Socialist Worker

For a Workers' Republic and International Socialism

inside

JAIL THE CORRUPT POLITICIANS UNIONS MUST ACT

- PAGES 6&7

Israel & Lebanon

— page 4

Gardai shoot to kill Blair defends RUC

-- pages 2, 5

Solidarity price £1

£8.6 million in bribes

Slashed the health service

AMENACE TO SOCIETY
LOCK HIM UP!

Longford siege wasn't the only time ...

Gardai shoot i

JOHN CARTHY, 27 year old building labourer was mur-dered by the Gardai after a seige in Longford. It seems likely he was shot in the back while he walked away from armed garda.

Up to 30 gardaí, many of whom were armed with Uzi sub-machineguns were involved. Yet Carthy was not a threat to any one other than, possibly, himself.

Botched

Local people criticised Garda tactics during the operation, saying the large armed contingent may have added tension to the situation. "It has all the hallmarks of a botched job," said Vincent Quinn, a local farmer. "They didn't seem to have any plan B."

The rules of engage ment for armed gardaí are an "internal matter" and not available to the public.

John Carthy is not the first person to be killed by Gardai in suspicious by Gardai in suspicious circumstances.

In May 1998, after the killing of a dissident IRA man, Ronan McLoughlin, during an attempted robbery in Co Wicklow, Gardai initially indicated that gang members had fired first, but later retracted that statement

The dead man's family criticised the gardaí for not arresting the men on their way to the scene.

On June 5th, 1997, John Morris (26) was fatally wounded during an attempted raid on a newspaper distributor's warehouse at Golden-bridge Industrial estate in Inchicore, Dublin. He was shot in the head and was shot in the lead and stomach by detectives and died in hospital.

On January 12th, 1990, Austin Higgins, a member of a five man gang, was shot dead during a bank raid in Athy, Co Kildare.

One of the other raiders, William Gardner, told the inquest "Without any warning, there was gunfire all over the place.

"Austin was ahead of me standing and I saw his head explode." He added:

"There was no warning, it was murder."

EU CONDEMNS GARDA TACTICS

EUROPEAN Committee Union for the Prevention of Torture and Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment said that members of the Garda Síochána Garda need to be remind-ed that "no more force than is strictnecessary should be used when effecting an arrest."

The report warned that once people who are arrested "have been brought under control, there can be no justification for police officers striking them."

III treated

The report says a significant number of people the committee interviewed about their experiences in Garda custody alleged they had been "physically ill-treated" by gardaí. This included slaps, kicks, punches and blows from batons.

One-third of Irish prisoners suffered from hepatitis-C

GOVERN-MENT is creating a further 700 prison despite declining crime figures.

figures.
The Irish Penal Reform Trust said the decision was "shocking and incomprehensible". Its director, Dr
Ian O'Donnell, claimed the new prison places would cost almost £500 million.

The National Crime Forum noted that "...in Forum noted that "... in proportion to the num-ber of crimes committed, the Irish prison popula-tion is far from low: approximately double the level in the Nether-lands or in England and Wales, and much higher than in such diverse countries as France, Australia or Canada".

One in five prisoners who inject drugs say they began doing so while in custody, according to a government report.

The report also found that over one-third of Irish prisoners suffered from hepatitis C.

Poor

It costs £894 to keep each prisoner for a week. the vast majority of these are poor working class people who have received a low level of education.

None of the new prison places are being reserved for the Fianna Fail politians who creat-ed poverty while taking bribes.

THINGS THEY SAY

"When Charles Haughey said in 1980 in what was probably his most famed speech that the country had...to live within their means...that we had to cut our cloth according to what was available, it's a pity he didn't live by it."

Bertie Ahern, Haughey's right hand man in the 1980's right hand man in the 1980's

"What about the Ans-bacher crooks? Why aren't you jailing them?"

Convicted money launder, Kevin Meehan

'We are at our most vulnerable at this time of unprecendented sucesss"

■ Turlough O'Sullivan director of employer's body IBEC warning trade unions not to ask for too

COKE WARS

POLICE ARE panicking about coke wars which have broken out in Europe.

These coke dealers don't peddle the white powder vari-ety but the fizzy stuff in bot-

Fizzy fix

The European Union is investigating whether the giant multinational Coca Cola Company has national Coca Cola Company has been fixing the market. Coca Cola stands accused of offering retailers "incentives" (some might say the word bribe) to sell more coke, and to stop sell-ing other brands of soft drinks made by rivals.

Ansbacher man robbed the poor

DES TRAYNOR, the man behind the Ansbacher scam, was also involved in a money-lending agency that charged the highest level of interest in the state.

The company Jordan Estates charged up to 197 percent interest on a 20-week loan.

The loans were usually taken out by poor people who had to pay for Holy Communion dresses or weddings.

Another director of the company was Jack Stakelum. Stakelum worked for the accountancy firm where he looked after Charles Haughey personal bills.

While he was paying for Haughey's fancy shirts and restau-rant expense, he also presided over a company that squeezed the poor for exorbitant expenses.

THE WORLD Trade ∪ Organisation has introduced new rules introduced new rules on patents which will mean the price of essential medicines for the world's poorest nations in Africa will go through the roof.

The charity Medécins Sans Frontières says the rules mean medicines could be up to 20 times more expensive than they are now.

more expensive than they are now.
"For people suffering from AIDS or other serious infections such as meningitus or pneumonia, this is basically a death sentence," says the charity.

Ansbacher— the bank that likes to say no to tax

RE-ZONING PAYS THE BILLS

PITY POOR Ray Burke. He has made a settlement of £500,000 to the Revenue Commissioners for taxes he should have paid on his many donations'.

In June 1980 alone Burke who was Minister for Communications picked up £117,000 in 'donations'.

Most of the money came from media companies, including Tony O Reilly's Fitzwilton Group and Oliver Barry's Century Communications

Burke has paid for his tax set-tlement by selling off his house for 33 million.

for 33 million.

He got this staggering price because, lo and behold, his house was on land which was re-zoned.

co-incidentally, Entirely Charles Haughey has also sold off a bit of his Kinsealy land and got a fine price - after that land was also re-zoned.

GAMBLERS ANNOYMOUS

SOCIALIST WORKER has often pointed out that the stockmarket operate like a casino.

Leading addiction charities now confirm this.

They have reported that the biggest increase in compulsive gambling is among traders.

They say traders have become addicted to spread betting-waging on the difference between a bookmaker's prediction and the actual result of

THE DEPARTMENT of Agriculture has admitted that it 'mistakenly' grew crops from seed contaminated by genetic modification.

The oilseed rape, which has been harvested, was probably sold for animal food,

One major concerns about GM organisms is the possible cross contamina-tion of other crop or weed species.

Species.

Now Advanta, one of the biggest GM crop producers, has admitted that its GM oilseed rape grown in Canada was contaminated by GM rape grown at least 800 GM rape grown at least 800 metres away.

It has also admitted that seed from the GM-contamiseed from the GM-contami-nated rape has been sold across Europe and unwit-tingly planted by farmers, spreading the risk of contamination

GM pollen was also found recently in honey produced in Britain-three miles away from GM crops. A NEW US study on the effects of dioxin chemicals contains claims that they may be 10 times more dangerous than envisaged up to envisaged up to now.

The chemicals enter the food chain when animals eat contaminated plants and have been linked to cancers in humans, including lymphomas and lung cancer.

Dr Conchur Ó Brádaigh, of Galway for a Safe Environment, said the report should be the final nail in the coffin for the plans for six waste incinerators around the country.

what we think

Desperate, divided and corrupt to the core establishment is getting desperate as the corruption scandal grows. They wanted to let Haughey and Burke off with a rap on the knuckles by making them pay a tax bill. But their schemes are unraveling and the government could still fall on the issue.

The weakness of our rulers was shown on the Sheedy affair.

They had hoped to pay off Judge Flaherty for keeping quiet about why he was involved with Sheedy by fixing him up with a £147,000 job in the EU.

This was after bringing in special legislation to get him a £40,000 a year pension.

Destroy

But as the Romans used to say 'Those whom the Gods wish to destroy, they first make mad'

Our rulers are today so distant from the population that they never figured there would be a reaction to their arro-drunken orgy summed up the outrage when he said, "I worked as a bus driver for years but I never got near the pension that Flaherty got. Why is he being rewarded further?"

One result of the debacle was that the Progressive Democrats were exposed.

The PDs claim to have clean hands - but they were originally founded with huge donations from big busi-

Harney has always worked closely with McCreevy and even took a free holiday with him in the home of the McEvaddy brothers, who were lobbied Harney on the issue of EU noise legislation for aircrafts.

It is no wonder she joined the cover-up over the Sheedy affair.

After the affair, Harney tried to regain pop-ularity by calling for the jailing of Haughey. But there may also be a sinister motive behind

Immediately after Harney' statement, Nora Owen of Fine Gael claimed that Harney's statement stopped Haughey getting a fair trial. Nora Owen is part of the Golden Circle that runs this country. nce. She has received money
The father of Ann from Frank Dunlop and

Hypocrite Harney

played a major role in planning decisions in North Dublin. She and Fine Gael have a vested interest in stopping the corruption scandals unraveling fur- apart..

The political establishment will play all sorts of complicated games to stop the scan-dals breaking them

The only thing that can stop these filthy protests organsied by the trade union move-has an excuse not to act.

Three of the largest maneuvers is mass unions in the country, protests organsied by SIPTU, IMPACT and the ATGWU have come out in favour of national anti-The ICTU no longer corruption demonstra-

If the unions called out their members for a day of national protest, the gangsters who run this country would final-

SOUTH TIPPERARY VOTE HEALY

THE BYE-ELECTION in South Tipperary provides an important opportunity to strike a blow at the political establish-

A big vote for Seamus Healy of the Workers and Unemployed Action Group would show that anger at corruption is ris-

The Labour Party had hoped to hold the seat and has even accused Seamus Healy of wanting to be a 'Jackie Healy Rae style independent'.

