eke out a living. Civil war is raging and Fungui finds himself fight-ing with the right wing Kuomintang.

It brings out all the trag-edy, guilt and injustice of working class people's lives.

But Mao's revolution of 1948 does not end class rule

The film depicts the chaos and confusion of Mao's enforced modernisa-

Mao's enforced modernisa-tion programme, and their effects on the fortunes of the family. The main message that comes across is the guilt that oppressed, working class people are made to feel for their own misfor-tune.

The couple rungul and Ziazhen constantly blame themselves for each of life's devastating blows. They rarely seem to put the blame where it prop-

JOE SLOVO:

Another UNHCR official called Luqiqa operated a call-girl ring in Geneva, us-ing women refugees from Africa. In Uganda in 1983 food aid disappeared from a warehouse on orders signed by Luqiqa. In 1991 in Somalia Luqiqa lined his own pock-ets with half a million pounds worth of aid. He was never sacked but re-signed on a full pension. The Reagan administra-

Kuomintang. Then he is captured and made serve with the Red Army. Later he learns to rely on Later he learns to rely on his certificate of service with the Red Army to get out of sticky situations. The film shows the ser-vile and degrading lives of the working classes in pre-revolutionary China - the rickshaw pullers and fan wavers, the street sweepers and house servants. tune. The couple Fungui and

THE DEATH of Joe Slovo, lifelong fighter against apartheid, has been greeted with

As a result of the success-ful alliance between the or-ganisations, Slovo served as chief of staff for Umkhonto weSizwe, the ANC's military

wing

Africa Slovo and the Communist

end to apartheid.

where we stand

Workers create all the wealth in capitalist society. A new society can only be constructed when they collectively seize control of that wealth and plan its production and distribution.

FOR REVOLUTION, NOT

REFORM The present system cannot be reformed out of existence. Parliament cannot be used to end the system. The courts army and police are there to defend the interests of the capitalist class not to run society in a neutral

To destroy capitalism, workers need to smash the state and create a workers' state based on workers' councils.

FOR REAL SOCIALISM,

FOR REAL SOCIALISM, EAST AND WEST: The SWM welcomed the break-up of the USSR and the end of the East European dictatorships. These states were not socialist but were run by a state-capitalist class. We are against the domination of the globe by imperialist powers and we oppose their wars. We are for the right of all nations, East and West, to self-determination.

FOR AN END TO ALL

OPPRESSION We oppose all forms of oppression which divide and weaken the working class. We are for full social, economic and political equality for women. We stand for: free contraception and free, legalised abortion and the right to divorce; the complete separation of church and state, an end to church control over schools and hospitals; an end to discrimination against gavs and against gays and lesbians: an end to racism and anti-traveller facts in bigotry. We argue for working class unity in the fight against oppression.

FOR WORKERS' UNITY IN THE NORTH: Northern Ireland is a sectarian state, propped up by the British Army. Catholic workers are systematically discrimi-nated against by the state. The division between Catholic and Protestant workers weakens the Catholic and Protestant workers weakens the whole working class. Workers' unity can only be won and maintained in a fight to smash both the Northern and Southern states. We stand for the immedi-ate withdrawal of British troops. Violence will only end when workers unite in the fight for a workers

FOR A FIGHTING TRADE UNION MOVEMENT: Trade unions exist to defend workers' interests. But the union leaders' role is to negotiate with capitalism - not to end it. We support the leaders when they fight but oppose them when they betray workers. We stand for independent rank and file action.

FOR A REVOLUTIONARY

PARTY: To win socialism social-ists need to organise in a revolutionary party. This party needs to argue against right-wing ideas and for overthrowing the system. The SWM aims to build such a party in Ireland.

news & reports—politics; the unions-Packard bosses on th Reports by BRID SMITH WERE RIGHT WORKERS THE rampa THE COURAGE of the Packard workers was not matched by their union representatives. EDDIE SCHRAMM likes to insult workers. The leaders of the ATGWU called on work-

The Coventry based boss of Packard Elec-tric sneered at their absenteeism, "especially during football matches".

workforce, he just replied that he "could be back for more in six weeks". But Schramm lives on a fat pay cheque that is beyond the reach of the hardest working Packard worker. Packard bosses wanted