But it was Labour who disappointed the hopes of thousands by joining FF in Coalition in 1992 and bringing in a tax amnesty for the rich cheats.

And while the party has opposed corporate funding, it still has not broken its ties with big business.

Ruairi Quinn received £10,000 from the property speculators, Treasury Holdings.

Healy stands well to the left of Labour.

He has stood by workers when they resisted redundancies.

He has opposed all types of local charges as a double tax. He has stood up against state repression of republicans.

Support for him will show there is a huge opening for a radical socialist alterna-

That is why we urge Number I vote for Healy and Number 2 for Ellen Ferris of

Back the anti-racist declaration

SPONSORS SO FAR INCLUDE: Ruairi Quinn TD, Labour Party, Michael D Higgins TD, Labour Party; Emmet Stagg TD, Labour Party; Particia McKenna, Green Party MEP, loe Higgins TD, Socialist Party; Councillor Larry O'Toole, Sinn Fein; Councillor Desize Ellis, Sinn Fein; Senator Joe Costello, Labour Party; Senator Brendan Ryan, Labour Party; Kieran Allen, Socialist Workers Party; Professor Farrell Corcoran, Dublin City University; Councillor Inian McGrath, Independent, Councillor Deirdre De Burca, Green Party, Raymond Deane, Composer; Leland Dardwell, Aosdana; Mick O'Reilly, Regional Secretary ATGWU; Des Geraghty, President SIPTU; Brendan Archbold, National Cifficer Mandate; Peter Bunting, General Secretary NBRU; Immy Kelly, Executive member ATGWU; Eddie Conlon, TUI Executive; Philip Madden, President USI; Marnie Holborow, President SIPTU Education Branch; Carolann Dugan, SIPTU Waterford; Bran O'Shea TD, Labour Party; Labour Party; Labour Party; Labour Party; Mary Upton TD, Labour Party; Willie Penrose TD, Labour Party; Carolann Dugan, SIPTU Waterford; Bran O'Shea TD, Labour Party; Emmon Gilmore TD, Labour Party; Des Ryan TD, Labour Party; Des McDowell TD, Labour Party; Pat Rabbitte TD, Labour Party; Brendan Howlin TD, Labour Party; Breeda Moynihan-Cronin TD, Labour, Party; Dr Colin Coulter, NUI Maynooth; Dr Steve Coleman, NUI Maynooth; Sinead O'Connor.

Name Address
Telephone
Small organisation £25 Large organisation £50 Make cheques or POs payable to Anti Nazi League, Bank of Ireland College Green, Dublin, sort code 90-00-17, Account no. 42341575 or send to Po Box 4007, Dublin 1 Tel (087) 2250947 email: anl@ireland.com

We the undersigned, wish to protest at the torrent of abuse that has been

"We the undersigned, wish to protest at the torrent of abuse that has been stoked up against asylum seekers.

The most vulnerable group of people fleeing persecution, oppression and war are being blamed for the ills of Irish society.

The housing crisis and the poor state of our health service was not caused by the arrival of a few thousand refugees. These problems result from the Instead of attacking refugees, we should condemn politicians who led an belts'.

A media who uses terms like 'floods' of people is now inflaming racist sentiment. Yet the reality is that there are less refugees in this country than there were Irish 'illegals' in Boston in the eighties.

We particularly condemn attempts to associate refugees with medical illness. People from divergent countries with different experiences should not ness. People from divergent countries with different experiences should not ness. People from divergent countries with different experiences should not be de-humanised in this way.

The forced dispersal policy of the government and their decision to contribute refugees to a voucher system has helped to fuel this racism. Instead of right to work.

We believe that asylum seekers deserve our compassion and help. We call on everyone who wants to see a tolerant and multi-cultural Ireland to oppose

ews of the worl

Israel

Israel's Vietnan

"IT IS humiliation on the scale of the US defeat in Vietnam and the Russians in Afghanistan." This is how the Financial Times described Israel's pull out from Lebanon.

FOR 22 years the mightiest military power in the Middle East occupied the southern part of Lebanon at the cost of 20,000 lives. It bombed Lebanese villages, killed civilians and destroyed power plants. power plants.

But in a matter of days it was all over. The Israeli army withdrew and the South Lebanon Army which was paid by Israel to act as its bullies, collapsed. Its members gave themselves up or fled to Lebanese The rejoiced. Tens of thou-sands of those who had been driven from their yillages returned to see them for the first time in a generation.

They tore open the Khiam prison where the South Lebanon Army hung its prisoners from the walls and beat them with steel rods, using interrogation techniques taught by the Israeli army and equipment supplied by the US.

Above all they celebrated the defeat of Israel.

Israel was built on the violent eviction of Palestinian Arabs from their homeland in the 1940s. It has acted as the watchdog for US interests in the region ever

The Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) emerged in response to Israeli state response to Israeli state repression, and the Israeli state did everything it could to crush it. When the PLO was driven from Jordan in 1970, it moved headquarters Lebanon.

Massacre

Israel responded by invading in 1978, with-drawing and then invading again in 1982. These ing again in 1962. These invasions succeeded in driving out the PLO - but not before Israel presided over the cold-blooded massacre of 1,000 Palestinians in the Sobra massacre of 1,000 Palestinians in the Sabra and Chatila refugee camps in 1982.

Robert Fisk, who visited the camps immediately after the massacres, described the sheer horror of what he witnessed there:

"The murderers - the Christian militiamen whom Israel had let into the camps - had only just

In some cases the blood was still wet on the ground. When we had seen a hundred bodies we stopped counting.

Down every alleyway,
there were corpses women, young me babies grandparents men, lying together in lazy and terrible profusion, where

CELEBRATING the Israeli departure

they had been knifed or machine gunned to death
... There were babies —

blackened babies because they had been slaugh-tered more than 24 hours earlier and their small bodies were already in a state of decomposition tossed heaps" rubbish into

Assassination

The excuse for the massacre was the attempted assassination of the Israeli ambassador to London. In fact this invasion had planned beforehand. been

Three months earlier, in March 1982, the Israeli paper Ha'aretz had writ-ten, "Behind the offical excuse of 'we shall not tolerate shelling or terrorist reactions' lies a strate-gic view which holds that the physical annihilation of the PLO has to be achieved '

The US government backed Israel to the hilt. Immediately before the invasion, Israeli Defence MinisterGeneral Ariel Sharon, visited Washington where he informed the US Defence Secretary Casper Weinberger that Lebanon. There were also massive surges of military supplies from the US to Israel in the first three months of 1982.

Israel would

RESISTANCE

THE ISRAELI inva-sion created new resistance. The Islamist group Hizbollah emerged in the early 1980s.
The Israelis and the Western media demonise it as a dangerous organi-sation of mindless fanatics.

But it has mass support. It runs a welfare network that includes schools, hos-pitals and clinics.

It rebuilds houses destroyed by Israeli air raids, runs seminars for farmers on rebuilding agricul-ture, and has nine deputies in the Lebanese parliament.

Israel's military might, and behind it the might of the US, could not defeat Hizbollah's guerilla army because of this support.

Occupation

And because Israel could not crush Hizbollah, the occupation became very unpopular in Israel itself. Ehud Barak won the last election in Israel with his promise to "bring the boys home".

ons for Mu

MUMIA ABU-JAMAL has become, a symbol of the anti-death penalty movement in the States. He is a black man accused of the murder of a white policeman. He has spent 18 years on death row Philadelphia.

In 1972 the US Supreme Court abolished the death penalty as unconstitutional. It violated the 8th Amendment which protects its citizens from cruel and unusual punishment. In 1976 this was overturned and today 38 states have it on their 38 states have it on their statute books.

Between 1977 and 2000, 450 people have been executed by lethal injection, 145 by electrocution, 11 by the gas chamber, 3 by hanging, 2 by firing squad.

Mumia was briefly a member of the Black Panther Party, a group set up in 1966, to fight racism in America with ten objectives Objective number seven was an end to police brutaliwas an end to police brutality and murder of black people; number eight was freedom for black people incarcerated unjustly in US jails and number nine was a fair trial by peer groups. If any of these had been won, Mumia would be free today.

Explosion

There has been an explosion of support for his case and against the death penaland against the death penalty generally. 6,000 people filled New York's Madison Square Garden for a mass rally on May 7. Celebrities such as Rubin 'Hurricane' Carter and Martin Luther King III have spoken out in Mumia's defence. Mumia's defence.
Demonstrations have been held worldwide.
This is the start of the held worldwide.

This is the start of the summer of resistance. Campaigners plan to pack the Philadelphia courtroom when Mumia comes to court the date is not yet set. Protesters are also preparing for the Democratic Convention in Los Angeles on August 13.

WHAT IS ZIONISM?

ISRAEL'S POLITI-ISRAEL'S POLITI-CAL philosophy is usually described as 'Zionism'. This is a partly religious and partly historical idea that the world's Jewish population has a claim on part of the territory of the Middle East that has been occupied by Palestinian Arabs for well over a thousand years. sand years.

Zionism had little Zionism had little support amount amount the revival of anti-Semitism in the late 19th century. Zionist leaders tried to win the support of the colonial powers for their cause. Sir Richard Storrs, the first British military governor of Jerus ale m explained that the Zionists wanted to create a 'little loyal Jewish Ulster'.

Jewish Ulster'.

Zionism gained wider currency following the Holocaust, where 6 million Jews were murdered. Since none of the allies were prepared to were prepared to offer a home to Jewish people they backed the Zionist calls for a Jewish state.

state.