Packard bosses wanted workers to give up two days of their holidays, to work an extra two hours a week, to loose their 10 minute break-and accept a pay freeze and lay-offs. Conditions at the fac-tory have been getting worse and worse over the years. Sharon who has worked there for 10 years, put it like this "We can't work any harder or longer than we do now. When I get home in the evenings I just fall asleep on the chair. It can be very de-grading, especially for women, to have to wait for an hour for relief to go to the toi-let.

let. "Sometimes if somebody on the line is feeling sick and goes to the factory nurse, a su-pervisor will ring up the nurse and tell her not to let that worker go home because they are needed. They only care about keeping the lines going. They don't give a damn about us, standing all day long, do-ing boring and hard work."

Loan

Before Christmas the tight-

Before Christmas the light-fisted management withdrew the Christmas dinner and a Christmas loan of £40.00. They even took away paper cups from the canteen and eve-

Belfast Central Meets every Wednesday at 8.00pm contact national address for details of venue Wednesday 25th January: Can the RUC be reformed? Wednesday 1st February: See public meetings listed. Belfast South Meets every Thursday at

Meets every Thursday at 8.00pm contact national address for details of venue Thursday 26th January: Can

JOIN THE SOCIALISTS

If you want to join Socialist

Worker, fill in this form and send it to: PO Box 1648.

Dublin 8, Tel: (01) 872 2682

Name

Address.....

Phone.....

let.

When asked by an RTE reporter if Packard had enough sacrifices from its matches". rybody had to bring in their own mugs. Cathy who works the "Twi-light Shift" describes a day, hypical of many women in the plant. "I leave home at 3.30 in the afternoon to start work at 4.45. We work right through the night with a half hour break and at 3.30 in the morning a bus takes me back home. "I have a few hours in bed bready for school, do the house-work and the cooking and back out again for 3.30 in the after-non." These are the slave-came out again the slave-camp noon." These are the slave-camp conditions that the bosses want to make worse and the work-ers have been fighting.

that they would rather fight and see the place GENERAL MOTORS

THE PARENT company of Packard, General Mo-tors is a giant multi-national corporation with fac-tories right across North America, and Europe. while at the same time in-creasing productivity, But GM is meeting grow-ing resistance. In Buick

The demand for their cars and trucks has hugely increased in the last two years and profits have steadily increased since 1002

All over the world the company policy has been to 'down-size' its workforce

Supervisors paid off nicely NINE supervisors at the plant were paid back-money and incentive bonuses just before Christmas.

In one case £900 was paid out. "This has really made people even more bitter. We only found out about it this week"—according to Mary who has worked in Packard for 13 years. And 50 workers who were laid off last April have still not returned to work. There has been no men-tion of this in the press.

ers to accept packard's demands and make 'an orderly retreat'. The Dublin Trades shut than to accept draconian conditions in their workplace. This is the right attitude to have going into battle with a multi-national. Even if Packard want to shut the factory in the long term, workers can no longer accept blackmail.

Submission

If Packard can intimidate workers into submis-sion by threatening to close, other companies right across Ireland will take a leaf out of their

Resistance by Packard workers can also give in-spiration to others to fight back. In 1913 Connolly

Linda Cromwell, a 40 year old welder who went on strike in Buick City, is bone tired. "I work from Another striker, Roy Ketchens, a machine opera-tor says "You've only got so much stamina and you can't keep up the pace like you were 18 years old". The average age of workers at this General Motors factory is 47 years.

GM wants workers to compete against each other so that its profits continue to grow. If workers in one country give in to their blackmail, they will come after workers in another country for more 'give backs'

of Packard workers was so fantastic and Larkin closed down many sweat shops in Dublin rather than have working class people de-graded. But it was better for workers that they fought and paved the way for improvement for eve-whork's conditions.

be let leave Ireland with-out a fight. The factory is loaded with millions of pounds worth of equip-ment. An occupation of the plant could give these multi-nationals a lot of grief. A fight back could force concessions from them.

SOLIDAR AND SUPPO

MEMBERS OF the Socialist Workers Movement who have been collecting sig-natures in support of the Packard workers have received a tremendous response

ers have received a tremendous response right across Dublin. Thousands of people signed their names over the last two weeks and women from the Irish Biscuits factory which is beside the Packard plant invited socialists to take up a petition of support at their factory. A message of solidarity from the workers in Team Aer Lingus was passed on to the workers last week at an SWM public meeting in Tallaght. Workers in Packard have in the past shown fantastic solidarity towards other workers in struggle. Collections for the Pat the Baker strik-ers, for example, were well received by work-ers in the factory. This solidarity could be re-turned to them. ers in the facto turned to them.

branch meetings—all welcome SWM

> the RUC be reformed? Wednesday 1st February: See public meetings listed. See public meetings listed. Cork Meets every Thursday at 8.00pm in the Anchor Inn, Georges Quay Thursday 26th January: How to win the divorce referendum Wednesday 1st February: See public meetings listed. Docror

Derry Meets every Tuesday at address for venue Tuesday 24th January: See public meetings listed. Tuesday 31st January: Is peace here to stay? peace here to stay? Dublin Clondalkin Meets every Tuesday contac national address for venue Tuesday 24th January: How would socialists run a strike? Tuesday 31st January: See public meetings listed. ntact Dublin Drimnagh Meets every Tuesday a 8.00pm in the Half Way

8.00pm Contact national

8.00pm in the Half Way House Tuesday 24th January: Islamic fundamentalism: Why is it on the rise? Tuesday 31st January: Public Meeting in Walkinstown Community Hall (beside Public library): Packard: can the multi-nationals be beaten?

aten? Dublin North Central Meets every Wednesday at 8.00pm in Parnell Mooney, Parnell Street Wednesday 25th January: The Revolutionary ideas of Frederick Engels Thursday 2nd February: See public meetings listed. Dublin Phibsboro Meets every Thursday at Meets every Thursday at 8.00pm contact national address for details of venue. Thursday 26th January: How would socialists run a strike? Thursday 2nd February: See public meetings listed. Dublin South Meets every Wednesday at 8.00pm in Junction pub Kevin St/Wexford Street Wednesday 25th January: Why we need a socialist paper

Dublin South Central

Meets every Thursday at 8.00pm in the Trinity Inn, Pearse St.

Newry Meets every Wednesday at 8.00pm—contact national address for details

Keyser St Thursday 26th January: Can Socialist Worker replace the Socialist Worker public meetings 50 years after Auschwitz:

Thursday 2nd February: See public meetings listed.

Why did it happen? Belfast: Wednesday Feb 1st, Central Hall,

Rosemary St; Cork: Wednesday Feb 1st, Connolly Hall; Derry: Tuesday Jan 24th, The Playhouse;

Dublin Central: Thursday Feb 2nd, North Star Hotel;

Dublin Blanchardstown: Thursday Feb 2nd, Blanchardstown Community Centre; Dun Laoghaire: Tuesday Jan 31st, The Purty loft:

Waterford: Thursday Feb 2nd, ATGWU Hall All meetings start at 8.00pm

For further details and information of the SWM in Athlone, Coleraine, Dundalk, Galway, Letterkenny contact the national address: PO Box 1648

Dublin 8 or Phone (01) 872 2682

Pearse St. Thursday 26th January: The Revolutionary ideas of Frederick Engels Thursday 2nd February: See public meetings listed. Dublin: Tallaght Meets every other Thursday at 8.00pm in Killinarden Community centre—contact national address for details national address for details Dun Laoghaire Meets every Tuesday in Purty Kitchen Tuesday 24th January: The Revolutionary ideas of Frederick Engels Tuesday 31st January: See public meetings listed. Maynooth Meets every Tuesday at 6.00pm in Maynooth University, Class Hall B Newry

Waterford

Meets every Thursday at 8.00pm in the ATGWU Hall

City in America last Sep-tember. 11,500 workers struck for four days to force the company to employ more workers more workers.

This is why the resistance fam to 6pm, rush dinner, and then try to help my sons with their homework. It's a lot of stress."

Another striker, Roy

is 47 years. GM wants workers to labour movement, shamefully refused to congratulate Packards workers on their stance. Everybody except the workers themselves were surprised at the vote against the deals ham-mered out between the union and company in the union and company in the early stages of this dis-

Council, which used to stand on the left of the pute. But many workers felt rybody's conditions. Neither should Packard them.

send in your reports telephone: (01) 872 2682 ows at Nolans s (P OPPOSITION IS growing to the decision of the High Court to ban a strike at Nolan's Transport.