America in particular recognised the strategic interest in backing Israel because it would give them a power base in the Middle

Coup for the bosses

FIJI IS a country under military rule. The coup, led by George Speight, has toppled the democratically elected governelected govern-ment of Mahendra Chaudry.

Speight said his coup was aimed at promoting "indigenous interests", in particular keeping land in indigenous Fijian hands.

But the overthrow of the elected government is not

But the overthrow of the elected government is not about race, but class. As Felix Anthony, secretary of the Fiji Trade Union Congress, declared:

"The Labour-led government had a social agenda to increase minimum wages, improve working conditions, boost spending on health and education and put price controls on food items. It does not suit the business concerns. That is why George and his boys have done this."

Speight's talk of land for indigenous Fijians has an appeal because most of them own nothing. The Fiji

Times reported at the beginning of May that "close to 200,000 people living in Fiji are poor and another 25 percent live below the poverty line". Indigenous Fijians are over-represented among this mass of impoverished people.

According to one Fijian
According to one Fijian sociologist the coup leaders are members of a new Melanesian-Fijian middle class who lost out when Labour came to power last year. They are using "indigenous rights" as a cover to further their personal interests.

Speight and his clique in

Speight and his clique in fact support the privatisation of indigenous-owned land currently locked up in trusts.

Today, 83 percent of land is already owned by indigenous Fijians but the reason that most of the indigenous people are desperately poor is not because of the Indian Fijians, but because the rent and profits generated from and profits generated from these indigenous-owned lands flow into the hands of a few chiefs

Disunited family

DEMOCRATIC Unionist Party appears to believe that "revolving" their ministers every few weeks will reduce the Executive to ridicule. But, more likely, it's the DUP which will be made to look light-headed.

What the strategy reveals is that the DUP doesn't know which way to turn. Paisley and Willie McCrea, driven by religious fervour, would like to declare the Executive anathema. Dodds and Robinson, driven by ambition, are desperate for the perks and status of office

The antics of some Ulster Unionists are based on similar low-life considerations. Michael McGimpsey sits at Stormont alongside Martin McGuinness and Bairbre de Brun, then takes his official car to Belfast

Bairbre de Brun, then takes his official car to Belfast City Hall to vote Sammy Wilson in as Mayor and keep Alex Maskey out.

Wilson praises the UUs for "maintaining the unity of the Unionist family", then announces that he will persist in his efforts to "wreck" the arrangement whereby "traitors" like McGimpsey sit in the Executive with Sinn Fein.

Unionism has begun to fracture as it tries to come to terms with change while cimultaneously change.

to terms with change while simultaneously shoring up its traditional base. The depth of the contradiction is reflected in the fault-lines running every which way through all unionist formations.

Discrimination

Unionist professionals and middle-class elements realise that the days are long gone when a section of the working class could be bought off with the spoils of discrimination, and political trends outside "Ulster" ot discrimination, and political trends outside "Ulster" ignored. If they are to lay their hands on a share of the loot generated by an open market economy, they must adapt. They won't make it into the mainstream of the boss-class of the future unless they accept the bona fides of the Green boss-class too.

But their individual political careers depend on reassuring the grass-roots that they are still "sound"—and convincing as many Protestant workers as possible to keep believing that their future lies in defending their position vis-a-vis their Catholic fellow-workers.

low-workers

in defending their position vis-a-vis their Catholic fellow-workers.

The fact that some of them are personally genuinely bigoted serves to sharpen the contradiction: John Taylor is particularly volatile because both his sectarianism and his greed know no bounds.

The parties which claim specifically to represent "working class unionism" are even more tangled up in blue-nosery. David Ervine and Billy Hutchinson marched into the lobby to back the nakedly sectarian Sammy Wilson as Belfast's Lord Mayor. Then Paisleyites, Trimbleistas and the PUP all linked arms to exclude Sinn Fein a second time and elect Frank McCoubrey of the UDA/UDP as Wilson's deputy.

The UDP meantime is pledging its support for the Belfast Agreement, while its paramilitary associates offer to provide muscle for the Drumcree Orangemen to destroy the Agreement.

PUP representatives spin a fine line about the need for a new class-based agenda while, on the ground, the UVF breaks the bones of anybody who challenges the idea of "our" community against "theirs".

Desperately defending their power-base against rival unionist factions while staking their claim to a share in the non-sectarian future, they build and burn share in the non-sectarian future, they build and burn bridges simultaneously. How it all will shake out is impossible to say If the Executive survives, a sizable chunk of the UUP may split off and realign with a majority of the DUP. Within the DUP, the personally-ambitious secular sectarians may break with the Beast of Babylon merchants who believe that even to sit down with a Nationalist is to sup with the devil. Loyalist paramilitarism may, scorpion-like, sting itself to death and drag at least one of the "new" Loyalist parties down, too.

What's certain is that ALL of these outfits, from What's certain is that ALL of these outfits, from Right-wing ranters to Left-sounding rhetoricians, have a political interest in keeping working-class have been community to political which don't involve one community competing with the other.

the other.

None of them has anything to offer workers but stupid delusions of sectarian grandeur.

Eamonn Anger grows at watering down of Patten Report

McCann Dispance

the

ANGER IS growing at the watering-down of the Patten Report on policing.

Controversy has focused largely on name and symbols.

The former Tory minister Chris Patten had wanted no mention of "RUC", and a new badge on police uniforms, so as to signal that the police aren't the "property" of one community.

In his draft legislation, Peter Mandleson fudged these and other recommendations, in a transparent effort to protect David Trimble from UUP elements who won't hear a word against the RUC's sectarianism.

Yet again, a British minister backed off from modest reform in an attempt to buy off bigotry.

Bigotry

If Mandleson doesn't at least reinstate these Patten recommendations. the chances of the SDLP, much less Sinn Fein, urging supporters to become policemen and women will be nil.

This would spell an end to the chances of producing the first-ever "balanced" police force in the North.

The impasse is an

also ditched changes which had less to do with sectarianism than with the class nature of the

The RUC has never been accountable to the Protestant community as a whole.

It was accountable only to itself, and to the least made the police answerable to outside agencies.

But under Mandleson's proposals, the Chief Constable and the Secretary of State would keep ultimate con-trol of all discipline.

boards envisaged by Patten have been so so by illustration of the difficulties ahead in trying generally to reform the machinery of a State based on sectarianism since its inception.

But Mandleson has

Northern State.

Orange ruling class.

Working-class Protestants had no say-so over the RUC.

Patten would have at The police "ombudsman" would have had power to initiate and supervise investigation of complaints, for exam-

The local supervisory

Not many pictures in this meaningless.

New Labour would like to have as unsectarian a police force as is compatible with keeping David Trimble's leadership secure.

But it doesn't want the police force to be accountable in a meaningful way.
After all, the police in Britain are effectively unaccountable - as are the gardai in the South.

Twenty-two people have been shot dead by British police in the last 10 years, more than half of them unarmed.

Injustice

No policeman has been convicted as a result. Following the same pattern, no guard will be Mandleson as to be charged or convicted for the gunning down of John Carthy in Abbeylara in Longford in April.

Even if achievable, a Northern force "balanced" between Orange and Green won't mean an end to injustice at the hands of the police.

Republicans want a police force they can urge people to join.

Socialists, in contrast, workers should say organise against police power in any class-divid-

debacle

GOVERNMENT report has exposed the Industrial Development Board for Northern Ireland for wasting millions of pounds on failing companies.

Blair and Straw label asylum seekers, who get by on £35.25 a week, as a burden on the economy. Yet between 1988 and 1997 the IDB stuffed £397 million into the pockets of foreign bosses who set up shop in Northern Ireland.

Targets

The IDB also continued to spend huge amounts of cash on companies which were falling well short of their employment targets.

The government's Public Accounts Committee found that out of the 52 companies who received IDB money between 1988 and 1994, eleven went out of business. By March 1997, only 36 per cent of the promised jobs had actually been created.

That's despite the IDB

That's despite the 1DB giving more than £38.000 in assistance for each job cre ated by a foreign investor.

In 1991, the IDB was specifically told to bring more jobs into areas with unemployment and poverty levels. But by March 1997, only four of Northern Ireland's 11 areas of social need had seen any new jobs at all. Two of the poorest areas, Moyle and Strabane, had received no fresh employment from the IDB.

Public Meeting "Why the 11 Plus must go"

Speakers: Des Rainey, INTO president, John Price, CAS secretary, NASUWT plus others. 7.30pm, Wed 21 June, WELB Library, Foyle Street, Derry

CK RAYTHEO

The missiles and arms manufacturer Raytheon is informally discussing sponsor-ship with Derry City football

The issue has caused lots of discussion in Derry. The Foyle Ethical Investment Campaign collected more than 300 signatures against Raytheon in an hour - and many Derry City sup-porters feel queasy at the thought of sponsorship from the company that produces Tomahawk and Patriot missiles.

FEIC members leafleted a meeting of Derry City supporters and board members under the slogan "Kick Raytheon out of Football".

The club has in the past turned down sponsorship from the Sun newspaper. It should do so again

As socialist and Derry City sup-porter Eamonn McCann put it: "The only rockets at the Brandywell are Liam Coyle's."

Socialist Worker

DESPITE THE revelations about corruption and bribery, Charles J Haughey is still walking about as a free man.

People have been jailed for not paying their television licences. But when it is revealed that a former head of state lived off bribes, all we get is a coyally tribunal. is a costly tribunal.

Haughey had at least £8.6million pounds in bribes to fund his lavish lifestyle.

This amount doesn't include

Haughey's salary as leader of Fianna Fail or the tens of thousands raised for his son, Ciaran sands raised for his son, Claran Haughey's firm, Celtic Helicopters.

It doesn't include the £16,000 he spent on shirts or the £12,000 a year he spent in just one fancy restaurant. just one fancy restaurant. Because that money came from the taxpayer.

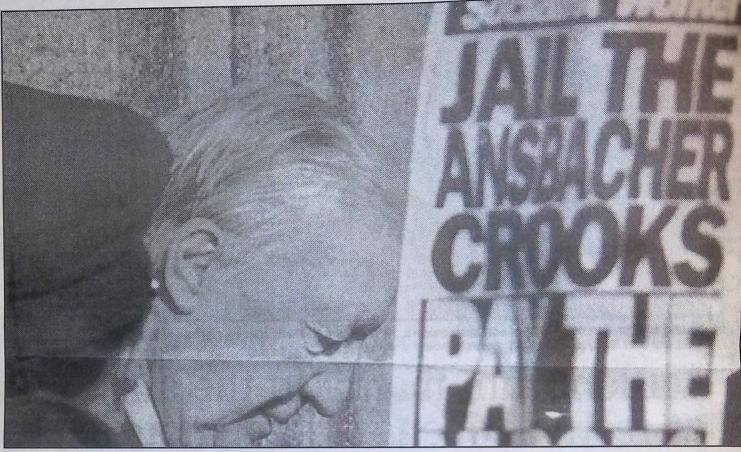

Expenses

Between January 1985 and January 1991, his former firm, Haughey Boland, paid his bills—he got just under £23,000 per month for personal expenses.
Haughey's main donors included Ben Dunne, the late P.V. Doyle and Dermot Desmond.
The latest revelations show that the low pay supermarket boss that the low pay supermarket boss gave Haughey £2 million. But he is still claiming he got nothing in

He said that he couldn't remember how much he gave to Haughey because he had "over £17 million going across my desk each week."

th week."
The late hotelier P.V. Doyle Haughey £330,000.

there should be more protests as haughey heads into court

Doyle Holdings, the upmarket Dublin-based hotel chain is worth at least £146million.

Directors' payments have totalled more than £8m since 1996

£50.000 came from the Saudian Arabian Fustok who bought an Irish Passport. Dermot Desmond gave £353,000 and then paid £217,000

(sterling) to buy Celtic Mist, Haughey's yacht. Dermot Desmond made his fortune from the International Financial Services Centre where companies make massive profits while only paying 10% tax.

In the six months after his reelection as Taoiseach in February 1987. £660,000 in bribes went 1987, £660,000 in bribes went into Haughey's personal accounts.

Taxes were only for the 'Little

Haughey's bag man Des Traynor set up the illegal Ansbacher bank to avoid tax. It, and similar funds, were used by the rich who believe that taxes were only for the little people.

include O'Reilly, Ireland's wealthiest man, who owns most of the newspapers.

The various crooks involved

The various crooks involved even had the gall to claim tax relief on the money they were using to evade taxes.

Because, in withdrawing money from the Ansbacher accounts, they were technically "borrowing" their own money, they were able to claim tax relief on the "interest" on these "loans".

Scale

The scale of the fraud is massive. According to a government inspector, it involved "a few hun-dred million pounds" hidden away.

The scam was run from the offices of Cement Roadstone Holdings, Ireland's largest industrial company, which recently reported a pre-tax profit of £124 million.

Eight of the 15 board members of CRH in 1987 held money with Ansbacher.

CRH bought the Glen Ding woods, in Wicklow, in 1992 for £1.25 million.
The land was sold by the gov-

The silent partner

Almost half of the funds came from companies associated with the multi-millionaire property developer, John Byrne, including a £50,000 transfer on February 18th, 1987, the day after the general election.

John Byrne says he never gave a penny to Haughey. Perhaps, but his companies certainly did. He is worth at least £48 million and owns the Carlisle Trust, a company that uses an offshore address to avoid tax.

address to avoid tax.

Byrne had nearly £6 million in the notorious Ansbacher account.

One of the directors of his companies used to be Haughey's harmon. Dos Trauser.

bagman, Des Traynor.

Byrne has built up a fortune by persuading the state to rent some of his high priced property.

John Byrne

One of the properties involved is D'Olier House in Dublin for which tax payers are currently paying a staggering £375,000 a year.

Overall

Overall Byrne's companies gets £1.5 million a year in rent from the state.

As soon as Haughey became Taoiseach in 1980, he appointed Byrne - who used to be known as his 'silent partner' - to the Irish Horse Racing Authority.

Horses

Byme was big into horses and invested in the Simonscourt Stud. Haughey then introduced a special scheme so that no taxes were paid on stallion stud farms.

Byrne has also benefited from tax breaks given under the Urban Renewal schemes.

In one case his hotel, the Mount Brandon, was included in an Urban Renewal Zone even though the local Tralee council had never requested it.

had never requested it.

The Mount Brandon hotel had £250,000 move mysteriously from its accounts to the Ansbacher funds of Haughey.

POLITICIANS WERE caught with there hands in the till in Italy in the early 1990's.

Workers marched against the corruption and for a redistribution of wealth from the rich to the poor. People threw coins at politicians as a sign of contempt.

The Italian trade unions mobilised their members against corruption and it meant over 2.000 corrupt businessmen, officials and politicians were investigated, two prime ministers were prosecuted one of them was sentenced to ten years in jail.

But for the last four years the Irish union leaders have done nothing.

demand the jailing of corrupt politicial

pt politicians! The most

DENIS FOLEY, the Kerry North Fianna Fail TD, has been exposed as one of the Ansbacher gang. Foley still has £130,000 in the has £130,000 in the dodgy account.

Yethe was one of the TDs who was in charge of investigating the massive tax scam by the banks. The report into the DIRT scam which he co-wrote said that the policians did not turn a blind eye. He was given a 14 day holdiay from the Dail as a punishment.

Foley used to run dances for badels owned by property shark hotels owned by property shark John Byrne.

Little People'

ng to a government ivolved "a few hun-ounds" hidden away, was run from the Cement Roadstone ement Roadstone and's largest industri-hich recently repor-rofit of £124 million. e 15 board members 87 held money with ght the Glen Ding icklow. in 1992 for was sold by the gov-thout tenders being sought while Haughey was Taoiseach at a bargain basement

Kinsealy

CRH also bought lands at Kinsealy, Co Dublin, from Haughey, in the early seventies.

The company also gave £18,000 in consultancy fees to GFO Engineering, a firm run by Haughey's offspring.

Council and will practical arrangeprotest ourselves

RAY BURKE

THE FORMER Fianna Fail Minister Ray Burke built up a secret account of over £400,000. Burke was the chairman of Dublin County Council in the mid-eighties when developers made a fortune from the re-zoning of land.

According to James Gogarty, who claims he handed him money in a brown enve-lope, Burke was in a position to influence planning decisions on Dublin County Council.

Burke was also given money by Rennicks, which is owned by Tony O'Reilly, who had a major interest in the deflector television system in rural areas.

Burke was the Minister in charge of giving out licenses and O'Reilly's company got 20 out of the 27 licenses.

JOHN ELLIS

JOHN ELLIS, the Fianna Fail TD for Sligo/Leitrim. The National Irish Bank paid his £243,000 debt to stop him going bankrupt and being thrown out of the Dail.

At the time, NIB were trying to take over the state owned ACC bank and Bertie Ahern's mate, Jim Lacey, was the chair of the bank. Haughey also stepped in with £26,000 from Fianna Fail accounts to pay his bills.

There was no mercy however for the small farmers whose lives were destroyed when Ellis' company went under. Ellis threatened to nkrupt one farmer because of ,701 owed in legal costs - even though he refused to pay the farmer money he was owed for 10

Ellis says he doesn't have enough money to repay the farmers. But his earnings amount to more than £100,000 a year.

LIAM LAWLOR

THE MR BIG of political bribes got £40,000 from Frank Dunlop, who specialised in dispensmoney from builders

Lawlor also got £3,500 a month from Tom Gilmartin, another property speculator.

Lawlor claimed these were consultancy fees' but Gilmartin denied this saying 'I would not have that man consulting on a shit-

Lawlor was also on the board of Larry Goodman's meat company. At the same time he was chairman of the Oirteachtas Joint Committee on State sponsored bodies when Irish Sugar was being privatised - and the main prospec tive buyer was Larry Goodman.

Lawlor owned twenty-three acres of land on Newcastle Road Lucan, which he sold off in 1995 after it was rezoned by South Dublin County Council.

devious

one of them all

BERTIE AHERN, the man Haughey called "the most devious of them all" is surrounded by scandal.

At least £1 million of tax ayers money ended up in Fianna Fail's accounts and was used to fund Haughey's lavish lifestyle.

Almost all the 1,615

cheques drawn from the account were signed by Ahern. One went to Haughey's son's company, Celtic Helicopters, and at least one ended up in the Ansbacher account.

Ahern says he can't remember what the cheques he signed were for.

ORGANISED C

THE BANKS are at the centre of the Golden Circle that links business and the top politicians.

The AIB wrote off the debts of two former Taoiseagh: £1 million for Haughey and £140,00 for Garret Fitzgerald.
The bank liked to collect "key business influencers" - politicians who could help it make more prof-

One benefit for the bank was that Haughey opened the Financial Services Centre in 1989, in which the AIB was the first, and for over a year the only, company to take advantage of the tax scams to take advantage of the tax scalins on the Dublin quayside.

In March 1985 when the AIB owned Insurance Corporation of Ireland (ICI) was in danger of collapsing, their friends in government bailed them out.

AIB profits were £80 million

at the time - more than enough to bail out the company - but the Fine Gael/Labour coalition agreed to use tax payers money instead.

To this day £18 million of taxpayers money is still with the AIB

from the bail out scheme.

A year later Deposit Interest Retention Tax was introduced (DIRT).