The strike was fought for nearly two years to win the right of work-ers to join a union.

The High Court decided that workers did not ballot properly— and so did not have a right to strike. The High Court decision is the just the latest attacks that the Nolan's workers had to face. Violence, threats and intimidation against the pickets at Nolans were very much a feature of the two-year bitter strike.

year bitter strike. The employer was taken to court by the Director of Public Prosecu-tion for driving his car dangerously towards one of the pickets. For this he was bound to the peace for two vears

But so also was his victim and other witnesses. During the Court hearing the judge had Nolan removed from th e court for making noise, shuffling his feet, moving chairs etc.

chairs etc. ■ A well known local Fianna Fail member and employee of Nolan viciously attacked pickets when he drunk.

After the police were called, the attacker was not breathalysed, charged or checked out. The same scab abused one of the Welsh strikers and warned him to leave the country on the next ferry or he would get the taste of lead". In the second week of the strike eighteen scab trucks blocked the Bridge at Ross, the main road in and out of the town for several hours. They held up traffic to and from the Rosslare ferry. For this one of the main scabs behind the protest was fined just £25. Imagine the fine that would have been imposed on a union if this had been a strikers protest.

There were shots fired at pickets, their caravan vandalised and

Civil Service

constant threats against them and constant threats against them and their families. Nolan paid his drivers £35 a day and £33 if the driver's wife was working. This was paid regardless of whether a driver worked 12, 15,

NDS

SHOP STEWARDS around Dublin and Water-ford have begun to campaign against the Nolan Judgement. Petitions calling for soli-darity with the Nolan's workers are circulatdarity with the Nolan's workers are circulat-ing in workplaces. A meeting of SIPTU shop stewards in Wa-terford was held last week to discuss what could be done. A committee was formed to campaign for the repeal of the 1990 Industrial Relations Act. This is a start and should be encouraged. But we also need action now. This should start with resolutions at local branch meetings start with resolutions at local branch meetings, section committees and Trades Councils and plans for demonstrations on February 11th. Trade unionists should get these leaflets

the union said:

thousands of union members are looking for a lead on low pay is disastrous. As a So-cial Welfare activist still in

"The frustration of the Social Welfare South com-mittee is understandable. But dissolving the committee and resigning from the CPSU leaves 350 members without representation. "Pressure can be exerted from within the CPSU. In order to do this we need the Social Welfare South mempartment of Agriculture offices around the country. The Civil and Public Service Union wants per-manent staff instead. The Department has continued to stall on the iscue

bers back involved."

or more hours. They received £12 for an overnight and meal allowance. Drivers never received a wage slip. Just a docket issued from an dinary adding machine. One of the eighteen Welsh driv-

OFF

OUR

to strike.

ers employed by Nolan had to go into hospital for a period of three weeks. When he went to claim sich weeks. When he went to claim sick benefit it was discovered that no insurance or PRSI had been paid by Nolan for him or any of the Welsh and petitions circulated as widely as possi-ble and begin a fightback for workers rights

ble and begin a highback for women's highe to strike.
The action has to come from the rank and file as it clear that union leaders are paralysed by the law and unwilling to respond.
At a recent Trades Council meeting in Dublin a motion condemning the judgement was withdrawn at the request of SIPTU. A further motion calling for action on 11th February was not put to the meeting.
But the rank and file of SIPTU can be moved to a big solidarity campaign with Nolan's.
Order petitions and factsheets from Hands Off Uur Unions Campaign, c/o PO Box 1648, Dublin 8, Tel: (01) 872 2682 employees. In the Summer of 1993 Ships Officers at Rosslare threatened to "black" Nolans trucks. Nolan then said he would attend the Labour INTONS said he would attend the Labour Court and negotiate with the Un-ion. But when strikers travelled to Dublin for the meeting, Nolan pulled out. The action at Rosslare never took place. All these facts were ignored by the High Court in the recent case brought by Nolans against the un-ion. Nolan's barristers objected to these facts being raised in Court ese facts being raised in Court. But the strike could have been won. No action was taken by the union without being cleared by the union solicitors. And no instruction was ever issued by any union to black Nolans.

black Nolans. Ironically the 1990 Industrial Relations Act which SIPTU was so careful not to break was finally used to break the strike and resulted in the massive £1.6 million award against the union.