The AIB systematically avoided paying this tax by opening offshore accounts

When the bank was finally caught by the Revenue they did a deal that allowed them to avoid £86 million in tax.

Just in case clearing politicians' overdrafts doesn't give them enough friends in low places the AIB donates to all the political parties including Labour.

The average donation is £40,000.

We paid for the TAX AVOIDANCE was rife in the 1970e and 1980s," according to Maurice O'Kelly. And he should know, O'Kelly was a Managing Director of Guinness and Mahon bank and helped run the Ansbacher scam.

The Irish rich can afford to bribe politicians because they don't pay any lax. Even when they don't hide it in oli-stiere accounts, bogus or otherwise, big business pays a minuscule amounts to the exchequer.

In 1987, the tax rate on profils was 50 percent. By 2002 it will have declined to a mere 12.5 percent, which is a lower tax rate than the lowest paid is a lower tax rate than the lowest paid worker pays.

Corruption means, the Iraland has the second highest rate of poverty of all the industrialised world outside the US. This is according to the United Nations Human Development Report. 15.3 percent of the population five in absolute poverty.

The report also found that 23 percent of the population are functionally illiterate.

Further, each year over 2,000 people are jailed for non-payment of debts or lines. That is nearly a third of the whole prison population. Yet the politicians are getting away acott free. If the assets of the crooked developers and politicians were selzed we could use the money to fund the education system.

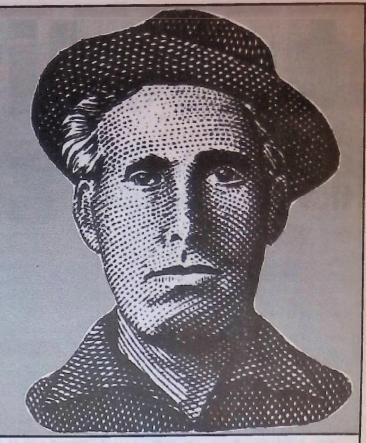

The money in the Ansbacter accounts alone could fund a huge programme of building local authority louses.

But for that to happen we need in-

But for that to happen we need in als instead of tribunals for the crooks at the top.

Socialist Worker — (01) 8722682

Where working men are out on strike Joe Hill is at their side murdered by the US state in November 1915.

His "crime" was to be an activist and songwriter for the Industrial Workers of the World (IWW), or the Wobblies as they were popularly Wobblies as they were popularly known.

Tens of thousands of workers across the US sang Joe's songs. The US ruling class took its revenge on Joe by framing him for murder and then executing him by firing squad.

But Joe's spirit lived on in the songs he had written. They continued to inspire workers on picket lines throughout the 20th century.

The Wobblies were formed in 1905. They were at the forefront of the struggles of the US working class at the beginning of the 20th century.

They aimed to unite workers into one big union. They concentrated on organising unskilled and immigrant workers who had been ignored by the skilled workers' unions of the time.

The IWW organised strikes, protests and sit-ins. They attracted tens of thousands of unskilled workers into their ranks, especially recent immigrants from Europe, along with black and women workers.

Joe Hill was himself an immigrant into the US.

He was born Joel Haagland to a poor family in Sweden in 1879. He emigrated to the US in 1902 at the age of 23. He thought America offered the promise of a better life, as did millions of other poor Europeans.

That dream turned to dust. The vast poor Europeans.

That dream turned to dust. The vast

That dream turned to dust. The vast majority of immigrant workers faced poverty, exploitation and racism.

Joe's first job was cleaning spittoons in saloons in New York. He spent the next eight years working at any job he could. from stacking wheat and laying pipes to working on the docks.

He saw how the bosses tried to turn workers from different ethnic groups against each other. He was fired from at least one job for trying to organise his east one job for trying to organise his fellow workers.

He changed his name to Joe Hillstrom, later shortened to Joe Hill, to avoid being put on a list of agitators.

JOINED the IWW in 1910 when he was a docker in San Pedro. He threw himself into political

He helped organise strikes and agitate for free speech.
He wrote, "The working class and the employing class have nothing in common. There can be no peace so long as hunger and want are found among millions of working people and the few, who make up the employing class, have all the good things in life." Above all Joe used the talent he had for writing songs to build support for the

Joe's first song was "Casey Jones, the Union Scab". He wrote it in 1911 to help the fight of railway workers on the South Pacific Line.

The song was printed on coloured cards which were sold to help the workers' strike fund. Joe became a frequent contributor to the Wobblies' Little Red Song Book, which aimed "to fan the es of discontent"

He would pen lyrics relevant to refer to the tunes of popular songs and nymns.

His song "The Preacher and the Slave" was sung to the tune of a Salvation Army hymn:

Long haired preachers come out every night Try to tell you what's wrong and what's right, But when asked how 'bout something to eat, They will answer with voices so sweet:

You will eat, bye and bye, In that glorious land above the sky: Work and pray, live on hay, You'll get pie in the sky when you die.'

He believed the songs were a way of convincing people who spoke many dif-ferent languages about the need for the

One reporter commented on the songs on the picket line during the 1912 Lawrence textile workers' strike, "I shall not forget the curious lift, the strange sudden fire of the mingled nationalities when they broke into the universal lan-guage of song."

Joe captured the potential power of the organised working class:

There is a power, there is a power, In a band of workingmen, When they stand, hand in hand, There's a power, that's a power, That must rule in every land, One Industrial Union Grand.

JOE MOVED to Utah in 1913, where he helped the IWW organise a strike by 1,500 miners at the Utah Copper Company.

The workers were demanding a nine hour day and a 25 percent wage rise. The Copper Company, which was financed mainly by the Mormon church, hired armed thugs to attack the picket line.

But the bosses could not beat the strikers and were forced to recognise the

The copper bosses and the Utah establishment wanted revenge. They seized their chance in January 1914 when two masked men shot the owner of a grocery shop, former policeman John Morrison, in Salt Lake City.

The Utah establishment framed Joe

Police kicked down Joe's door and arrested him. As Joe reached for his trousers, the police shot him in the hand, claiming he was reaching for a gun.

Joe had been shot and wounded in a separate incident on the same night as the murder of Morrison.

Joe's gunshot wound was the only evidence linking him with Morrison's

The one witness to the shooting, Morrison's 13 year old son, could not

Morrison's 13 year old son, could not identify Joe.

The trial was a sham.

The prosecutor made it clear throughout the trial that Joe's real crime was his union militancy. He told the jury to enforce the law so that "anarchy and crime shall be pushed back beyond the pale of civilisation".

The jury found Joe guilty and the judge sentenced him to death.

THE IWW launched a campaign to defend Joe. They organised meetings and protests around the country.

They produced thousands of leaflets and a special Joe Hill edition of the Little Red Song Book.

Workers from across the US sent protest letters. One telegram read, "Ten thousand organised painters in Chicago demand there is a stay of execution for Joe Hill."

A Salt Lake City newspaper reported, "The governor is being flooded with letters, telegrams, cards and petitions

letters, telegrams, cards and petitions against the execution.

The communications come largely from labouring men, socialists, IWW members and labour organisations throughout the country."

He wrote one of his most famous songs, "The Rebel Girl", while he was in prison awaiting execution.

It was a tribute to IWW member Elizabeth Gurley Flynn and a call for women to get involved in the union. He urged Elizabeth Gurley Flynn "to be sure to locate a few more Rebel Girls like yourself, because they are needed and needed badly".

In September, just before a last minute stay of execution, Joe wrote to Solidarity, the IWW's newspaper, "Tomorrow I expect to take a trip to planet Mars and, if so, will immediately commence to organise the Mars canal workers into the IWW" planet Mars and, if so, will immediately commence to organise the Mars canal workers into the IWW."

He told the board of pardons, "I want a new trial or nothing. If my life will help some other workingman to a fair trial, I am ready and willing to give it. If by giving my life I can aid others to the fairness denied me, I have not lived in vain."

The authorities rejected his plea for a

The authorities rejected his pica for a new trial.

The night before the state murdered Joe, a man called William Busky signed an affidavit saying he had been in a brawl with him at the time of the mur-

This proved Joe Hill's innocence and was telegraphed to the governor of Utah. He ignored it.

squad.

ON THE morning November, Joe was strapped into a chair gunned down by the firing

The Utah Copper Company thanked the governor for his handling of the case.

Some 30.000 workers attended

Some 30.000 workers attended his funeral in Chicago.

A local paper reported, "The red flag floated unmolested at every turn. No creed or religion found a place at the services. There were no prayers and no hymns. but there was a mighty chorus of voices joining in songs written by Hillstrom."

The Irish socialist Jim Larkin told those gathered. "Joe Hill was shot to death because he was a member of the fighting section of the American working class, the IWW."

Joe's last words to the IWW before he died have inspired socialists ever he died have inspired socialists ever since: "Waste no time in mourning, but organise our class and march to victory.

Don't mourn, organise!

'I dreamed I saw Joe Hill last night Alive as you and me Says I, "But Joe, you're ten years dead" "I never died says he"

"Joe Hill ain't dead," he says to me.

"Joe Hill ain't never died, "Where working men are out on strike

"Joe Hill is at their side". by Alfred Hayes and Earl Robinson, sung by Paul Robeson among others

JOIN THE ONE BIG UNION

THE I.W.W.

COMING!

Standing on the shoulders of giants

Tony Cliff, who died recently, began his political life in a small Trotskyist group in Palestine.

He was to become one of the most successful revolutionary figures in the late twentieth century. Serious parties that were inspired by his ideas now exist in Britain, Germany, Greece, Ireland and other countries.

His distinctive approach to Marxism is summed up in wonderful autobiography that has just appeared A World To Win.