Marchers demand release of political prisoners

ONE HUNDRED and twenty people marched in the centre of Belfast to de mand the release of political prisoners.

The march was organised by e campaigning group the the campaigning group Saoirse. It took place on a busy Sat-urday afternoon. A number of hecklers shouted about 'Fenian scum' but a loud and lively chant built up the confi-dence of the marchers. Throughout the march an RUC video camera was trained on the group in a deliberate act of intimidation.

of intimidation. Ten copies of Socialist Worker were sold.

TCD workers

fight for pensions

IN 1991, a claim for pension rights for part-time workers was served on Trinity College.

College.
TCD had begun a creeping policy of casualisation. Some permanent part time staff were leaving the college after 30 years with only a token payment. The College put the claim on the long finger and pleaded inability to pay.
But they were able to put on lavish celebrations in 1992 to mark the 400th anniversary of the college. £7.5 million was spent soon afterwards on a building project and a clean up of classical buildings.
SIPTU estimated that the cost to College of a pension-for-part-timers was only £200,000 a year.
The financial commitment for an architectural face-lift was rubber-stamped almost immediately, but College couldn't find the money to provide for workers in their old age, for the women who had formed the very backbone of the University.
Workers have voted to take industrial action on the issue if necessary. At the moment the issue awaits a Labour Court recommendation.
Like all other decisions in life, it is a question of priori-

Like all other decisions in life, it is a question of priori-

Like all other decisions in first, i.e. a triangle of the second second

MEMBERS OF the Civil and Public Service Union are bitter at the lack of progress on low pay. Talks on Grade Restructuring have led nowhere.

Restructuring would prob-ably result in an even lower paid entry grade being set up below Clerical Assistant level. And the deal would also come with flexibility measures attached.

The only alternative posed v CPSU leader John The only alternative posed by CPSU leader John O'Dowd is a special 3 per cent claim under the Programmme for Competi-tiveness and Work. But as one activist told Socialist Worker:

Worker: "A 3 per cent claim is not -14 alternative. The the only alternative. The CPSU Executive Committee must be forced to lodge claims for substantial pay increases. Some union members have resigned in disgust at the union leaders' failure to deliver. One ex-member told Socialist Worker: "The union has abdicated its responsibility on pay and conditions." conditions. Inflation

"We are getting 2 per cent in June when inflation is run-In June when inflation is run-ning at over 2 per cent and we have just had a five month pay freeze." The entire Committee of the Social Welfare (Dublin) South Branch has left the CPSU. To do this just as

WORKERS IN the Department of Agriculture's local offices have balloted for industrial action over the department's failure to provide extra permanent staff.

There are about 65 tem-porary workers doing rou-tine clerical work in De-

Meanscoil Feirste

THE BELFAST and District Trades Union Council voted at their January meeting to support any action called to secure funding for the Irish speaking school Meanscoil Feirst.

Much anger had been caused by the Tories re-fusal to fund the school and the campaign has

St Lomans 90% OF nurses at St Loman's Psychiatric Hos-pital in Dublin have voted pital in Dublin have voted to take industrial action. "Serious staff shortages is the biggest problem," ac-cording to the representa-tive for the PNA—the Psy-chiatric Nurses Union. Since last October there were 34 incidents of assaults and break-ins at the hospi-tal. There is no panic-alarm

tal. There is no panic-alarm system in place and the health board are unwilling to spend money on St. Lomans which is due to close this year. Staff are not replaced following an as-sault, despite the chronic staff shortage. The union representative at the hospital also said that fewer nurses are being trained in. "There is a need for the hospital to recognise the seriousness of the situa-tion for the nurses here." tal. There is no panic-alarm

A CPSU activist in Ag-riculture told Socialist Worker "we are deter-mined that this is as far as it is going to go".