Cliffs Marxism was characterised by a rigorous theoretical honesty. During the 1950s most socialists defended the USSR. But Cliff proclaimed that the four letters USSR were lies: it was not a union; it was not a soviet; it was not socialist and there were no republics.

Instead he showed that it was a state capitalist tyran-ny and demonstrated by meticulous evidence that a privileged ruling class exploited workers just as they did in the West.

Cliff was always audacious and determined. In 1951 he established the Socialist Review Group in Britain with

At the time one of the leading Marxist intellectuals was Issac Deutscher. Deutscher was critical of the USSR but wanted to defend its 'progressive role'. His solution to this conundrum was to 'withdraw to the watchtower'. Cliff despised this sentiment with all his heart and so set out to build the small group.

He describes his method, "We always looked to what was common between us and the people who did not belong to our group, but whom we talked to, and what differences there were between them and us. If there was nothing in common there was no way we could influence them - it was like speaking Greek to English people. On the other hand if we only confirmed what we had in common we could not teach them anything. There must be tension between members of the group and people outside. At one and the same time, there must be tension inside the group - intellectual tension. It is neither only agreement or only argument. Both are needed.'

Success came in Britain in the sixties when the renamed International Socialists grew to 2,000 members by 1974. The organisation was able to relate to the rising anti-capitalist movement of the day because of its open style and its belief that the role of students in mod-ern capitalism had changed. Far from being the privi-leged minority who scabbed on the British General Strike of 1926, they were force fed an education geared to turning them into white collar workers.

Turn

But more crucially, Cliff led a turn to industry. His approach was always to make a concrete analysis and then bend the stick to grasp what he considered the next link in the chain. The IS bent all its effort to winning a layer of militant shop stewards to their ranks. They established factory branches, launched a National Rank and File Movement, turned out scores of factory bulletins and industrial newspapers.

The British working class faced defeat after 1974 - first through a social partnership style incorporation of full time convenors and later through an all out Thatcherite assault.

full time convenors and later through an all out Thatcherite assault.

Cliff argues that strategy and tactics had to change according to the objective situation. But reading the objective situation can sometimes be as difficult as a driver trying to negotiate a mountainous road in the tog. It is impossible not to make mistakes - but to key is to admit mistakes and correct them

In the late seventies it was Cliff who led the 'orderly retreat' into a more propagandist organisation that concentrated on building up Marxist theory. That was the only way to cope with the downtum and preserve the revolutionary party.

By contrast, at the end of his life he argued for a turn to relate to the new anti-capitalist movement that was born after Seattle.

Cliff's belief was that if socialism comes from the self-born after Seattle.

Cliff's belief was that if socialism comes from the selfemancipation of workers, then revolutionaries could not lie to the working class - or to themselves. Facing the world. applying Marxism as a concrete method and above all audacity - this is how a party is built.

KIERAN ALLEN

The planned Spencer Dock development in Dublin

estroying Dublin

James Masterson fell to his death on the Zoe Developments site on Charlotte Quay in Ringsend, Dublin. He was one of the numerous victims the building boom.

But he is merely a footnote in Frank Mac-Donald's new book The Construction of Dublin.
Instead MacDonald points to the how the Charlotte Quay development is "an example of how buildings can of how buildings can contribute positively to the urban environment.

Irrelevant

The fact that nobody from Ringsend can afford to live there is apparently irrelevant. MacDonald previously campaigned against the property speculators and fought to defend the architectural heritage of the city. He always had a tendency to be more condency to be more con-cerned with Georgian facades than with the conditions living conditions of those who lived there. But he was at least against the vandals and their pursuit of profit.

His latest book contains a wealth of information about the recent developments in the city. He is critical of and the refusal of successive governments to plan transport. His account of the corruption around the Liffey Valley Centre is clear.

But MacDonald suf-fers from overwhelming confusion about class. He is delighted with the boom, but regretful that it isn't shared equally.

He is appalled at traffic chaos, and the mess over LUAS, but thinks that the workers in CIE are holding the country to ransom.

The most telling section is on Temple Bar. MacDonald lives in one of the "nice" developments he praises and he glows over the modem architecture in the area. The problem, apparently, is not that working people can't afford to live there but pubs. For MacDonald there are just too many pubs with too many noisy oiks getting in the way of the culture. You get the impression that if good liberals like Frank were to take charge with their sense of European style everything would be fine. The real issue though is that we need to take planning out of the hands of the profi-teers and their puppet politicians.

The construction of Dublin, Gandon Press £15
— SIMON
BASKETTER

film

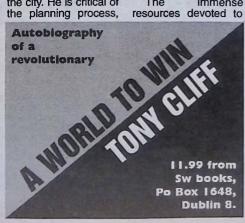

BREAD AND CIRCUSES

by CONOR KOSTICK

AD 180. Europe is ruled by the immensely pow-erful Roman Empire. An Empire, which is capable of incredible monumental works — such as the Colusseum in Rome, built to hold 50,000 people.

Yet at the heart of the the extraordinary achievements of Rome is a barbarity greater than that of the tribes who have succumbed to the Roman military machine.

The immense resources devoted to

A slave with an axe to grind

the Colusseum are for the purpose of providing an arena for the public to watch wild animals tear apart human beings, and for the spectacle of condemned. condemned men slaughtering each other in mock battles. each

Ridley Scott's new film Gladiator is centred on the Colusseum and the fate of one of these fight-

As in 1492, the powerful visual effect of Scott's direction is to contrast the freedom of life on the land to the dark and cloying decay of the city.

The cruel and unstable Emperor Commodus is using "bread and circuses" to keep the mass of urban poor behind him in his battle with the Sen-

But basing his popu larity on the crowd is a risky business - especially when they begin to fol-low a Gladiator determined to obtain revenge on Commodus.

Spartacus

This film may not have the sophistication of the politics in Spartacus, nor the same spine tingling moments of solidarity and rebellion, but it does have extraordinary battle scenes and a good tale of defiance against absolute As Ridley Scott put it, in a quote that is consciously ironic given the role of Hollywood:
"Entertainment has frequently been used as a tool of leaders as a means to distract an abused citizenry.

The most tyrannical ruler must still beguile his people even as he brutalizes them. The gladiatorial games were such a distraction.

"Our story suggests that, should a hero arise out of the carnage of the arena, his popularity would give him tremendous power...and were he to be a genuine cham-pion of the people, he might threaten even the most absolute tyrant.

where we stand

Workers create all the wealth in capitalist society. A new society can only be constructed when they collectively seize control of that wealth and plan its production and

FOR REVOLUTION, NOT REFORM_

THUL TOLUME

The present system cannot be reformed out of existence. Parliament cannot be used to end the system.

The courts army and police are there to defend the interests of the capitalist class not to run society in a neutral fashion.
To destroy capitalism, workers need to smash the state and create a workers' state based on workers'

FOR REAL SOCIALISM. EAST AND WEST_

The SWP welcomed the break-up of the USSR and the end of the East European dictatorships. These states were not socialist but were run by a state-capitalist class. We are against the domination of the globe by imperialist powers and we oppose their wars. We are for the right of all nations, East and West, to self-determination.

FOR AN END TO ALL OPPRESSION_

We oppose all forms of oppression which divide and weaken the working class. We are for full social, economic and political equality for women women.

We stand for: free contraception and free, legalised abortion and the right to divorce; the complete separation of church and state, an end to church control over schools and hospitals; an end to discrimination against gays and lesbians; an end to racism and anti-traveller bigotry.
We argue for working class unity in the fight against oppression.

FOR WORKERS' UNITY IN THE NORTH_

Northern Ireland is a sectarian state, propped up by the British Army.

Catholic workers are systematically discriminated against by the state. The division between Catholic and Protestant workers weakens the whole working class.
Workers' unity can only be won and maintained in a fight to smash both the Northern and Southern states.

FOR A FIGHTING TRADE UNION MOVEMENT

Trade unions exist to defend worl ers' interests. But the union lead-ers' role is to negotiate with capi-talism—not to end it.

We support the leaders when they fight but oppose them when they betray workers. We stand for independent rank and file action.

FOR A REVOLUTIONARY PARTY.

To win socialism socialists need to To win socialism socialists need to organise in a revolutionary party. This party needs to argue against right-wing ideas and for overthrow ing the system. The SWP aims to build such a party in Ireland.

Fax (01) 872 3838 F-mail swn@clubi.ie

letters

PO BOX 1648, Dublin 8

or send to WHY DO THEY WA TO DEPORT

DRUG USERS NEED

THE RECENT and as yet unexplained, serious illness affecting injecting heroin users in Glasgow, Dublin and England and Wales has brought the issue of drug use to the fore over the last fortnight.

In Dublin there has been a

In Dublin there has been a cluster of deaths among heroin users and eight people have died at the time of writing.

It is only in recent years that the state has invested in treatment services, and the number of people on methadone maintenance has grown to about 4,600.

The recent number of deaths has made the issue more topical, and the calls for rational and informed discussion of the issues surrounding dependent drug use in particular are wel-

It is to be hoped that this debate will allow dependent drug use to be seen as a public health problem, rather than pri-health problem, rather than primarily as a criminal one.

It is also saddening to note that while underfunding of services played an important role in the non-availability of treatment in 1980's and early 1990's, that probably the greatest present obstacle is the reluctance of communities to accept treatment communities to accept treatment services in their areas. Such

RECENT ATTEMPTS by Fine Gael, Labour, the PDs and Fianna Fail to distance themselves from the corruption of the 1980s rings hollow in the light of Frank Dunlop's statement

1980s rings hollow in the light of Frank Dunlop's statement that councillors accepted bribes last year and the fact that Fianna Fail got £450,000 from property developers in 1998.

Corruption is still rampant in politics. The 'punishment' of Denis Foley with a 14 day holiday makes a farce of this supposed democracy. As does Labour's corporate golf classic fundraiser. It shows the country and its politicians are still run for and by capitalists. However, it is not just an Irish phenomenon. A minister resigned last week in Israel after admitting he was bribed. Corruption is inherent in the system.

□Rory Hearne Tramore, Co. Waterford.

fears have been turned to electoral advantage by local politi-cians and have resulted in a situation where treatment is available in some areas, but not in others, often among the worst affected.

The continued expansion of these services, and their need to he accessible and attractive to drug users, has never been more necessary.

□A doctor, Dublin

THE IRISH government is threatening to deport refugees. Kosavan Does it not care about our plight?

My father is a Serb and my mother was Albanian. We lived in the South of Kosovo and after the war there was such huge hatred.

I was asked to join the KLA but refused because I did not want to kill my father's people.

I had to spend one month in hiding and then flee to the North of Kosova. I cannot go back to where I was born.

The Serb minority dominates the North. But again I found myself in trouble because I had an Albanian mother.

Hatred

There is still huge hatred in Kosovo. I think that Western interests have stoked it up and there was no need for such terrible bombing to get rid of one man, Milosevic.

But my life is in danger if I go back. Why is your government threatening me now?

□Kosovan Refugee

Heritage ghjacked

AS AN archaeologist I would like to let people know about what's going on in the industry.

The Government and the powerful road lobby are attempting to reduce the amount of archaeological work taking place in this country They want to build more motorways quicker and don't want to pay for excavations.

If they force through this reduction archaeological workers will be made unemployed. There is the chance that important archaeological may be destroyed, like Newgrange, because of the developers greed to make money of our heritage. □Paula Geraghty Dublin make money at the cost

Race and class

I WOULD like to tell you about the Anti Nazi League Collection I did in school.

I went into school and said to my teacher that I had a form about stopping racism in Ireland.

She instantly read the letter out to the class and almost everybody wanted to sign it and put money towards putting the Declaration in the paper.

ElMolly O'Grady (Age 10) Rialto, Dublin

SOCIAL BIG FOR

THIS IS the first time since the sixties that a significant minority has identified capitalism as the problem. In the US and France, there is an anti-capitalist movement. In Ireland it is still only a mood but it is coming. We have to prepare'

This is how Kieran Allen opened the 50 strong National Committee meeting of the Socialist Workers Party.

"Revolutionaries have been saying 'Jail the Corrupt Politicians 'for four years. Now Mary Harney apparently agrees but only because hundreds of thou-sands of workers have started to sands of workers have started to see though the system. We are witnessing a huge change - and so our party has to change.

"Up to now we met in bigger or to now we met in oliger branches and had a general dis-cussion. If we are honest we mainly organised ourselves, the minority of revolutionaries. Now we must shift to leading struggles we must shift to leading struggles in local areas. That means you have to have roots; you have to adopt an agitational style; you have the answer the question what is to be done.

The National Committee agreed to re-organise the SWP agreed to re-organise the SWP into small agitational branches, starting in Dublin.

In the next few weeks new branches are being formed in Ballyfermot, Kilbarrack, Fairview; Stoneybatter, Cabra, Lucan/Leiblin Dundrum Stoneybatter, Lucan/Leixlip, Dundrum.

Storm centres

Each meeting will start with a topical subject and become storm centres of agitation.

One of the first initiatives will be popularising the anti-racist declaration. The National Committee agreed that every SWP member should raise at least £20 in their own workplace to fund the declaration.

One comrade desvribed her workpice, "Anti-racist work has made a huge change in my job." one comrade said." I got 17 people to the recent Anti-Nazi League March. We raised £90 for the declaration be in the label of the l the declaration. It is all helping to shift the athmosphere in the

"Up to now we got the usual sexist Women from Venus Men from Mars e-mails. Now all the e mails are about corruption."she Shifting to smaller branches is going to change the SWP. Everyone is going to have to learn to organise, to recruit and to integrate new members. I think we can build well in Kilbar-rack" said Gearoid.

Revolutionary youth marching against racism

rack" said Gearoid.

Johnny from Waterford agreed, "There are three or four of us living in Ballybeg, a large working class area in Waterford. Fianna Fail have a cumman on the estate and spread their poison about travellers. We recently organised a successful anti-refuse charges meeting there. We should now get a branch going, announce ourselves and start pulling people in to defeat FF ites". The party also agreed to shift to a major recruitment shift to a major recruitment drive to expand in the new cli-

loin the Socialists

(PLEASE USE BLOCK CAPITALS)

Telephone Union E-mail....

want to join the SWP

I want more information

I want to get Socialist Worker fortnightly I want to subscribe to the SWP e-mail network

Return to SWP PO Box 1648 Dublin 8. Tel (01) 872 2682

SWP branch meetings

☐ ATHLONE: Contact 01-872 2682 for

☐ BRAY: Meets every Wednesday at the

Mayfair Hotel at 8.30pm

☐ BELFAST CENTRAL: Meets every Tuesday at 8.30pm in WhytesBar.

BELFAST QUEEN'S UNI Meets every □ BELFAST QUEEN'S UNI Meets every Tuesday 1pm (see poster for details)
□ BELFAST SOUTH: Meets every Wednesday at 8.30pm in Queens Students Union □ CORK: Meets every Wednesday at 8.00pm in O'Donoghue's Pub, Drawbridge St □ DERRY: Meets every Thursday at 8.30pm in Badgers Bar upstairs, Orchard St.
□ DUNDALK: Contact 01 - 872 2682 for details

details

DUN LAOGHAIRE: Meets every Tuesday at 8.30pm in the Christian Institute

DUBLIN ARTANE / COOLOCK: Meets

every Tuesday at 8.30pm in Artane / Beau-mont Recreational Centre (opp. Artane Cas-

☐ DUBLIN NORTH CENTRAL: Meets every Wednesday at 8.30pm in Conways Pub, Par-

DUBLIN NORTH WEST: Meets ever Wednesday at 8.30pm in O'Mahoney's Pub, Phibsboro (near Crossguns bridge)

DUBLIN DUNDRUM: Meets every Thursday at 8.30pm in Dundrum family recreation

□ DUBLIN RIALTO: Meets every Wednesday at 8:30pm St. Andrews Community Centre,

DUBLIN RATHMINES: Meets every LI DUBLIN RATHMINES: Meets every Wednesday at 8.30pm Upstairs in La Touche, 24 Earlsfort Terrace Dublin 2 DUBLIN SOUTH CENTRAL: Meets every Thursday at 8.30pm in Trinity Inn, Pearse St □ DUBLIN TALLAGHT: Meets every Monday at 8.30pm in Jobstown Community Centre ☐ ENNISKILLEN: Phone 01 - 872 2682 for

☐ GALWAY: Meets every Wednesday in Currans Hotel, Eyre Square (beside Cuba)

☐ LIMERICK: Phone 01 - 872 2682 for

☐ LUCAN: Phone 01-8722682 for details SLIGO Meets fortnightly on Saturdays, phone 01-8722682 for details ☐ TRALEE: Phone 01 - 872 2682 for details

☐ WATERFORD: Meets every Thursday at 8pm in the ATGWU Hall, Keizer St.

IMPACT

Conference shifts left Sacked for recent IMPACT conference voted unanimously to organise a nationprotest to demand the jailof corrupt politicians.

The conference took place against a background of recent revelations from Frank Dunlop, which showed that bribery has become part and parcel of the planning process.

IMPACT organises most of the low paid cler-ical staff in local authori-

While top managers like George Redmond, received regular 'donations' from builders these workers tried to maintain a service for the public.

The union also took a strong stance against racism. Delegates voted to oppose the government to fingerprint refugees.

They also voted to organise a ballot for action against the government refusal to pay refugees their proper welfare entitlements.

Anyone who is out of work is legally entitled to social welfare. There is that they have to be Irish citizens.

Yet the government is treating refugees who came here since November 1999 differently and insists on only giving them a £15 a week allowance plus provision for their food and board.

Organise

decision IMPACT to organise a ballot shows there is a strong sentiment in the trade union movement against racist discrimina-

The conference also showed that it was dissatisfied with the progress the union was making on

The union leadership won the argument that they should enter the government's 'benchmarking system'.

But everyone who voted for this assumed that their own grades would get a rise in pay because their wages did not reflect the true value of their work.

In reality 'benchmarking' will turn out to be a system for putting extra pressure on workers and anger will grow when expectations have been disappointed.

Despite the argument of the union general sec-retary, Peter McLoone, the conference passed a resolution from the Dun Laoghaire branch calling for a serious push to win higher pay for clerical officers who form a large component of the union's membership.

According to Roisin Cronin, 'A starting salary of 10,000 is not good enough when the economy is booming and house prices are so high. need improvements'.

Trinity College

ACTION

SIPTU at TCD were balloting for indus-trial action over the issue of car park-

spaces

Socialist Worker

Early in 1999 staff could avail of 500 free parking spaces, however these have been slashed due to major building works by the college.

What has really incensed

staff, however, is that a temporary parking space opened by the college has not been used to protect the staff's free-parking facility.

Feelings are running so high that many non-union staff members are likely to went to press.

MEMBERS

BALLOT FOR

OF

as

WORKERS AT the for any of the hours we German Supermarwork before opening or ket chain ALDI are after closing.

on strike after the company sacked five workers for joining the trade union Mandate.

Aldi

Aldi has been in Ireland only about six months but in that time staff say they have had nothing but problems.

One of the worker described to Socialist Worker what its like to work in an Aldi supermarket

Advertise

"They advertise in their window that they pay £7 an hour but that is

"They pay £6.25 an hour and getting that out of them is a nightmare. they constantly leave us

"Two women have already had them up in court over this.