T

And the loss of the loss for the loss

headquarters in Bangor over the decision

UCD: Day of action planned STUDENTS AT Belfield UCD plan a day of vastly improved this can vastly improved this can only get worse. Staff in most of the de-partments are also opposed to this system which they believe will narrow the courses and prevent them from teaching properly. Staff should join with the students in protests on Feb-ruary 10th. walk-outs, disruption, lecture-boycotts, and more, building towards a mass demo at the Administration Block at 1.00pm on 10th February. There are only a handful of copies of essential course texts between several hun-

AUNGIER ST D.I.T.:

aged to insist on their right to hold meetings

right to hold meetings at Aungier St. D.I.T. For weeks the Society had been struggling, not against management, but against the Student's Union who had persistently put obstacles in the way of stu-dent members of Socialist Worker—even going as far

dent members of Socialisi Worker-even going as far

N.I. Post Office

SWSS wins free

socialist Worker Student Society have successfully man-

The latest attack on con-ditions at the University is a plan to introduce "Semester-isation" into the academic dred students for use in the calendar. Library. Unless facilities are

This means that students will start the year earlier - in September—and have to sit exams at Christmas, as well as in the Summer. The only reason the UCD authorities can offer for the introduction of this system is that hope to increase the numbers at the college next

This means creating a "Graduate Machine", pack-ing them in and churning them out. In an already overcrowded college, students have to queue from 8.00am for a seat in the library in the lead up to Summer exams.

THE UNION of Communication Workers in Belfast organised a day of action against the To-ries plans to bring in back door privatisation for the post office. The Tories are shutting down some counter services and trying to transfer them to supermarkets. The protest met with a good response from passers-by.

> TWENTY-SEVEN sailors on board a Latvian ship in Waterford port won improved wages after a sit-in recently. The crew of the M.V. Vyborgskiy were dredging part of Water-ford Harbour but were being paid less than 560 each par work

> £60 each per week. The General Man-ager of Waterford Har-bour, John Clancy, de-nied the crew were be-ing exploited as they were deting the aver were getting the aver-age Latvian rate for the job.

But the Harbour

ship Board's own contract says the contractor should pay the going rate for Waterford port. The sailors staged a as to take up a page of the Student magazine for a slanderous attack on SWM. On January 12th the Un-ion finally agreed that SWSS could meetings the first will take place in a fort-night—a debate with the Progressive Democrats. Socialist Worker Student Organiser, Joan Gallagher said: "students have the right to vote, so they should have the right to hear meetings— by any political party."

sit-in on board the Vyborskiy and con-tacted the local SIPTU office. Their employer, Latvian Waterways, then agreed to send an extra $5,000 and the original contractor Rhode Neilsen prom-ised a further £2,500.

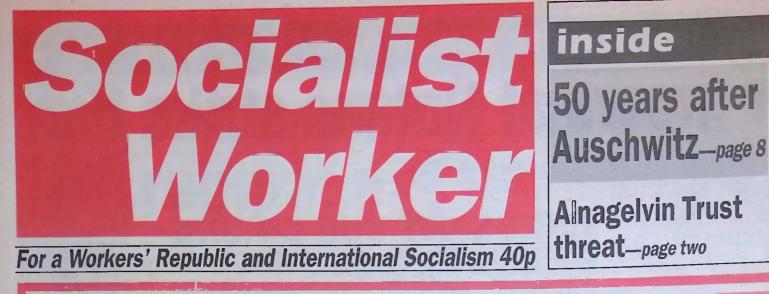

The Latvian sailors' victory is a blow against local port bosses' plans to under-mine unions and em-ploy cheap labour.

been supported by the Shankill women's group. What is needed now is the trade unions to step up 11-1 on Latvian support for the campaign and build for future demonstrations to secure fund-

Not just daylight hours!

FOUR AND a half months after the IRA cease-

The armed conflict of the last twenty five years was not begun by the IRA but by the invasion of the Falls Road in 1970 when 3,000 British sol-diers killed five people and injured dozens. Two years later, fourteen unarmed demonstrators were that dead in Darty on Bloody shot dead in Derry on Bloody Sunday. No soldier has ever been charged with any of these mur-ders. Instead, the officers in charge on Bloody Sunday were promoted and one of them promoted and one of them made a Knight. The British Army will still be on the streets at night and will still be able to saturate areas like South Armagh. The Northern Ireland Office claim that it will be less pro-vocative to have the troops on the streets between 7pm and 7am. But this is a load of non-sense.

sense. Much of the harassment of Much of the harassment of young people in working class areas happens during those hours, as they are heading out for the evening. Many of the 330,000 raids on houses—and those raids are still continuing—are carried out before seven in the morn-ing.