"We are only paid for the trading hours of the joining a union shop. We don't get paid

> "Everyone is on 20 hour contracts but nobody works 20 hours. We work at least 40 hour, often a lot more. But it suits them to keep us on contracts.

"We are entitled to two weeks holiday pay but because our contracts are for 20 hours they only give us 40 hours holiday pay when we should be getting much more".

"We are shop assistants and cashiers but we are expected to clean floors and toilets at weekends.

"That is not our job but they threaten you if you don't."

"Bulling by management is commonplace, it the worst part" said another worker.

"It's our right to join a trade union and we are prepared to fight for that right".

The Aldi company negotiates with unions in Germany and in Denmark but refuse to do so in Ireland.

Boycott

Workers are asking people to boycott the Aldi shop in Parnell St until they Aldi agree to recognise Mandate.

They are particularly appealing to members of the refugee community, many of whom shop at Aldi to boycott the shop and plan to produce leaflets in the language of the major refugee groups.

"If people don't pass the pickets we know we can bring Aldi to its knees." said an Aldi strik-

N.I. Social Workers

Limited industrial action taken by social workers in North and West Belfast has ended. According to Kevin Lawrenson, a NIPSA Rep. 'in the view of members the campaign of industrial action was effective".

The action saw social workers working a strict 37 hour week and refusing to undertake other work.

Even without the two planned half day strikes, management agreed to six extra social work staff.

The social workers showed how industrial action can force employers into remedying workers' grievances

Across the North, social work staff, their managers and politicians agree that children will not be protected without more investment in ser-

But nothing was done

until the threat of strikes.

The industrial action was called off as review groups — composed of union reps, practitioners and management-were set up to examine the NIPSA issues.

Management has agreed to accept the findings of the review groups, whatever the cost implications.

PNA

PSYCHIATRIC Nurses who have been operat-ing a work to rule action were planning to esca-late the action into all out strike from June 6th as Socialist Worker went to press. Over 1,000 nursing officers in three major psychiatric hospitals are protesting at the governments attempt to renege on commitments given under the new partnership deal.

The government had agreed to differentials between grades, which would be paid by October 2001. They are now saying that they will not be paid until PFP expires

NIPSA

New mood to fight

Ireland Public Sector (NIPSA) Alliance conference in Newcastle last week was the most left-wing for years. Around 250 delegates repeatoverturned motions from the conservative NIPSA leadership.

cided with the return of the Assembly at Stormont and delegates speaking from the floor said repeatedly that this meant it was time to address the issues affecting public sector work-

The right wing leadership of the union was outvoted on a number of

Pfizer

UNOFFICIAL STRIKE action by 140 SIPTU production operators at the multi national Pfizer Pharmaceuticals closed down production in one third of its Ringaskiddy plant

The six-day action was precipated by the temporary suspension of two workers for refusing to work new schedules, which had not been arranged with the union.

In a display of solidarity over 50 construction workers currently at the plant refused to cross the pickets. Construction Industry Federation bosses were supposed to be 'livid' at the action and pressurised the building firm to clamp down on the workers.

and pressurised the building firm to clamp down on the workers.

One worker said, "We are sick and tired of the way management treat us. Our stress levels are as high as our productivity - social partnership has not benefited us a bit."

The new work schedules have been suspended pending a Labour Relations Commission review.

TUI

MEMBERS OF the Teachers Union of ireland have voted overwhelmingly to pursue a pay claim beyond the limits of PPF.

Workers voted 3 to 1 against accepting the 3 percent "early settlers" increase, which the ICTU tried to claim was part of

The motion put to members said that the 3 percent claim "does not bridge the gap between teachers and other public sector workers.

Feelings are running high in the union with many members become increasing angry by the terms of PPF.

A member of the TUI executive who spoke to Socialist Worker said the vote was "very significant, which was reflected in the high turnout."

Voted

Sixty percent of the union's 10,000 members voted.

The other teachers union the ASTI have already put in for a 30 percent pay rise.

What is important now is that the TUI and ASTI join forces to fight for a decent pay rise for its members.

ference voted to replace the women's committee, seen as controlled by the leadership, with a more open equality commission and payment for health and safety courses. One long-standing dele-gate told Socialist Worker:

"This year there has been a strong opposition to the union leadership.

"A fighting mood is emerging but this now needs to be focussed and organ-ised."

Social workers from North and West Belfast who had been engaged in strike action over jobs and funding were warmly applauded by the delegates

The social workers show what action car achieve," said one delegate.

There was uproar over the union leaders' failure to support action by term-time workers employed in schools who had recently voted to ballot for industrial

Term-time workers, such classroom assistants. receive no pay and can't claim benefits during school holidays.

Ballot

The Southern Education and Library Board workers were told by NIPSA leaders that they couldn't go ahead with the ballot.

Delegate after delegate called for support for term-

There was a walkout of 50 delegates when the decision was reported to conference on Thursday.

A meeting of 100 term-time workers and their supporters in Killilea on Thurs-day night resolved to take unofficial action.

This was reported to the conference on Friday morning and succeeded in getting an emergency meeting of the General Council to support the dispute.

The left-wing mood of the conference was reflected in the sales of 62 copies of Socialist Worker. percent of staff to consider leaving Trinity. Campaign join in whatever industrial in parking spaces, the inadequate numbers of parking spaces was causing some 20

Already, before the cuts

action is decided upon.

The union is simultaneously running a campaign for greater government subsidies of public transport but in the meantime point out that if staff have to pay for city centre parking they face a wage cut of about 10

Action is not expected to begin until after the summer.

Colmeg Ltd

After 22 weeks at workers Colmeg Ltd. of Cork Street have voted to end their dispute.

The company is owned by Brian Tucker, a small-time textile capitalist with a track record of opening and clos-ing businesses with no regard for his staff.

In this case he never even met the workers to tell them that they were to be laid off, but simply locked them out and left a note telling them that their wages were in the

Tucker nearly landed himself in trouble, when the workers, who were members of SIPTU, up pickets instead of walking away.

demand was that Tucker meet the union to negotiate a proper redundancy package.

The support from passing traffic on Dublin's busy Cork Street was non-stop and the local branch of the SWP found huge support for workers at their stalls.

But after five weeks of subsistence on strike pay, the workers voted to end their dispute having to settle for just statutory redundancy.

The shop steward said "I'm very disappointed, but I understand why people voted to end it. They are suffer-ing from real hard-

SIPTU is a union enormous resources and many members in the textile industry locally - yet not one collec tion was organised by officials during the five weeks of the dispute.

Had the evident support been manners could have been put this greedy on employer.

50p

inside

Eamonn McCann on

The splits in Unionis

Israel & Lebanon

- page 4

Gardai shoot to kill Blair defends RUC

- pages 2, 5

Solidarity price £1

For a Workers' Republic and International Socialism

Assembly starts with a whimper

THERE WAS very little celebration when the new Northern Ireland Assembly was restarted on 28 May. And no wonder.

After weeks of tortuous nego-tiations and the close vote at the Ulster Unionist Council, the first week of the revived assembly was dominated by arguments over flags and the threat of further instability from anti-agreement unionists unionists.

The assembly has been the focus for the aspirations of many working class people, who still hope that it will symbolise a new era for Northern Ireland politics. But the first week shows that it will frustrate those hopes at every turn.

The assembly's structure is dominated by sectarian division. Paisley's DUP know that by getting 60 per cent of unionists to support them, they can bring it down.

support them, they can bring it down.

Paisley's party have decided to take up their ministerial positions in the executive, but will not attend executive meetings with Sinn Fein or meetings of the cross-border ministerial council. They have said that they will put their salaries into a fighting fund to defeat Trimble's pro-agreement unionists at the next election.

The Ulster Unionists say they want the assembly to work but they are repeatedly drawn back on to the hard right agenda, for fear of losing their own electoral support.

Two days after the first meeting of the executive at Stormont, the pro-agreement Ulster Unionist, Reg Empey, voted to support the anti-agreement DUP Sammy Wilson for mayor of Belfast. That same day, Empey, who is Minister for Trade, had been trumpeting the announcement of new jobs for both Harland and Wolff and Shorts.

Sacking

Yet by the end of the week, it became clear that Harland and Wolff would still be sacking 300 workers after this month and there was considerable doubt about the firm supposedly behind the new contracts. A local newspaper tracked down the offices of the company who plan to build two super liners to a run down flat above a shop in Luton.

The contradiction of working with Sinn Fein while maintaining that republicans are the "real that republicans are the "real enemy" will continually threaten to tear unionism apart.

This is fertile soil for the right wing of unionism who will use every device, from flags to changes to the police, to re-draw the sectarian division again.

But there is an alternative to the bigots. Across Northern Ireland there is now a mood to shift onto class issues that have taken a back seat during the years of armed conflict.

Many know that a divided working class means that we receive some of the lowest wages in Britain and Ireland.

They want to overcome those divisions - but that will mean confronting the communal politicians with a socialist alternative.

WHILE THE politicians argue about the flags flying from public buildings, public services in the North are fast being run down are fast being run down.

Public transport is being cut back due to underfunding.

Local hospitals still face closure, with acute services being withdrawn from the South Tyrone Hospital in Omagh.

Jim Kerr of the South Tyrone Action Group said, "In the last eighteen months we have seen Dungannon go from being a thriving hospital to nearly nothing now. It now looks like they will close the hospital by the end of July, which is devastating for the people here." Jim says that the real problem is lack of resources.

"Craigavon hospital
is where they say they are concentrating resources but it has over one thou-

has over one thousand people on the waiting list for elective surgery."

The only solution is to tax the rich to provide a decent service. Yet every party in the assembly want to reduce tax on company profits.

Nothing could more clearly show why we need to build alternative politics from the

itics from the ground up