FOUR AND a half months after the IRA cease-fire, British troops have been taken off the streets of the North in daylight. About time! For twenty five years the British army has been de-scribed in the media as a 'peacekeeping force'. Yet since their deployment, nearly three and a half thousand peo-ple have been killed and over hintry two thousand have been injured. The armed conflict of the last twenty five years was not begun by the IRA but by the invasion of the Falls Road in 1970 when 3,000 British sol-diers killed five people and injured dozens. The armed conflict of the ast wenty five years was not the fall for the falls Road in 1970 when 3,000 British solon the ground and that all three men had single gunshots to the head. The Amnesty International report Political Killings in Northern Ireland concluded that the army ambush was planned from the start to kill the suspects "regardless of the immediate threat or absence of threat posed by them". The same report found that the British army's Special Air Services (SAS) regiment had killed 37 alleged members of the IRA between 1976 and 1992 but there had not been any SAS actions against loy-alist paramilitaries. The report said that in all cases, the men killed could have been arrested. Most of the SAS ambushes were at night. In short, it's not enough to

In short, it's not enough to have the army off the streets during the day. They should be off the streets and go home al-together.

off the streets and go nonce a together. That's what most of the sol-diers want to do and that's what the majority of working class people, Protestant and Catho-lic, want them to do

RUC) were prosecuted for killings while on duty. Nineteen were found not guilty and one was convicted of manslaughter and given a suspended sentence. Just one, Private Ian Thain, was convicted of murder.

Re-instated

He was given a life sen-tence but released after two years and three months of his sentence and reinstated in sentence and reinstated in the army. By contrast, Brendan Dowd, a republican prisoner who has spent more than twenty years in prison in Britain was refused compas-sionate parole before Christ-mas to attend his mother's funeral. More recently, prisoners who have served more than ten years in Long Kesh have been refused Christmas parole. Yet the prisoner who cre-

Yet the prisoner who cre-ated most media controversy for not getting Xmas parole was Private Lee Cegg of the Parachute Regiment. He is the second British soldier to have been con-victed of murder; he shot 18-year-old Karen Reilly dead in 1990 and was sentenced to life in 1993.

Clegg had served 18 months of his sentence when British army top brass started complaining that, as part of the peace process, Clegg should get Xmas pa-role!

Workers Unite!

war

CHECHNIA:

Yeltsin's

terrible

-page 5

OVER THE next few months the sectarian divisions in the North could increase.

The British and Irish governments are near to producing their "Framework" document for the North.

This document will not remove the sectarian conflict which the Northern state has been built around.

Instead it will institutionalise the divisions. Catholic workers will be told that the Dublin government will get more of a say in Northern Ireland.

Protestant workers will be told that there will be a return to some type of Stormont Assembly where the Unionist party will see that they are looked after. The whole thing is set to make one group of workers believe that they can only gain at the expense of others of others. Even the "peace dividend" is all about setting up Northern Ireland as a haven for cheap labour. The Tories want Protestant and Catholic workers to compete Catholic workers to compete against each other for Big Mac jobs.

The divisions will never be overing the constitutional question must be solved before workers unite on a class basis.

The republicans who accept this argument have been driven into a closer alliance with the right wing nationalists of Fianna Fail in the South. But Fianna Fail not only set up the repressive laws and courts in the South—it also helped build a the South—it also helped build a sectarian state there which mir-rors that of the Unionist party. The real alternative lies in car-rying a political argument into the working class movement. Protestant workers can break from the myths of loyalism. They have a direct interest in breaking with the Unionist Party bigots who divide them from fellow workers. Catholic workers need to under-stand that republicanism has stand that republicanism has come to a dead end.

come to a dead end. It has given up on the fight to transform the whole of Irish soci-ety. This is why it can never make an appeal to Protestant workers. Socialist politics are desperately needed to build on the day to day struggles that Protestant and Catholics workers are involved in.

Release the prisoners ANOTHER GROUP of people who should be going home are the nearly 600 repub-lican prisoners in jails North and South of the border.

of the border. These are not criminals but political prisoners. They are ordinary, over-whelmingly working class people who would never have seen the inside of a prison were it not for the political conflict of the last 25 years. Amnest International has shown up the shocking dif-ference between the way the security forces and civilians are treated. Between 1969 and 1991, only 21 members of the se-curity forces (hoth army and